24-Hour Halt

By C. L. Sulzberger
Copyright by New York Times

Moscow, Aug. 13.—Reichfuehrer Hitler's second major offensive against the Soviet Union from the Baltic to the Black Sea has been halted for 24 hours.

Despite desperate efforts by the German high command the offensive has so far been unable to get going again in the face of tremendous Russian resistance.

Perhaps the two most significant communiques published by the Red army since the outbreak of hostilities June 22 were issued today, one early this morning and another at noon. Their phraseology was identical, and they say only that "nothing of importance occurred on any front."

Smolensk Given Up

[The third communique of the day, however, according to the United Press, admitted the German army's occupation "a few days ago" of Smolensk, vital gateway to Moscow.

[Although the Red army on the central front evacuated Smolensk after more than three weeks of day and night battles, the high command said that heavy fighting still rages in the vicinity of this railroad and industrial city 230 miles west of Moscow.

(The German high command announced the capture of Smolensk on July 16.)

[The new communique revealed that German forces on the northern front have struck eastward to the vicinity of the important railroad center of Staraya Russa near the southern shores of Lake Ilmen and 130 miles south of Leningrad.

Strike Along Railroad

[Staraya Russa is 40 miles east of Solsti, last reported as the scene of fighting on the southern arc of the Germans' attempted encirclement of Leningrad. However, Staraya Russa is no nearer Leningrad than Solsti and it appeared that the Germans were striking along the railroad that runs eastward from Pskov through Porkhov and Staraya Russa in an effort to slice the important Moscow-Leningrad railroad. The east-west railroad through Staraya Russa joins the Moscow-Leningrad line about 90 miles east of Staraya Russa.

[The communique told of a renewal of fighting in the Kexholm area on the northwestern shore of Lake Ladoga, 70 miles north of Leningrad, where German and Finnish forces apparently have been unable to make any real progress for a week on the northern arc of the Leningrad "pincer" attack.

[Fighting also was said to have been renewed in the Bel-Tserkov sector, 45 miles southwest of Kiev.

Raiders Go as Far as Baltic

By the Associated Press

London, Aug. 13.—Masses of bombers—roof-scraping Blenheims and high-altitude American-made fortress planes—fanned out through a disorganized German fighter defense and bombed Berlin and a dozen other German and German-held cities last night in a continuing day and night offensive, Britain announced tonight.

The bombers pounded Berlin for two hours, starting many fires which were visible for great distances, the air ministry stated, and they reached the Krupp arms works at Essen and there started "a tremendous fire half a mile long."

Despite extremely unfavorable weather some of the attackers flew beyond Berlin to Stettin on the Baltic Coast.

Wellingtons, Manchesters, Stirlings and Halifaxes also were among the planes used.

The bombers "fought their way through every defense Berlin could muster," the ministry said. "Searchlights in the hundreds massed in groups of 30 or 40 followed the bombers through the sky and the barrage continued without remission."

"The weather kept our bombers over Berlin for a long time," the account said, "circling among one of the worst barrages they have ever had to face."

The burst of one shell filled a bomber with smoke and wounded two men, but the plane returned safely.

Another crew walked into its station carrying fragments of wood from a tree which their plane had

Meat Industry Chiefs Indicted As Price Fixers

Defendants Include Cudahy, Armour Swift and Wilson

By the Associated Press

Chicago, Aug. 13.—A Federal grand jury today indicted 118 corporate and individual figures in the meat industry in 29 States on charges of "conspiring to fix the price of ham at Easter time in violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act."

It was the fourth and largest indictment returned here since a Nation-wide inquiry into food prices was begun eight months ago. Previously 12 defendants were charged with conspiracy to fix certain hog prices, 12 others with conspiracy to fix sheep prices, and 69 with conspiracy to fix the price of canned peas.

The indictment today alleged that a conspiracy in ham prices had existed for the last five years; that the meat packers named sold more than 80 per cent of the hams in the United States, and that they had plants in some 30 States. Among the 32 corporate defendants were the American Meat Institute and the "Big Four" meat packers—Cudahy, Armour, Swift and Wilson.

On motion of Daniel B. Britt, special prosecutor in charge of antitrust investigations here, Judge William H. Holly set bond for each defendant at $1000.

Britt said that in one Easter season the retail price of hams advanced 7 cents a pound.

A statement issued by the American Meat Institute said:

"In the absence of an opprtunity to study the allegations against us, all we can say is this: Neither the American Meat Institute nor any of its committees, officers or employes have violated the antitrust laws or any other laws. All of the activities of this association have been strictly confined to proper and legitimate activities. It should be remembered that grand jury proceedings are ex parte (one sided)."

Word Awaited From Wickard On Milk Price

Draft of Revised Order Is Making Rounds of Advisors

Whether Washingtonians are in for an increase in the price of milk remained a mystery yesterday as all concerned entered their eighth week of watchful waiting.

It was on June 25 that public hearings on amendment of the Federal marketing order for this area came to a close. Since then farmers and dairymen, as well as consumers, have been waiting for action by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard.

An aid declared yesterday that the draft of the revised order is still making the rounds of Wickard's advisers before being placed on his desk for approval.

When it requested a 46-cents-per-hundredweight increase last June, approximately 1 cent a quart, the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association recommended that the new price become effective on August 1.

Officials believe that the unusual delay is partly due to strong objections by Representative William T. Schulte (Democrat), of Indiana, and Leon Henderson, OPACS administrator, both of whom have communicated their views to Secretary Wickard.

On the other hand, producers supplying Baltimore, Richmond and Norfolk with milk are now being paid more than farmers in this area. Meanwhile, hearings are being held in New York on the third increase of the year.

By its delay in acting on the price boosts and other proposed amendments to the Federal marketing order here, the Department of Agriculture is holding up plans for establishment of a much needed one-cent milk program in Washington schools and expansion of the nickel-quart project for needy families.

With opening of the fall term only a month away, school officials are

Battle of the Shrubbery

Gen. Fries Sits Tight Behind Hedge as Law Reconnoiters

Cautious reconnoitering by police and watchful waiting by Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, retired chief of the Army's Chemical Warfare Service, were the only developments in yesterday's "Battle of the Hedges."

Gen. Fries sat tight behind his high green "fortifications" at 3305 Woodley Road and waited for the "enemy."

The enemy—Patrolman J. W. Carroll, Eighth Precinct, spent the day on a scouting expedition, including a visit to the office of the District surveyor, in an attempt to determine the exact boundaries of Gen. Fries' private property.

Private Carroll reported he had learned that Gen. Fries is entitled, under the law, to have a hedge as high as he wants so long as it is within a space 41 and nine-tenths feet from the front of his Woodley Road home to the sidewalk.

Armed with tape measure, attacker Carroll moved forward only to run into a wall—a cement one—which raised another question of boundary.

"To determine the exact 41 9/10 feet, should the ground be measured to the general's side of the wall or the sidewalk side?"

Carroll decided upon continued reconnoitering—another trip to the surveyors' office, which he intends to make today.

The wall, it was said, is about 1 foot thick, and with neither side willing to give even an inch, the

Final Action On Draft Bill Sought Today

New Vote Avoided

By Hedley Donovan

Senate leaders yesterday accepted the House version of the 18-month draft extension bill and prepared to seek final Congressional action on the measure today.

By asking the Senate to approve the House bill Administration forces can avoid another vote on the legislation in the lower chamber, which passed the draft extension by a one-vote margin in a dramatic roll call Monday night.

The House bill and the measure approved by the Senate last Thursday are virtually identical. Both provide for an 18-month extension of the maximum service period of selectees, National Guardsmen, reservists and Regular Army personnel. The legislation removes the present limitation of 900,000 on the number of draftees who may be kept in the Army at one time.

Bonus Agreed On

Amendments adopted by both the House and Senate provide a $10-a-month bonus for all noncommissioned officers and men for every month served in excess of one year.

Senate Majority Leader Barkley said yesterday that "the sensible course" would be for the Senate to approve the House bill and thus send it directly to the White House.

The House changes in the language approved last week by the Senate were "all good," according to Senator Thomas (Democrat), of Utah, ranking majority member of the Military Affairs Committee and floor manager for the bill in the Senate.

He said he would offer the motion for approval of the House bill and expected the Senate to complete action today.

Democrats Called Back

Administration leaders said the scant margin of victory for the bill in the House might inspire "some speechmaking" in the Senate today but that they expected no serious effort to delay passage of the bill. Several Democratic Senators who had left town earlier this week were summoned back by telegram for tomorrow's vote. The Senate originally approved the draft extension by a vote of 45 to 30.

Senate noninterventionists conceded yesterday that they lack the

Ford Introduces First Plastic Car at Detroit

Dearborn, Mich., Aug. 13 (U.P.).—Ford Motor Co. officials tonight unveiled Henry Ford's first plastic automobile at the fifteenth annual Community Festival of this city, which the Nation's leading auto builder developed along with his far-flung industrial empire.

The showing capped 12 years of research by 20 young scientists whom Ford had commissioned to find out about "using agricultural products in industry."

The sleek car, mounted on a tubular-welded steel frame, has a superstructure composed entirely of a plastic fiber, a material said to be superior to steel in everything but tensile strength.

Its manufacture on a mass-production basis, Ford officials said, would enable widespread use of agricultural products—cotton, wheat, soybeans and corn—and huge savings of steel and other vitally needed defense materials.

Errol Flynn Must Live On $12,000 a Month

Los Angeles, Aug. 13 (AP).—Errol Flynn, of the films, says it costs him $14,595 a month to live. Judge Albert F. Ross decided he could get along on $12,000.

The matter came up in a motion for dismissal of an attachment suit by Actor's Agent Myron Selznick.

Attorney Leo Gold told the Court Warner Brothers pays Flynn $6,000 a week and said the actor's expenses included $5000 taxes, $4000 publicity, $1000 upkeep on a boat, $1200 household and $3000 personal expenses.

Momentous Disclosure Today Promises to End Mystery Of Roosevelt-Churchill Talk

London Forecasts 'Clear Division' Between Democratic And Axis Nations

By Edward W. Beattie, Jr.
United Press Staff Correspondent.

London (Thursday), Aug. 14. Disclosure of a "clear division" between the democracies and the Axis resulting from Anglo-United States talks was awaited today as the British government prepared to issue "the most momentous announcement of the war" at 3 p. m. (9 a. m. Washington time.)

(This meant, undoubtedly, that simultaneous announcements in London and Washington will reveal a secret meeting of President Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill at a North Atlantic rendezvous to discuss means of crushing Hitlerism.)

Maj. Clement R. Attlee, lord privy seal in the Churchill war cabinet and spokesman for the Prime Minister during the latter's absence, will reveal what is being described as "one of the war's worst kept secrets" when he makes announcement by radio at 3 p. m.

Speculation Barred

Attlee's announcement will "deal with matters of the highest importance to Britain and other nations," it was stated in high quarters.

Morning newspapers, in prominent page one bulletins, called upon all the British people to tune in on "the big news from Attlee today."

"Important! Listen at 3 p. m. today!" said headlines.

The Daily Herald said that advance speculation was prohibited but "it can be stated that the speech will deal with matters of profound importance to the war effort."

The British censorship clamped down rigidly on any speculation regarding the nature of Attlee's speech

"Disappearance" Noted

But these dispatches mentioned no names of personalities (four words censored here) which speculation in the United States believes will be announced by Attlee.

(The four words censored by the British in the dispatch evidently mentioned Churchill and Roosevelt).

(Here 25 more words were censored).

Newspapers were allowed, however, to print news of the mysterious disappearance from Washington of such figures as Air Force Leader Gen. H. H. Arnold and Admiral Harold Stark but could not speculate on the possible (2 words censored) motives.

10 Lbs. of New U. S. Explosive Would Blast 25-Mile Hole

Falls Village, Conn., Aug. 13 (AP).—John J. O'Neill, president of the National Association of Science Writers, charged tonight that the Government had "clapped a censorship" on laboratories developing an element which if contained in a ten-pound bomb "would blast a hole 25 miles in diameter and more than a mile deep, and would wreck every structure within 100 miles."

The science editor of the New York Herald-Tribune, asserted at the Housatonic Valley Conference that scientists recently had discovered the method of releasing energy from the uranium atom, and after attributing terrific destructive power to a ten-pound missile of uranium 235, asked:

"Can we trust our politicians and war makers with a weapon like that? The answer is, no. Nevertheless our politicians have taken over control of the scientists who have been working on the application and control of this discovery and are driving them to develop it for war uses.

"They have clapped a censorship in the scientific laboratories where this work is being done and no scientist dares to discuss what he is doing."

'Like a Game of Cards'

New Economic Board Drafts 2 Secret International Moves

The new Economic Defense Board yesterday drafted two secret international economic moves to coordinate and strengthen the national economic defense.

Refusing to make public the steps under consideration at the board's initial meeting, Vice President Wallace declared:

"This is like a game of cards. You don't show your hand to the other fellow in advance."

Set up to coordinate economic defense activities in the foreign field, the board organized at yesterday's meeting, attended by the Secretaries of War, Navy, Treasury, Commerce and Agriculture, and by Francis Biddle, Acting Attorney General, and Dean Acheson, representing Secretary of State Hull.

The Vice President said reports from several Government agencies were being called for before the two international moves are initiated.

"Certain groups were asked to make further reports and investigations into further parts of the work," he told reporters.

"At least 25 Federal departments and agencies have been assigned by Congress to functions pertaining to economic defense. They have been doing a good job," Mr. Wallace added. "The President thought they might do a better job if they had an opportunity to coordinate and exchange views. That is why this board was set up."

House Group Blames Pepper In Base Delay

Was 'Desirous' Firm Get Airfield Contract, Committee Reports

Senator Pepper (Democrat), Florida, was censured yesterday by a special subcommittee of the House Military Affairs Committee for intervention in a dispute over the award of a 3,600,000-gallon asphalt contract for the Army air base at Eglin Field, Fla.

Pepper, according to the subcommittee report, backed the claim to the contract of Pan American Petroleum Corporation, a Florida firm, and took an active part in a controversy which caused an "unreasonable, unwarranted and unjustified" delay in construction of the air field.

While the dispute between Pan American Petroleum and Allied Materials, Inc., over the Eglin Field contract was in progress, the subcommittee stated, another controversy developed between the same firms in regard to an asphalt contract for the Pensacola Municipal Airport.

"Dubious Validity"

The Allied Materials bid was $133 lower, but the contract was awarded to Pan American by W. E. Harkness, Florida State procurement officer for WPA, the report states. Harkness, according to the subcommittee, had been "nominated" by Pepper for a job in the Procurement Division of the Treasury.

Harkness gave "several reasons of dubious validity" for the award to Pan American, the report continues, adding:

"It was apparent that Mr. Harkness had considerable feeling in the matter and that he was aware of the fact that Senator Pepper, who had nominated him for a better job, was desirous of having an award made to Pan American.

Settled by "Compromise"

"The special committee most strongly deplores the fact that any member of Congress would permit, even by inference, an employe of the Government to believe that his promotion to a better position was contingent upon the securing of a Government contract by a particular corporation."

The Eglin field controversy eventually was settled by a "compromise" agreement under which Pan American furnished 1,800,000 gallons of asphalt under a negotiated con-

8-Hour Law Lifted for Vital Defense Work

Copyright by New York Tribune, Inc.

The White House yesterday issued an executive order suspending the eight-hour day provisions for nearly 100,000 workers employed by the War Department in construction work on vital defense projects, in one of a series of moves taken by the Administration to speed the National Defense Program.

Other steps included the announcement by the Office of Production Management that it had received proposals from the steel industry to increase the Nation's annual ingot capacity by 12 million tons, and the first meeting of the economic defense board headed by Vice President Wallace, the board was formed recently to coordinate the economic defense effort of all Government departments.

The executive order, signed by President Roosevelt, was made public at the White House, where it was explained that it was promulgated because of the necessity of completing all military projects at the earliest possible date. The order applies only to public works projects of the War Department within the continental limits of the United States. Similar orders have been issued previously covering workers in outyling defense areas.

War Department officials said that the order would give Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, the power to designate projects that needed to be rushed, and to allow work on them in excess of eight hours a day. In cases where such work is ordered, workers will be paid time and one-half for overtime. It is estimated that about 100,000 men are employed on projects which might be included within the scope of the order.

In an even broader proposal to insure adequate employment in defense industries, Albert W. Hawkes, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, called on the Nation's labor leaders and labor itself yesterday to eliminate the closed shop as one of their main objectives. Saying that the right to work is equally sacred with the right to quit work or strike and that the closed shop is "un-American and monopolistic," Hawkes in a state-

With a Liquor License

D. C. to Challenge Virginia For Control of New Airport

By Robert De Vore.
Post Staff Writer

District officials, backed by leaders at the Capitol, last night were prepared to force a decision in their battle with Virginia for full control of the National Airport at Gravelly Point by issuing a liquor license for the airport restaurant.

District Commissioner Guy Mason declared that the Commissioners have decided "informally" to challenge the right of Virginia to prohibit the serving of liquor at the airport in conformity with State law.

Formal action on the liquor license is scheduled to be taken at a meeting of the Commissioners tomorrow. Mason said the move would determine "once and for all" whether the airport and its big terminal building are located in the District or Virginia.

Senator Pat McCarran (Democrat), of Nevada, chairman of the District Committee, described the pending move for a showdown on the long-standing dispute as "a mandate that all licenses and taxes at the airport will be issued and collected by the District of Columbia."

McCarran announced he would introduce today a bill declaring the airport to be within the District. The measure will be similar to a bill sponsored in the House by Representative Jack Nichols (Democrat),

Attlee to Broadcast To Empire and U. S.; White House to Make Announcement Also

By George Bookman
Post Staff Writer

The war's biggest hide-and-seek mystery is expected to be dramatically solved this morning by joint announcement in the United States and Great Britain that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill have met at a full-dress war conference.

The White House said shortly after midnight that it would have a statement for the press this morning between 8:30 and 9 o'clock.

At approximately the same hour—9 a. m.—Maj. Clement R. Attlee, Lord Privy Seal in the British cabinet and unofficially the acting Prime Minister will make an "important" announcement. He will address the British Empire and the United States by radio.

The nature of the announcements has not been disclosed, but a high British source informed The Post last night that the meeting between the President and Churchill, attended by their military and foreign affairs chiefs, has already taken

Radio Stations Here To Broadcast Speech

Attlee's announcement will be heard over Stations WMAL and WOL at 9 a. m. today. The talk will be broadcast by short wave from London and is expected to last approximately ten minutes.

Station WJSV will not carry the short wave broadcast, it said. Instead, Attlee's announcement will be read at 9 a. m. together with any statement made by this Government, WJSV said.

place and will be publicly revealed today.

Momentous announcements of war policy, affecting the fate of the world, were expected to result from the parley.

The face-to-face conference of the two statesmen, unrivalled for importance except possibly by the meetings between Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini, was believed to have taken place either in Iceland or, according to one of The Post's informants, aboard the U. S. S. North Carolina.

Matters for Discussion

The following evidence convinced informed Washington circles that White House and Attlee announcements would clear up the Roosevelt-Churchill mystery—with a historic bang:

Secretary of State Hull conferred yesterday with the British Ambassador, Lord Halifax, and then with Stephen T. Early, White House secretary in charge of publicity.

This unusual meeting was followed by conferences between Early and Michael J. McDermott, State Department press chief, and between McDermott and S. L. Childs, press counselor of the British Embassy.

While the announcement itself might be confined to an admission that the meeting has taken place, there were grounds for believing that such a conference would canvass the following questions:

1. How to speed aid to Russia and what to do if Russia collapses.

2. Full Anglo-American naval cooperation, perhaps by pooling the two fleets, mightiest in the world.

3. Further joint action in the Far East, supplementing economic steps, to prevent Japan from gobbling up Thailand (Siam) in the

Nazis Expect City To Be Destroyed, Retreat Cut Off

By the Associated Press

Berlin, Aug. 13.—German troops advancing on Odessa from three sides behind a gigantic barrage of air bombs were convinced tonight that the Russian forces in that important Black Sea port would defend it to the death.

Such a decision, German sources declared, would "probably result in the smashing of Odessa."

These sources described the German ground forces and their allies as pressing ever closer to the city from the southwest, west and north, while the Luftwaffe patrolled the sea exits and nearby rivers with bombs and machine guns.

D. N. B. said a German infantry battalion supported by artillery had annihilated a strong Russian rear guard endeavoring to cover withdrawal of the Russians toward Nikolaev, at the mouth of the Bug River and secondary objective in the southern Ukraine.

Counterattack Revealed

The Russians sat tight in buildings of a large but unnamed community, D. N. B. reported, and sought to halt the German advance by counterattacks. The German artillery was said to have smashed the concentration.

Reports reaching Berlin indicated the Russians were trying to transship to the Crimea some of their troops retreating in the southern sector and that barges were ready for such a maneuver.

However, Dienst Aus Deutschland, authoritative German commentary, warned against picturing Odessa as anything like another Dunkerque and expressed the opinion that a life-and-death struggle for possession of the city was definitely in the making.

First, it said, the Russian troops are fighting stubbornly; second, their leaders would choose annihilation rather than attempt an ambitious withdrawal such as the British made at Dunkerque last year, and third, the Russians might strategically choose to let Odessa be smashed.

Great Losses Reported

The German high command said only that in "pursuing the enemy retreating toward Black Sea harbors" the German forces inflicted "great losses" on his rear guards.

With reference to asserted Russian plans to ship some men to the Crimean Peninsula, Dienst declared the German air force already had sunk 22,100 tons of transports in those waters and had damaged two destroyers and a 4,000-ton merchantman.

D. N. B. news agency dispatches pictured all the Odessa hinterland as getting a terrific aerial pounding, with bombers dropping their loads repeatedly, on the Dnepr River crossings, which it said were jammed with retreating Russians.

Rail facilities were declared destroyed in the southern sector yesterday, along with eight Russian tanks and 240 other vehicles.

Red Headquarters Razed

A German war correspondent, Erwin Kirchoff, reported the general headquarters of Russian forces in the southern sector was razed by German air bombs August 4.

"Not a single barracks, no vehicle, no highway or rail line remained intact," he declared. "Clever camouflage, the strongest defense and extraordinarily strong pursuit units were of no avail."

In the central sector, scene of weeks of the bitterest of fighting, D. N. B. related that the Germans "pressed Soviet troops closer together," . . . Attempts to break out of German encirclement resulting in "heavy losses" in men and material.

It quoted one Russian prisoner as saying his division had been virtually annihilated three times and each time was built up anew from the remnants of other divisions.

In the north central area, south of Lake Ilmen, the Germans reported one Russian infantry regiment was encircled and destroyed "except for a few survivors and wounded who fell into our hands."

In the northern sector, where Germans and Finns are fighting the Russians, D. N. B. said Soviet counterattacks were repulsed "with very heavy losses for the Soviets." It listed 46 cannon and 28 tanks as Russian losses in that zone yesterday.

In the past three nights the German air force has dumped 35, 70 and 40 tons of bombs on Moscow, the agency said.

D. N. B. reported that German planes yesterday raided Bryansk, important railway junction 150 miles southeast of Smolensk, damaging tracks and setting a great number of railway cars on fire.

In the same sector, D. N. B. said, a Russian armored train, 11 guns and 8 cars was destroyed in the course of attacks on troop concentrations and field positions.

Planes also were said to have damaged a Russian destroyer in the Baltic, D. N. B. said.

Aerial Tour of Smolensk Front Fairly Safe but Uncomfortable

By Alvin J. Steinkopf
Associated Press Staff Writer

Smolensk (Via Berlin), Aug. 13.—Hitch hiking around the eastern front in a German military plane isn't exactly to be recommended as a restful pastime.

Not the way I saw it today. A Soviet fighter might put in a sudden appearance and start shooting without realizing that he's aiming at an American observer with no hostile intentions whatsoever.

Our tour over the battle-scarred countryside, however, turned out to be about as safe and quite as uncomfortable as the German fliers said it would be. It was a tame assignment for them. They actually read the Berlin morning newspapers while cruising along the front, and when that becomes boring, they munched sandwiches they had tucked away among the dials of the instrument board.

Playful Machine-Gunner

The machine-gunner was perched in an opening of the cabin ceiling, just in case some Russian might pop out of a cloud. He was a youth of great energy, wiggling his gun playfully. He would aim at the sun. Very nice. Then suddenly he would shift to a dark spot in the clouds and grin down, shouting hopefully:

"I believe maybe I saw a Russian?"

As we soared along, the radio operator twisted the dials, but there was a discouraging (to him) lack of reports about any Russians heading in our direction, so this mildly-bored youth turned on an auxiliary receiver and cut in on a Berlin music broadcast. The interference was terrific. So was the roar of the motors. But the operator thought it was fine.

A transport plane isn't to be confused with a German airliner with its luxurious leather seats and lace-curtained windows. The transport is designed for efficiency—not comfort—and passengers sit on steel benches among the bone-cracking gear of war.

Rough on the Skin

Sudden jolts which these young fliers find highly amusing toss you among ammunition. Rough on the skin. And how they turn corners! They could ease around in a graceful swing, but they prefer to kick the machine over sideways and hit the turn with a slamming jolt, giving you the impression that the plane has bashed into a tree.

The Germans say there is comparatively little Russian air activity back of the German lines in the Smolensk area. An occasional Soviet reconnaissance machine shows up, usually at a great height. German chasers get out in a hurry, but seldom can they get sufficient altitude to engage the raider.

Nazis Claim 244 Planes Downed in Day

By the United Press

Berlin, Aug. 13.—German officials, claiming the destruction of 244 Russian and British planes in 24 hours, acknowledged tonight that men, women and children of German cities have been "brought into the front lines" by enemy aerial assaults.

The official D. N. B. news agency claimed 184 Rusian and 60 British planes had been shot down, against the loss of only four Nazi planes which were lost on the Russian front.

Spokesmen paid tribute to the "heroism" of the German civilian populations under the British and Russian air attacks such as those on Berlin, which was bombed by the Royal Air Force Tuesday night and was attacked by Russian planes on four previous nights.

An authorized spokesman told of "heavily bombed towns in western and northern Germany" and warned that the Luftwaffe was preparing to exact "the severest reprisals at a given moment."

Damage Discounted

The German military spokesman said the intensified British attacks can be traced to "strong pressure from the Russians who want a diversion of German forces from the east, a desire which is thoroughly understandable."

He denied that the British and Russian air attacks had caused any important military or other damage.

The German high command said Tuesday night's R. A. F. raid on Berlin was the most active of any recent ones, causing "a few dead and wounded."

Adolf Hitler's Nazi Party organ Voelkischer Beobachter, in its early Thursday morning editions, carried a big headline: "Black day for the British air force" in describing the aerial warfare.

The German spokesman admitted that, as the nights grow longer, the raids naturally will increase in length but added complete reticence must be maintained regarding the results of the attacks "in order not to inform the enemy as to what it accomplished."

Sinkings Claimed

Only a few of the pilots of the 60 British planes said to have been shot down in the 24-hour period were able to escape alive, the German press said.

German bombers have added 19,000 tons to British shipping losses by sinking two freighters totaling 14,000 tons near the Faroe Islands and a 5,000-ton merchantman off the Scottish East Coast, the high command said.

The high command said Nazi planes attacked factories at Birmingham and harbor works at Great Yarmouth and Ramsgate Tuesday night, as well as various airfields in Britain.

In Africa, the communique said, German planes attacked motor truck concentrations southeast of Salum and raided an airfield.

Petain Regime Starts 'New Order'

By the Associated Press

Vichy, Aug. 13.—The reorganized Petain regime swung into its authoritarian program of tightening up the French governmental and social structure tonight, and Vice Premier Admiral Darlan arranged to make a 1½-minute broadcast to the nation tomorrow.

Informed sources said the brief message would be of extreme importance, but gave no hint of its subject.

Darlan first intended to speak tonight, but postponed it because of a rebroadcast of the speech made yesterday by Chief of State Petain.

The program Petain outlined already was getting under way. Organization of a "Council of Political Justice" with Petain as the supreme judge to try the leaders of the French republic accused of "war guilt" is expected to be promulgated soon in the official journal.

Taking stock of the political parties' activities, which Petain said would be stopped, the authoritative Telemondial Agency said he appeared to have in mind particularly the radical and Radical Socialist group which has been holding conferences lately.

Of the French Popular Party movement, in which Jacques Doriot and Col. Francois de La Rocque figure and which is still very active, it was said its "orthodoxy could not be questioned."

The government also was seeking more equitable distribution of food supplies, perhaps France's most pressing internal problem.

Pierre Pucheu, elevated to minister of interior, called on police commissioners to intensify their activity and to "combat bad French prejudices against the police."

Pucheu, who as head of the police, National Surety and Mobile Guards, is the only man besides Darlan having direct control over French armed forces, is a 42-year-old "youngster" who has come rapidly to the front in the Vichy regime.

He first entered the administration councils in February as secretary of state for industrial production, and was dubbed "the commuting minister" because he lived in Paris and came to Vichy on weekends for cabinet sessions.

His appearance and that of other young businessmen in lesser posts marked a new spurt in economic collaboration with Germany, in which Pucheu was one of the leading spirits. He began dealing with German industrialists in 1938 as foreign relations head of the French steel cartel.

Hull Confirms Resignation of Envoy to Thailand

Copyright by New York Times

Secretary of State Hull confirmed yesterday that the resignation of Hugh Gladney Grant as United States Minister to Thailand, which is now threatened by Japanese occupation, had been accepted.

Secretary Hull said that Grant's resignation had been submitted at the time President Roosevelt's third term began and that it had now been accepted along with the resignation of several other diplomats. He paid tribute to the service Grant had rendered in Albania as well as Thailand.

Grant has not been a member of the regular Foreign service, and it was widely believed here that the State Department wanted to rush a Foreign Service officer to Thailand at this critical moment.

Hull declined to reveal who would replace Grant, but said his successor would not be Francis B. Sayre, high commissioner to the Philippines.

High Seas Delay Search for Plane

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 13 (AP).—The search for the plane which crashed into the ocean off Virginia Beach Monday night has been temporarily discontinued, pending abatement of high winds which were kicking up high seas today. Three men lost their lives in the accident.

The men believed to have been lost, since they did not return to Langley Filed with other planes engaged Monday in a tracking mission for the Fort Monroe aircraft batteries, are Second Lieut. Adrien J. Wilcomb, the pilot, of Hammond, La.; Sergt. Allen McC. Rogers, of Bingham, Mass., and Private Philip R. Wheeler, of Rockport, N. Y.

Gunners Bring Down Nazi Planes Almost Too Fast to Report

Pilot Officer Jack Calder, a former Canadian press staff writer, now an observer in the Royal Canadian Air Force, here describes his first operational flight over German-occupied territory as navigator and bomb-aimer.

London, Aug. 13.—Maxie looked at the oil pressure again and then he looked at me.

"I think we might just make it," he said.

Then it was time to dash out to sea, if we were to be at the target at the zero hour. The formation tightened behind us and we climbed for 3 minutes through broken cloud. Behind were other formations—all streaking for Brest and the Gneisenau.

We leveled out and suddenly broke cloud. Below us was blue sea and far ahead the coast of France.

I thought of that bad oil leak which might make our gun turrets unserviceable at the target area. The wireless operator was working desperately to repair it. His wedding was only a couple of weeks ahead and he wanted to come back for it.

Objects on the coast grew bigger and bigger and I went forward to the bomb aimer's position. Max patted me on the shoulder as I passed him. Boy, he was cool. He had refused to turn back because we were leading the formation and there was a job to do.

Antiaircraft Fire

"Look at that ack-ack come up," some one said.

Ahead of us the sky was cluttered with little patches of antiaircraft shell bursts. We headed across the little peninsula toward the drydocks of Brest.

"I'm going to try the run-up from here," Max said over the intercommunicating phone.

"But we're 10 miles off the target and will be there two minutes early if we make our move now," I told him.

"That's all right," he argued. And he was captain. "They're not bothering us now and we've got a good chance of getting in."

"Okay," I said. "Steady ahead. Target."

Below I saw barrage balloons at about 6000 feet. Something was burning on the ground—probably a fighter aircraft.

It happened like a flash.

"Rat-a-tat-tat-tat-tat," went the guns in our rear turret.

"I just shot down an ME109," called the rear gunner. "I didn't even have time to report it."

Two More Fighters

"Heads up," cried the gunner leader. "Here come two more."

"I've got one," called the rear gunner of No. 3 aircraft.

"Let's have less people talking at one time," Maxie ordered. "Give the gunnery leader a chance."

"All right, but I've got an ME109, too," yelled No. 2 rear gunner.

Below us I saw a parachute open. One of our victims had managed to bail out. Someone reported that one fighter had smashed on the ground.

Now we were doing violent evasive action. The ack-ack was coming at us. The target was desperately near.

"Broomph! Broomph!" went a burst right beneath my face. I put on my parachute.

"You'll have to do a 90-degree turn left to make it," I told Maxie. "Quickly."

How the Bombs Fall

He wheeled her over and the formation followed.

The target was coming down the drift wires.

"Dropping, dropping, go," I hollered and the bombs sailed out. On the last turn No. 3 had slithered above us and his bombs nearly hit us as they fell.

"Bombs gone," I shouted.

"Good show," said Maxie. "Now let's get out of here."

At that moment I knew that we had missed the Gneisenau because I had felt a slight skid as we came out of the last sharp turn and straightened out.

As we dived and turned, I saw the bombs bursting slightly to the left and beyond the target. At least we had helped to mess up the docks.

The shells were breaking all around us. We got out because Maxie was so cool.

$30,000 Donated To Move Records

A gift of $30,000 has been received by the National Archives Trust Fund Board to be used "for transferring the Smithsonian-Densmore collection of American Indian sound recordings to a permanent base from which service copies can be made," R. D. W. Connor, archivist, announced yesterday.

The work will be done under direction of John G. Bradley, local representative of the National Gallery of the American Indian and chief of the division of motion pictures and sound records in the National Archives.

The collection, said to be the largest of its kind in existence, contains more than 3,000 recordings, covering religious, social and tribal music of 76 American Indian groups. They were made over the past 40 years.

Unseen, Unheard, U.S. Bombers Strain Morale of Germans

London, Aug. 13.—Britain's new weapon, the American-made fortress bomber, is spreading fear and contributing to an awakened spirit of revolt in Germany and occupied Europe, say dispatches reaching important quarters here.

The remorseless pounding of Germany by the huge planes which fly out of sight and sound of their victims and the stubborn resistance of the Russian armies are allowing a seething resentment and anger to come to the surface from Norway to Italy, these quarters said.

Informed circles say these reports may indicate the first break in the German crust but warn that it would be premature to expect open revolts this summer or autumn.

One source with a secret means of communication in central Europe said reports were being spread by word of mouth from end to end of Germany of the lethal power of the American-made fortress bombers.

Silent, Invisible Weapon

"People are frightened by what they cannot see," he said. "The Germans cannot see the fortresses, but they can see the damage they do. This silent, invisible weapon terrifies not only civilians in Germany, but garrisons in the occupied nations."

The fact that they are known to be from the resources of America contributes to the undermining of morale, it was said.

One informant said that packed hospital trains from the eastern front had created doubt in Berlin and Hamburg, which were Communist strongholds until the rise of Adolf Hitler.

A winter of stalemate on the eastern front and heavy bombing from the British, most British and neutral observers expect, will increase the distaste for a longer war in Germany and her satellite states.

Still Have Some Arms

Although Norway and the Netherlands have been the sources of the most spectacular opposition to the Nazis, some sources expect that the greatest upheaval in public opinion will occur in France, one Free French source said.

"Don't forget there still are some arms and ammunition in unoccupied France. When the French decide to use them, blood will run and it will not all be German blood, either."

The ancient animosity between Gaul and Teuton is stirring, he said, "as our people look to the skies and see the growing strength of Britain and to Vichy to see their own betrayal.

"Beneath the surface all France is moving and stirring. We waited 48 years for the great revenge of 1918. We shall not wait so long this time."

Reports from Geneva told of unrest in France. One eyewitness said 10 persons at Saint Etienne threw themselves on the railway tracks in an effort to prevent departure of a trainload of goods requisitioned by the Germans. One version of the incident said the train killed some of the demonstrators.

A frontier report said a number of Frenchmen, with whom the Syrian fight was unpopular, booed soldiers returning from the campaign, and even stoned trains repatriating Frenchmen from Syria.

In some sections, according to reports, the United States flag is not allowed to be displayed because of the pro-American demonstrations that result.

Vichy Again Seeks to End Food Shortage

By Taylor Henry
Associated Press Staff Writer

Vichy, Aug. 13.—The reshuffled Petain regime tackled today one of the sorest problems confronting France—food supply.

The newly reorganized government announced two measures to be taken immediately in order to ease the situation:

1. Suppression of the system of making each French department (county) self-sufficient. In this way one section of the country has been holding its own excess supplies even though neighboring departments were suffering from a shortage.

2. New control of transportation to make available means of transferring excess food from one section of the country to another.

There are sections of France where even the rich have been unable to find meat for weeks at a time. There is a special restriction on wine even at meals when it is permitted. Even in good restaurants there is no "vin ordinaire."

Restrictions on Tobacco

Tobacco is restricted to two packages of cigarettes weekly or the equivalent in cigars or pipe tobacco.

There are restaurants in which it is an open secret that meat is served at high prices—often as high as 100 francs or roughly $2, a portion—without food ration tickets. The swank Vichy hotel Du Parc Et Majestic, which is patronized by government officials and diplomats, is only one of many which have been closed in recent months for violating food regulations.

A bottle of vintage wine which formerly cost 12 francs now costs around 60 francs (about $1.50) if it can be found. Ordinary wine, which is almost impossible to find, has increased from seven and eight francs a bottle to 15 and 20.

Cigaretes are double and triple the ordinary price. De Luxe Baltos, the nearest approach to American cigarettes, are sold at anywhere from 30 to 45 francs (65 cents to $1) although the official price is only 15 francs (35 cents).

Not Enough to Eat

These prices, for the average Frenchman, are completely out of reach.

There are many in the white collar class who insist that day in and day out they do not get enough to eat for themselves and their families.

The government has announced that wheat and potato crops are good and that there are plenty of vegetables, but it indicated that the meat shortage will get worse, partly because of requisitioning (presumably by the Germans).

Likewise, the fact that there are plenty of summer vegetables does not mean that there will be supplies for the winter.

And since there is little meat, the consumption of vegetables has tripled and quadrupled, leaving none to be canned even when tins can be found.

Base Like Pearl Harbor Is Urged For Puerto Rico

By the Associated Press

Naval plans to establish a main Atlantic base at Puerto Rico, "comparable to Pearl Harbor in the Pacific were studied in Congress yesterday after approval by the Senate Appropriations Committee of a proposed $21,970,000 expenditure for the development.

The committee also recommended extensive fleet anchorage and naval air station construction work at Trinidad and Newfoundland.

Capt. E. G. Allen, Navy budget officer, told the committee during testimony on the first supplemental defense appropriations bill that "we have never had a proper fleet base in the Caribbean" and added that Viesques, at the southeast end of Puerto Rico, was the only suitable Caribbean area "that has enough water in it to take the whole United States Fleet."

The committee recommended a $13,017,500 appropriation for a naval air station in Newfoundland, which would bring expenditures for that base to $28,017,500.

For Trinidad, the first supplemental defense appropriations bill proposes 15 million dollars as an addition to the $17,855,000 already allocated.

way she occupied Indo-China.

4. Last minute efforts to win the French Vichy government away from full collaboration with Adolf Hitler, or else a joint program to punish Vichy for its newly announced policies.

5. What items to include in the large new lend-lease appropriation request, reportedly for another seven billion dollars, which President Roosevelt is expected to send to Congress after his return to Washington.

6. A full statement of war and peace aims, calculated to win full adherence of all neutral nations to the anti-Nazi cause.

President Roosevelt went to sea August 3 aboard his yacht Potomac, avowedly for a vacation, and has sent no wireless message to the Navy Department for publication since last Saturday.

These other bits of evidence helped to spread the impression that a Roosevelt-Churchill meeting—which has never been officially confirmed or denied here—has taken place:

Newspaper correspondents stationed in London appeared to be trying to tell their New York offices, through the screen of official censorship, that an announcement revealing a meeting between the President and the Prime Minister would be forthcoming.

American newspaper correspondents in London were told not to "speculate" on Attlee's speech until after it was broadcast, but Edward R. Murrow, Columbia Broadcasting System correspondent in the British capital, said in a broadcast last night that Attlee would unveil "one of the worst kept secrets of the war" and what the C. B. S. correspondent termed "the latest agreement not openly arrived at."

Murrow also said that simultaneously with Attlee's broadcast an important announcement may be made in Washington.

The following high American officials have been absent from the Capital for several days, there whereabouts unknown:

Gen. George C. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff; Admiral Harold R. Stark, Chief of Naval Operations; Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the Army Air Force; Sumner Welles, Undersecretary of State; W. Averell Harriman, who is home temporarily from his job in London as lend-lease expediter, and Maj. Gen. James H. Burns, lend-lease official.

In addition, chiefs of the British technical missions, such as the air mission, have left the Capital for undisclosed destinations.

The inevitable conclusion has been that these notables are meeting with the President and Churchill for a full review of all major war problems.

Harry L. Hopkins, the President's confidant and lend-lease aide who visited Moscow and returned to London, has also been unreported for more than a week.

The original signal for the start of speculation about a Roosevelt-Churchill meeting occurred August 5 when Attlee announced that Churchill would find it "inconvenient" to attend an important debate in Parliament. Churchill was said to be with Hopkins at the time, but their location was not revealed.

The White House was in touch yesterday by radio with President Roosevelt, despite the blackout of public infrmation, which entered its fifth—and probably final—day today.

Other international developments included:

The Economic Defense Board, headed by Vice President Henry A. Wallace, met for the first time and set to work on two projects of economic warfare which Wallace kept secret.

Secretary Hull revoked all silk export licenses except for certain shipments to the Philippines and to "countries resisting aggression."

Hull met for an hour with Halifax and with British, Australian and Canadian officials. They discussed the Far Eastern situation, though the ostensible reason for their meeting was to exchange ratifications of three supplementary treaties for conciliation and advancement of peace among the United States, Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

Alfred Duff Cooper, former British minister of information, who is headed for Singapore, also attended the round-table conference with Hull. He told reporters later that "Great Britain is anxious to collaborate and proceed along parallel lines with the United States in all parts of the world. Russia", he said, "already has been of great help in the world situation of which the Far Eastern situation is a part."

There was no word yesterday whether former President Hoover, who reportedly had been summoned to the Capital Tuesday night, had actually left for Washington from Yellowstone Park, where he is vacationing.

General on the 'Hedge Front' wall will be today's objective.

Major issue still to be determined, however, is whether the hedge is on public or private space.

If Gen. Fries is wrong in his assumption that it is well within his property line, he will have to trim it down to a height of 3 feet as required by police regulations or face possible prosecution. If he's right, the police will forget the whole thing.

Capt. Clement P. Cox, of the Eighth Precinct, said yesterday he has instructed his men to "keep an eye" on hedges at street corners to be sure they do not grow too high and become traffic hazards.

Close to a dozen residents of the section already have reduced their hedges to the 3-foot legal height, he said, when it was determined the shrubs were on public space.

Alternated Assaults

The attack on Berlin was alternated with assaults made by the Russian air force on the four previous nights. In addition to Berlin, Essen and Stettin, a select list of Germany's greatest war industrial centers—Kiel, Bremen, Cologne, Osnabruck, Duisburg, Magdeburg, Hanover—also felt the crash of British bombs, it was said.

Airdromes in Holland, docks at Le Havre in France, and harbors and airfields in Norway also were attacked.

Thirteen bombers and eight fighters were lost in the onslaught, they said.

The Nazis attempted a comeback early today, but their efforts were microscopic compared with those they were making a year ago. Several points were attacked on the northeast coast, and three persons were killed and seven injured.

Steady rain over the Straits of Dover kept the British air force grounded today.

Tanks Used With Skill

It would seem that a large part of the successful handling of the Russian forces in checking the Germans is due to skillful use of tanks, which have been breaking up the armored spearheads of German advances.

The Red army organ, Krasnaya Zvezda, mentions two victorious tank encounters which presumably occurred recently. In one case a tank regiment reoccupied the city of "N" after it had been taken by a large Nazi force. The Russians attacked after artillery preparation. Heavy tanks made the frontal assault. Light tanks and infantry dealt with enemy gun emplacements in a forest on the flanks.

The German air force came to the aid of the Nazis but was driven off by antiaircraft fire and the town was reoccupied. Forty German tanks, including ten heavy and 30 light models, 25 antitank guns and two field artillery batteries were taken or destroyed, and the enemy suffered the loss of almost an entire infantry regiment, it was asserted.

In the other battle a Russian light tank regiment attacked a panzer division, admittedly without knowing the size of the force against it. After five Soviet machines had blocked the highway down which the Germans were coming a flank assault began. Seven medium enemy tanks were destroyed and the column was forced to retreat. The Russians have discovered that German medium tanks are extremely vulnerable in side armament and in their caterpillar treads, it was declared.

Meanwhile, Pravda reports that two Nazi divisions were routed recently in a region near the important railway junction of "M" after battles which lasted more than a week.

These began, according to the newspaper, when a picked division of "SS" troops, supported by two regiments of the Viking division and corollary tank, artillery and mortar units, occupied "M." They were fiercely counter-attacked, losing as a result two battalions of infantry, four tanks and six heavy machine guns. The Germans were reported to have left 1,500 casualties on the field.

The enemy command rushed in the sixty-eighth infantry division, which sought to outflank the Russians to the south, but the defenders broke up this effort in a three-day struggle, completely disrupting the division and shattering the 108th infantry regiment.

Danube Bridge Destroyed

When enemy losses were tallied at the end of the fight it was estimated they had left behind, after the entire combat, 7,500 dead and wounded, 15 tanks, 27 cannon, 24 mortars, 70 machine guns, three antiaircraft batteries and quantities of small arms.

Russian newspapers say the Reds have destroyed the Danubian bridge at Cernavoda. Bucharest is now cut off from Constanta by rail, it was declared. The pipeline system linking the Rumanian Black Sea base to the oil fields has been severed, it was added.

Former President Of Exchange Gets Army Clerk's Job

Private William McChesney Martin, former president of the New York Stock Exchange, was working at an office job yesterday, but at $21 a month instead of his civilian salary of $48,000 a year.

The humble selectee, who will be 35 in December, arrived at the Army War College with no other orders than to report to Lieut. Col. R. C. L. Graham, GHQ quartermaster.

With sun-bleached hair and tanned skin, Martin came to Washington after finishing a 13-week basic training course at Camp Croft, S. C.

"I didn't graduate with honors, but I graduated," he said. "I was on kitchen police duty eight times at Camp Croft, and once before that at Camp Dix, N. J., where I was inducted."

Officers said that he probably would do statistical work in the quartermaster's office.

Martin will live at the War College barracks, but on his time off he will be able to return to his home in New York. He couldn't say how long he will be in the Army, in view of new legislation designed to free selectees over 28 years old from Army service.

votes to force the measure into conference and thus bring about another House roll call.

"We would like to give the House another chance to vote, but we can't see any way to do it," said Senator Taft (Republican), of Ohio, one of a group of isolationists who met in the office of Senator Johnson (Republican), of California.

Senator Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana, issued a statement asserting that the 203-202 vote in the House on draft extension "clearly indicates that the Administration could not get a resolution through Congress for a declaration of war."

The isolationist leader said the draft extension opposition had rolled up its impressive vote despite "pressure on Congress from the President, the Army general staff, a last-minute appeal by the Secretary of State and all of the British propagandists."

"The people of this country," Wheeler said, "are in favor of having a strong, well trained, mechanized Army, sufficient for the defense of the United States, but they are not in favor of an aggressive war or a second expeditionary force to Europe, Africa or Asia."

'Worst Kept Secret' Will Be Revealed

New York, Aug. 13 (INS).—That the mystery of the whereabouts and doings of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill during the past week may be cleared up in a broadcast from London by Lord Privy Seal Maj. Clement R. Attlee tomorrow was broadly hinted tonight by Edward R. Murrow, Columbia Broadcasting System correspondent in the British capital.

In a broadcast cleared by the British censor, Murrow said Attlee's radio speech will unveil "one of the worst secrets of the war," involving another "small problem of Anglo-American" collaboration and what the C. B. S. correspondent termed "the latest agreement not openly arrived at." Attlee's broadcast is scheduled to begin at 9 a. m. (E. S. T.).

Murrow said:

"Tomorrow afternoon at about 3 o'clock British time, 9 o'clock tomorrow morning Washington time, Mr. Attlee, the lord privy seal and deputy prime minister will broadcast an important announcement on behalf of the government.

"The statement won't be very long. It will announce one of the worst kept secrets of the war.

"The time of the broadcast may be changed during the night because of the timing of the announcement involves a small problem in Anglo-American collaboration.

"The announcement itself won't be very startling. But it will be the starting signal for a flood of speculations. Tonight we are not allowed to do any speculating about tomorrow's announcement.

"But it is worth remembering that no announcement following the conference has ever won a war. Agreements reached in conference are generally nothing more than plans of blue prints which require considerable time, labor and blood to bring to realization. Anyway tomorrow morning you will be able to form your own opinion about this latest agreement which was not openly arrived at."

becoming anxious as to chances of the penny program's being instituted at the beginning of the school year, as is desired. Under the plan, half-pint bottles would be supplied free to boys and girls attending schools in low-income neighborhoods, the District bearing the cost. The difference in the cost would be made up by a Federal subsidy.

of Oklahoma, who also attended the conference.

"I hope to go forward soon with hearings on the measure," McCarran said.

Lawrence W. Douglas, Commonwealth attorney for Arlington County, has threatened to prosecute anyone who attempts to serve drinks at the airport.

Mason's announcement came after Thomas E. Lodge, chairman of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, returned the restaurant liquor license application to the Commissioners with the observation:

"Our jurisdiction has been challenged and we are doubtful that the board is qualified to settle a boundary dispute."

Last month Corporation Counsel Richmond B. Keech sent up to the Commissioners an opinion holding that a "substantial part of the (airport) grounds is in the District limits." Lodge stated that the license application was being returned because Keech's opinion made no mention of the airport building.

Declaring that he found it difficult to understand why the National Capital Park and Planning Commission should have defined the Virginia-District boundary so as to place the airport terminal in the State, McCarran added:

"This situation is leading to chaos and has got to stop and must stop with a reasonable degree of promptness. Here we have one of the finest airports in the world, an airport that could be one of the busiest in the United States, but the airlines are hesitant to fly here until this question of jurisdiction is settled.

"Not only is the airport a major civilian flying field, but, because of its strategic location in relation to Washington, it has tremendous military value. In my judgment the airport must be under the jurisdiction of the Capital City."

The jurisdictional conflict has been brought to a head in conferences with Senator McCarran Tuesday and yesterday.

The Senator was told, it was learned, that the airlines are now paying 15 various kinds of taxes, including gasoline, corporation, unemployment compensation and old age benefit levies, to both the District and Virginia.

Attorneys for American, Eastern Air and Pennsylvania-Central Airlines have instructed the companies to pay the taxes under protest until the question of jurisdiction has been settled.

Taxes on aviation gasoline to the District are subject to refund, it was pointed out, but Virginia collections total more than $90,000 a year.

Similarly, the jurisdictional conflict plagues operators of concessions in the airport terminal and even the airport management. The restaurant and barber shop, for example, are licensed in the District, but the operators of each are under pressure from Virginia authorities to take out State licenses.

John Groves, airport manager, still has to determine whether airport refuse disposal is the concern of the District or Arlington County. It also was reported that while the District has given airport guards certain District police powers, Washington police recently declined to take into custody an unruly visitor on the grounds that they lacked jurisdiction.

Senator McCarran said he believes the controversy can be worked out by means of conferences and the exercise of "a little common horse sense." Virginia officials, he said, would be "welcome" at hearings on his bill.

Semi-Annual Savings Furniture—Floorcoverings and Bedding—

So many ways to save . . . on entire groups of furniture . . . on occasional pieces . . . on decorative pictures . . . on mirrors that do such pleasant space-enlarging tricks . . . on floor coverings for every room in the house . . . on beds and bedding that are "gilt-edged" investments in deep, deep, luxurious rest—at savings.

Savings, whether you wish exceptionally fine pieces or less expensive ones—every piece offered is dependably made—designed to serve you well and smartly—to give you maximum quality at its particular price.

So many styles—chiefly 18th Century because it is so much a part of Washington, but you smart moderns find cherished blonde woods, too—and delightful Early American designs are included.

The Young Home Planner's Shop is every bit as adept at helping bachelors and bachelor-maids choose their furnishings, as it is at catering to romance-on-a-shoestring. See it now, furnished with modern pieces—and marvel at the savings prices.

Our Studio of Interior Decorating helps you co-ordinate your furnishings for your particular setting. Do be sure your savings give utmost satisfaction by letting our skillful decorators help you make your choices.

Peep into every alcove—and many of the model rooms on our Fifth and Sixth Floors, to see how much at home Semi-Annual Savings furnishings look in room-groupings. So much easier to visualize, then, how they will look in your home.

All thirty living room groups are ready for your browse-about inspection on the Sixth Floor. So you see all of them, if you wish, and swatches of the many possible coverings, before you "pin down" your choice. And remember, all are related . . . so you may pick a chair from this group, a sofa from that, the second chair from still a third group . . . and all will harmonize beautifully.

Word to the wise—furniture gifts, even for Christmas, chosen now are chosen cannily. So much better for what you intended to pay.

And, of course, any of your selections may be sent out of town—you need pay shipping charges only if they are disproportionate to the price of the articles.

Take double advantage of Semi-Annual Savings through using our convenient and economical

6% Deferred Payment Plan

on Homefurnishings Purchases of $25 or more (the only charge is for interest at 6% per annum on declining monthly balances).

Woodward & Lothrop makes this event more helpful than ever before, by offering the greater convenience and greater economical advantages of this 6% Deferred Payment Plan—established to afford you the opportunity of buying Woodward & Lothrop Quality in Homefurnishings, and paying for them on a monthly basis—at the low cost of interest only at the rate of 6 per cent (6%) per annum on declining monthly balances, so apportioned as to make monthly payments uniform.

—bring you the widest selection of fine home furnishings at thrifty prices that we have ever assembled, in our more than 61 years of helping Washingtonians furnish their homes for gracious and comfortable living. Consider these highlights that give you examples of the lavish preparation made for this savings event:

• 30 complete living room groups (sofa and two chairs)—all in inter-related 18th century designs, so you may, if you wish, pick harmonizing pieces from any of them. Virginia, Lawson, Chippendale and Sheraton designs are included—and you may choose from an almost unlimited selection of coverings—thus making it possible for you to make a highly personalized choice, perfect for your living room.

• Occasional tables—more than a thousand of them—in three price groups, each including from eight to twelve styles.

• Just the decorative, comfortable chairs you want—barrel-back ("vast" or smaller), wing chair, fan shape, biscuit-tufted, leather-upholstered, occasional type or any of seven styles in the popular small upholstered chair.

Sixth Floor and Living Room Furniture, Sixth Floor.
Floor Coverings, Sixth Floor.
Bedding Department, Sixth Floor.

• Desks—as you prefer them—student's, typewriter, Governor Winthrop, secretary, breakfront, tambour or leather-topped—we have the style that suits you best.

• Dining room, dinette and breakfast groups, ranging from sunny maple breakfast sets to solid mahogany, Hepplewhite-design, handsomely inlaid dining room suites.

• Bedroom groups—such diverse woods as solid mahogany, solid walnut, limed oak and solid cherry.

• Mirrors—oil paintings—frames for favorite pictures.

• Handsome Oriental rugs—also fine rugs woven in America on machine looms in copies of Oriental patterns—popular broadloom carpet rugs, plain-surfaced, trend-twist or shadowtone—patterned Wilton rugs—handmade hooked rugs—colorful, durable coverings for your floors, whatever your home's decorative theme.

Nelson B. Bell About the Showshops

National's Early Opening Cooked Up on the Quiet

THE EARLY OPENING of the National Theater a week from Monday, or on August 25, if dates are what you are after, evidently has been simmering quietly on the fire these several weeks now—a jealously guarded secret from the drama desks that thought they would be able to squeeze in that two weeks with pay before September 8, the date tossed out as a camouflaged decoy.

EDMUND GWENN

Karl Bernstein, dropping by in the interest of "Village Green," switching on the lights in Baltimore also on August 25, makes known that every effort was made to crash Washington with the Frank Craven starrer as the opening gun of the season, only to unearth the fact that there was no time available on E Street. So the Monumental City was chosen as the nearest possible spot to the seat of Mr. Craven's greatest popularity.

Mr. Craven has been a Capital favorite these past 25 years or so now. The first review this typewriter ever was called upon to write of a play in which he was cast was Shaw's "Man and Superman," at the Columbia 'way back when. So far back when that it must have been about 1911, with Robert Loraine and Bijou Fernandez heading the cast. The last time we caught him "in the flesh," of course, was in Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," at the National. One suspects that a great many Washingtonians will be traveling the 40 miles to see Mr. Craven—after they have had a look at Edmund Gwenn in Edgar Selwyn's production of Frederick Hazlitt Brennan's "The Wookey," right here at home.

Practically on Mr. Bernstein's cocktails came the prodigious Dick Maney with a few more exciting asides concerning this "Wookey" business. "The Wookey," as we surmised in print last Sabbath, is a tribute to the British spirit, as exemplified in the "little people" of the Empire who won't take "No" for an answer. Even after his "castle" has been bombed from over his head, Horace Wookey refuses to live otherwise than in the place, if not the manner, to which a Bergenman on the Thames and the Channel has been accustomed. But that isn't what we started out to say. What we had in mind was that Mr. Brennan has been paid the largest advance royalty on his play in the entire history of such things in this country. Before that, he had been offered a fortune for the idea as the basis of a motion picture script. But it was a stage production he wanted and it is a stage production he is getting. And a honey, says the usually conservative Mr. Maney. When, as and if the play is a success, Mr. Brennan probably will get more than the original offer for the screen rights. That's why I say Washingtonians will journey to the "Village Green" AFTER they first have seen "The Wookey."

That Embarrassment of Riches

Something was said here yesterday about all those superior features that have been backing up on the shelf at RKO-Keith's, thus nipping off the run of Ginger Rogers in "Tom, Dick and Harry" while it was at its peak. So here is what may be expected on Fifteenth Street in immediately impending weeks:

Ronald Colman and Anna Lee, blonde British star, in "Life With Caroline;" Franchot Tone and Carol Bruce in Frank Lloyd's production of "This Woman Is Mine;" Cary Grant and Joan Fontaine in "Before the Fact," directed by Alfred Hitchcock; Irene Dunne and Robert Montgomery in "Unfinished Business;" Bette Davis in Lillian Hellman's "The Little Foxes," in which Tallulah Bankhead scored such a resounding hit on the stage; Robert Preston, Harry Carey, Edmond O'Brien and Nancy Kelly in "Parachute Battalion;" Deanna Durbin, with Charles Laughton and Robert Cummings, in "Almost an Angel;" Charles Boyer and Margaret Sullavan—remember "Back Street"?—in "Appointment for Love;" Gloria Swanson and Adolphe Menjou in "Father Takes a Wife;" Edgar Bergen, Charlie McCarthy, Fibber McGee and Molly in "Look Who's Laughing;" Olsen and Johnson's "Hellzapoppin;" Abbott and Costello in "Hold That Ghost," opening tomorrow, and "Ride 'Em Cowboy;" Walt Disney's "Dumbo of the Circus;" Lucille Ball, Joseph Kane and Ruth Warrick (the last two from "Citizen Kane") in "Passage to Bordeaux;" Charles Coburn, Anne Shirley and James Craig in "Unexpected Uncle," and Michele Morgan, French star, in "Joan of Paris."

Not all of these are on that shelf at the moment, but seven or eight of them are and the rest will be by the time they're off.

One Day Lopped Off

"The Male Animal," with Leroy Gainter and Betty Honicon in the leading roles, will close its run at the Cross Roads Theater, over there in Virginia at Bailey's Cross Roads, on Saturday night of this week. This is not a permanent change in Cross Roads policy, but an exception to meet the necessity of a dress rehearsal or two against Arch McDonald's opening next Tuesday night in a revival of Don Marquis' "The Old Soak," in which he last broke an ankle back in 1938.

As Ye Sow, So Shall Ye Reap!

Hollywood, Calif., Aug. 13.—So you want to be in pictures? You think it's glamorous, do you? Well, here's a sample day, on "Reap the Wild Wind." I'm playing Paulette Goddard's Aunt Harriette, Charleston's best. Yes, you've guessed it—give a good old war horse that fire gong and he's off to the races. Give an actress a whiff of grease paint, give her a chance to get her little toe onto the stage, and she's off her trolley!

CECIL B. DE MILLE

Up at 6, shower, breakfast; studio at 7, make-up room, and they start putting mud on my nice clean face. Anyway, it looked like mud. Picture's in Technicolor, so different make-up has to be used. You beg for false eyelashes to make poor old auntie's eyes glisten, but Wally Westmore says dignified matrons didn't have long lashes in 1840.

Then on to the set where Mr. DeMille was kindness itself. I don't mind confessing I went on the set with fear and trepidation, because I'd heard that "C. B." was rather difficult. Sure, he's difficult. He aims for perfection and isn't satisfied until he gets it. Someone remarked that Mr. DeMille has never had an Academy Award. Another person spoke up and said, "Why should he? His pictures make a fortune. Let the other fellow get the Oscar. He's content to make entertainment."

The set was like a family get-together. True, it was a big one—150 persons present, but they were all old friends of the director. There was Claire McDowell, who was his leading lady 41 years ago. There was an old gentleman who had done plays for his father. There were Maurice Costello, Dorothy Sebastian, Mildred Harris, Julia Faye, Bill Cabanne, Christy's son—Christy used to be DeMille's assistant—D'arcy Miller, Henry Miller's grandson. It was his first day on any set.

There, too, was Gertrude Astor, who's just finished a stretch in "How Green Was My Valley." Told me she got a special stunt check because she let them cut off her long fingernails to the quick and rub coal in them for a close-up. Also Monte Blue.

So you want to be in pictures? You think it's glamorous? Well, I'll be darned if it isn't.

5 Girls at Save-Gas Booth Suggest Boys 'Drive Less, Park More' to Conserve Fuel

Chic Attendants Offer Their Advice 'Informally,' However

A new formula for saving gasoline—"when dating, park more and drive less"—was advanced yesterday as the District Petroleum Conservation Committee's information and sticker-distribution booth was opened in Post Square.

Quite unofficially, the formula was suggested collectively by five chic girls appointed to run the booth.

"Park your car and let's walk to the movies," will be their advice to young gentlemen who call on them, they said. Or, "Drive to the park, park the car and we'll park ourselves on a park bench."

The girls are Susan C. Jones, 17, of 1310 Thirty-fourth Street Northwest; Pat Dowden, 18, of 2134 Thirty-seventh Street Northwest; Marie De Pingre, 17, of 2900 Q Street Northwest; Betty Marrison, 16, of 2807 Connecticut Avenue Northwest, and Lolly Johnson, 18, of 3833 Cleveland Avenue Northwest.

They were assisted yesterday morning by Louise McNutt, 20-year-old daughter of Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt. By 3 p. m., closing time, they had disbursed stickers or information to more than 150 persons.

Ceremonies opening the booth were canceled when the District Commissioners found they were unable to spare time from official duties to appear.

Near the booth motorists are provided with free parking space for "curb service."

Meanwhile, a warning that gasoline rationing would follow failure of voluntary conservation programs in the seaboard States came from Dr. John M. Frey, director of marketing in the Office of Petroleum Coordination for National Defense.

He told a New York meeting of representatives of gasoline using industries, however, that no definite rationing plan has yet been devised, the Associated Press reported.

"We definitely don't want rationing if we can get voluntary reduction that we have not received so far in all parts of the area," Frey explained. "I would not be telling the truth if I said we had not been exploring the possibility of rationing."

Frey said gasoline consumption had been above the normal seasonal increase since the dusk-to-dawn curfew on gasoline sales was instituted.

They Were Two of the Cutest Dolls in Colon

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

GIRLS RETURN FROM CANAL ZONE—Nadine Page (left) and Doris Milo, American entertainers, arrived in New York yesterday from Colon, Canal Zone, where they appeared at a night club for four months. Miss Milo averaged six marriage proposals a day. Said Miss Milo: "There are said to be 565 men to every woman in the Canal Zone. I think I averaged about six proposals a day, but, as a matter of fact, I couldn't keep track of them." The girls brought two dolls with them aboard the Chilean liner Aconcagua

Berlin Looks For U. S. Move On Martinique

By the Associated Press

Berlin, Aug. 13.—Marshal Petain's speech may be seized upon by certain American groups as an excuse to "satisfy their lust" for the French West Indian island of Martinique, authorized sources predicted today.

The marshal's stand was described as important in the eyes of the German foreign office, because:

1. Powers outside the European continent "which desire to establish guardianships over France were rebuffed."

2. Petain allied himself solidly "with Europe and its effort to establish a new order."

"The editorial reaction in some quarters in the United States," authorized informants declared, "is nothing short of hysterical mental confusion. Why, those papers and the men behind them act as though France ought to have placed herself under United States protection!

"They are in a huff because Petain expressed his understanding for European collaboration. But he also found friendly words for the United States. Liberty is not threatened in France, although of course it will be a liberty freed from the shortcomings of parliamentarianism.

"Petain also attacked capitalism and the moneybags. Can it be that those quarters which stand behind certain papers took it as meant for them?"

(In London authoritative British informants interpreted Petain's speech as showing a determination to align the Vichy government more closely with Germany and Italy.

(Petain's purpose, they said, was to force upon the French people "a policy which they detest," adding that the people really wanted "to turn with growing hope toward Britain and her Allies.")

Girls Who Died In Fire Buried In Single Grave

The Seek sisters—Alice May, 8, and Catherine Irene, 4—who died in a woodshed fire back of their Takoma Park (Md.) home Monday, were buried together yesterday in a single white casket at historic St. John's Cemetery, Forest Glen.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Seek and their seven surviving children were among the more than 100 mourners, including Montgomery County officials, who attended the last rites.

Mrs. Seek collapsed at the grave, sobbing: "I don't want to live. My babies, my poor babies."

The casket was borne on the shoulders of four cousins of the children—Everett Seek, 19; Teddy Seek, 18; George Seek, 16, and David Holland, 18.

The Rev. Richard Barron, pastor of Our Lady of Sorrows Catholic Church, which the family attends, preached the funeral service at the Warner E. Pumphrey funeral home, Silver Spring, taking as his text the words of Christ: "Unless you become as little children you shall not enter into heaven." Organ selections were rendered by Mrs. Eola Nix, grand regent of the Court Forest Glen, Catholic Daughters of America.

The small sisters were burned to death when a blaze enveloped the woodshed, which was partly filled with newspapers. Their 11-year-old brother, Russell, discovered the fire, but was unable to reach the children because of the heat.

8-Hour Law Lifted For 'Vital' Work

ment said that "right now great industries, important to our national defense, are standing idle because" of the closed-shop issue.

"The issue is whether or not men and women are to be free to seek work and continue their employment in safety and security under the laws of our country," the statement continued.

Meanwhile, officials from OPM and other Government departments met yesterday with members of the Steel Defense Industry Advisory Committee to discuss proposals for an increase of more than 12 million tons in the steel industry's annual ingot capacity. These plans have been received by the OPM in reply to its recent request that steel producing companies submit plans for expansion of the industry's capacity by at least ten million tons.

'Not Ready for Old Men's Class,' De Groot, 70, Opens Law Office

By Robert Tate Allen

Post Church Editor

"They tried to put me in the old men's class, but I wasn't ready for that yet."

With a twinkle in his eye, 70-year-old Edward H. DeGroot, jr., was speaking from his desk in the Colorado Building, Fourteenth and G Streets Northwest, where he has hung out his law shingle after recent retirement from Federal service.

DeGROOT

He began his Government career here in 1917 as chief of the Bureau of Car Service, Interstate Commerce Commission, stepped out last March from his position as director of its Bureau of Service.

Always Liked Law

DeGroot had a hankering to set up a law practice for many years, he confided yesterday. So in the middle 1930's he started to burn the midnight fuel oil over law books. He never went to law school. Now he is a member of the Florida Bar Association, and the American and Federal Bar Associations.

DeGroot's favorite subjects are railroading—he has a rare collection of old railroad equipment—and the Central Union Mission, where he has been board chairman almost 20 years.

His collection, which once graced his office walls and is now boxed at his home, includes an old Bible rack used 60 years ago on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, where he got his first taste of engine grease in 1886.

He also has a tape telegraph receiving set used by a woman operator on the Reading Line for 52 years; a piece of rail washed out by the Johnstown flood; a section of the first rolling of 42-pound rails in Mount Savage, Pa., in 1842, and a pair of rare bell-cord couplings he found in Texas after an exhaustive search.

Chairman of Deacons

DeGroot is chairman of the Board of Deacons at National Baptist Memorial Church, Sixteenth and Columbia Road Northwest, where he was Sunday school superintendent for 13 years.

He and Mrs. DeGroot and their daughter, Ruth E., live at 1309 Spring Road Northwest. There are two sons, Walter C., of Silver Spring, Md., and William Benton, of Franklin Park, Va., and several grandchildren.

And DeGroot thinks they're "grand" children.

Peace Group Head Would Impeach Knox, Stimson

Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, last night called for the immediate dismissal of Secretaries Knox and Stimson by President Roosevelt, and warned that if the Chief Executive does not act, "the American people, through their Representatives, must impeach the two Cabinet members."

Speaking under the auspices of the America First Committee, in the Friends' Meeting House, 2111 Florida Avenue Northwest, Libby charged that Knox "is not a fit person to hold office" and that Stimson, "an old man, is not fit to prepare this Nation for a crisis."

Libby then read excerpts from a brief which he said had been prepared in anticipation of impeachment proceedings in the House of Representatives.

U. S. Debt Tops 50 Billion, Rising $277.50 a Second

By the Associated Press

Piling up at the rate of $277.50 a second, the Federal debt towered above the 50-billion-dollar mark yesterday, a figure almost double the $26,596,701,648 peak reached in World War days.

Treasury officials said that since the new fiscal year began July 1, the debt had increased about $1,040,000,000. It has not, however, kept pace with defense expenditures, which aggregated $1,400,000,000 during that six-week period.

On the basis of an estimated population of 132,633,000 the present debt amounts to $376.97 per person.

The principal factor in the rising debt has been the sale of defense savings bonds, which netted about 480 million dollars in six weeks.

The rapid rise in the last six weeks was said to be just the beginning of a trend. In this fiscal year, alone, borrowing to meet the deficit caused by the defense program may top 10 billion dollars.

The present debt limit of 65 billion dollars may be crowded in the next year. Some officials have predicted that before the present emergency ends, the debt may reach 100 billion dollars.

King Returns From Visiting British Home Fleet in North

London (Thursday), Aug. 14 (AP).—King George has just completed a three-day visit by plane to the British Home Fleet, which is on active duty in northern waters, it was disclosed today.

With the flagship King George V, named for his father, as his headquarters, the King visited aircraft carriers, cruisers and destroyers which have participated in recent action.

On his last day he inspected a former American destroyer. During the entire visit, every ship was on "short notice"—ready to engage hostile forces at any time.

Fleet Commander John C. Tovey was knighted and invested with the insignia of Knight Commander of the Order of the Bath in a ceremony in the admiral's cabin. Seven officers and 15 men also were decorated.

In below-decks inspection, despite glaring electric lights, the navy preserved tradition by having a master-at-arms precede the King with a lighted candle, as was done in Nelson's day.

Just before going ashore, the King gave the traditional last command: "Splice the main brace"—meaning an extra ration of rum for all hands to drink the King's health.

Mata Hari Hunted

London (Thursday) Aug. 14 (U.P.)—British agents today were revealed to be combing night clubs, bars and other haunts in a roundup of young and attractive girls of foreign birth who obtain war secrets from British soldiers, sailors and airmen on leave.

Many of these girls are dance hall hostesses and bar maids.

Aussies May Get Pay Rise

Melbourne, Australia, Aug. 13 (AP). Army Minister Percy Spender proposed to the cabinet today a 25 per cent increase in the salaries of Australian soldiers, who are already the highest paid in the world. The proposal was made because of a general rise in Australian wages, and it was expected the cabinet would concur.

An Australian single private receives 5 shillings daily, but with deferred payments he gets a total of 7½ shillings. On the basis of $3.22 to the Australian pound, he thus receives about $33.81 per month compared to the $21 monthly paid to an ordinary United States Army private.

Dr. Boyd Is Named Local Chairman Of Relief Wings

Dr. Walter W. Boyd, of Bethesda, Md., has been named Washington chairman of Relief Wings, Inc., national humanitarian service for disaster relief by air, Miss Ruth Nichols, executive director of the organization, announced yesterday.

John Groves, manager of the new National Airport was named mid-Atlantic sectional director. Plans were discussed for organizing private planes, pilots flight surgeons, flight nurses and amateur radio operators Tuesday at a luncheon in the Mayflower Hotel

Three Crime Bills

Two proposals which would go a long way toward absolving Congress of further responsibility for Washington's crime wave were passed by the House yesterday and another is awaiting action. The first, pertinent to the theory that light sentences have increased local crime, would provide stiffer penalties for repeated offenses. The second would give the police a new weapon in dealing with criminal vagrants. This measure ought to be scrutinized by the Senate to make sure that, in tightening the net to catch professional hoodlums before they have a chance to prey upon local citizens, it will not encroach upon civil rights. But the urgent necessity of closing the loopholes in the present ineffective law is not open to question. Washington must not continue to be a sort of safety zone in and from which known criminals may operate without fear of any annoyance so long as they are not caught actually perpetrating a crime.

The third measure introduced a few days ago would provide salaries for 100 additional uniformed Metropolitan Police. For years Maj. Brown has been asking for precisely this number of additional men to stem the tide of crime in Washington. It is an ironic commentary on the city's political system, or lack of system, that this request was ignored until a serious outbreak of atrocious crimes brought an emphatic demand for action. Belated though it is, however, Congressional action is nonetheless necessary. The Commissioners have already moved to reorganize the police force and increase its efficiency. There should be no further delay in giving it the tools and men it needs to terminate a crime wave which has shocked the Nation.

Speaking Of Timetables

At the beginning of Hitler's Russian campaign we were advised to beware of drawing too many analogies from Napoleon's ill-destined adventure of 1812. Comparisons were unsafe, we were told, because of all the changes that 129 years have wrought in methods of warfare. And while Napoleon's war was also a "war of movement" we must remember that Hitler's panzer divisions can cover almost as much ground in a day as Murat's cavalry could cover in a week of forced marches.

Still, at this point, some comparisons with the Napoleonic timetable may be interesting and perhaps instructive. The season was already well advanced when, early in the morning of June 24, 1812, the vanguard of the Grande Armee crossed the Niemen. Thus by launching his campaign on June 22 Hitler gained two days on Napoleon at the very outset. And when the Germans entered Vilna on or about June 28 Hitler was nearly three weeks ahead of Napoleon.

Before the great offensive of 1812 began the Russians were not sure whether it would be directed against St. Petersburg (now Leningrad) on the north, Moscow in the center, or Kiev on the south, or against all three. It turned out to be one of those enveloping operations aimed at the "annihilation" (familiar word!) of the army of Prince Bagration between the pincers formed by Napoleon's forces on the north and Jerome Bonaparte's on the south. But the southern prong of the pincers could not or did not move rapidly enough to prevent Bagration from escaping and making a junction with Barclay de Tolly near Smolensk on August 1.

Thus in front of Smolensk Napoleon had to fight an indecisive action which cost him about 9,000 effectives out of an army already depleted by more than one-third. The Russians retired behind the city and across the Dnieper, as the French entered Smolensk on August 18. It is interesting to compare this date with the progress of Hitler's armies in the same sector. The Russians say they abandoned Smolensk only a few days ago. Can it be that Hitler is now less than a week ahead of Napoleon?

By September 7 the Grande Armee was at the threshold of Moscow. Here again Napoleon faced a great Russian army under Kutuzov and here he was forced to fight a much bloodier but equally indecisive action known in history as the battle of Borodino. Again the Russians fell back behind Moscow, relatively intact. On September 14 Napoleon's vanguard entered the deserted capital in which the fires were already raging. On September 22 the Emperor began his peace offensive. By September 30 he knew that it had failed. On October 2 the French abandoned the fire-gutted capital. On the eighteenth the decision to retreat was taken. On the twenty-fourth the Emperor reached that "fatal field" of Maloyaroslavets which, in the words of Count Segur, "put a stop to the conquest of the world and where 20 years of victory were wiped away."

One date more seems worth mentioning: The weather was very mild that autumn of 1812. It did not get really cold until November 5—something decidedly unusual in that part of Russia.

National Insurance

Now that the Army service extension bill has been passed by both houses of Congress the controversy which it aroused cannot be too quickly forgotten. The wide differences of opinion as to the necessity of keeping selectees in the Army after their first year of training were dramatically emphasized by the 203-to-202 vote of the House in accepting the bill. That almost even division largely explains why Congress wasted so much time in disposing of a simple measure. But the decision has now been made. Congress has acted wisely, even though the margin of wisdom was dangerously thin on the House side. Our problem now is to drop the controversy completely and get on with the essential work of strengthening our defenses.

Fear was often expressed in the course of the debate that enactment of the bill would seriously affect the morale of the new Army of selectees. Now that the issue has been decided this argument appears particularly unfortunate, for it is a slur upon the patriotism of the young men who have been drafted for military service. No doubt many of these young men will be disappointed at the prospect of spending 30 months instead of 12 in the Army. But they will not shrink from the obligation which their Government has placed upon them. Their loyalty, their willingness to sacrifice for the national security, and their acceptance of the decision of Congress as to what our defense requirements are may be taken for granted. For the decision has been made in the traditional American way and hearty compliance with it is the first step toward the defense of democracy.

It is worthy of note, too, that in acting to protect our national interests Congress did not ignore the welfare of the individual selectee. As Chairman May of the Military Affairs Committee explained to the House, the bill merely fixes a higher ceiling upon the period during which citizen soldiers may be called upon to serve. In the past, he pointed out, "the Army has followed a policy of discharging men as soon as they are fully trained to make way for others." There is every reason to believe that a similar policy will be followed in the coming months, unless the United States is drawn into "shooting war." It must be recognized, of course, that actual participation in the war would cut off all exit from the Army and at the same time greatly accelerate the induction of new recruits.

The House bill also makes it mandatory for the Secretary of War to release all soldiers whose retention would, in his judgment, subject them or their wives or dependents to "undue hardships." That safety valve appears to leave the Army ample discretion as to what selectees shall be retained, while at the same time putting it under definite obligation to make adjustments in case of real hardship. Then, too, men serving for more than a year will receive an extra $10 a month as partial compensation for their extra sacrifice. So it should not be made to appear that Congress has acted unreasonably. Obviously it did consider the interests of the men who are training to defend their country, but it was compelled by the very nature of its responsibility to give greater weight to the safety of the Nation. The same consideration will undoubtedly sustain the high morale of the Army and it may well be emphasized to bring about more unity of purpose among civilians.

Wandering Boys

From the standpoint of downright mystery the Strange Case of the Vanished President lacks some of the features of, say, the Charlie Ross kidnaping story, or the Man in the Iron Mask story, or even the affair of Rudolf Hess. That is to say, the answer to it all is somewhere in the back of the book and is said to be known both to the Navy Department and to the bigger shots on the White House executive staff. All this tends to some extent to discourage speculation. What's the point of working up an ingenious theory about the thing only to have it exploded in a day or two by some official announcement?

Of course the temptation to speculate would be even less if the story did not coincide so neatly with the Strange Case of the Missing Prime Minister. The mere fact that Mr. Churchill disappeared from Old London just about the time that Mr. Roosevelt disappeared from New London doesn't prove, necessarily, that the two of them have got together in the middle of the North Atlantic Ocean, though to be sure it doesn't disprove it either. But is it likely that the leaders of two free peoples would imitate the rigid punctilio of mere dictators like Hitler and Mussolini who are unwilling to meet anywhere except at the Brenner Pass? Or, if it came to that, Mr. Churchill might have flown for a meeting at the middle of the International Bridge at Niagara Falls or Mr. Roosevelt might have flown to London to chat with the Premier over the back fence of the American Embassy.

Or it may be that, in the interest of Anglo-American understanding, the President and Prime Minister have agreed to exchange countries, for a week or so, in order that each might get the other's viewpoint, as we say. Stranger things have happened. Of course Mr. Churchill could not take over the Presidential functions; that would be unconstitutional. But there would be nothing, as far as we can see, to prevent him from impersonating, say, Mr. Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox. What with the cigar, the pugnacious mannerisms and the gift of great eloquence the fans at Comiskey Park might never know the difference. As for Mr. Roosevelt, who is not without his own histrionic gifts, he may have been gaining valuable experience as an Oxford Don or a Yeoman of the Guard.

The Kearny Strike

In the last two months, the Navy announces, a warship keel was laid every two days and a ship was launched almost every week. Barring unforeseen difficulties, the Navy predicts, we shall have our two-ocean fleet by 1944, two years ahead of time. We shall have it, that is, if we can get along without recurrences of labor disputes such as that which is holding up work at the yards of the Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. at Kearny, N. J.

Employes of that company struck a week ago because the management refused to accept a recommendation of the National Defense Mediation Board designed to afford protection to the membership of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers, a C. I. O. affiliate. Work on 450 million dollars worth of warships and cargo vessels is thus at a standstill, and little progress toward a settlement of the dispute has been made. Indeed, the company's offer to turn the plant over to the Navy suggests that it has no intention of accepting the compromise worked out by the Mediation Board. And the Government can scarcely ask the employes to return to work under private management until they obtain the security to which the Mediation Board believes they are entitled.

In the circumstances it is difficult to see why the Navy delays the apparently essential measure of taking over the plant. No doubt such a step will raise some baffling problems. But the important consideration is to get the plant into production again. Perhaps the absence of President Roosevelt makes action on the part of the Navy difficult. If Presidential approval can be secured by radio, however, it would appear that the Navy would have no excuse for further delay. Controversial issues concerning the future of the plant and working conditions there can be decided after the men have been called back to their jobs and the work of building warships is again going forward.

Pledge To Turkey

Ever since the Italian attack on Greece last fall Turkey has occupied an uneasy seat on the periphery of the European conflict. Thus far, alone among the Balkan nations, she has managed to stay out of the war. There is no certainty, however, that this happy state of affairs for Turkey will continue indefinitely. Ever since Hitler's occupation of Bulgaria the Turks have had to reckon with the possibility of a Nazi drive across Anatolia in an effort to attack the Suez Canal from the north. Since Germany's attack on Russia there is the added danger that the war may soon or late spill into the Caucasus and Iran. Turkey has also been under very considerable pressure from Berlin to conclude an agreement that would place her within the economic orbit of the "new order." What such an arrangement would mean in ultimate political terms the Ankara government knows only too well from the unhappy experience of its Balkan neighbors. In the meantime German propagandists have been active in Turkey, fostering the belief that Russia plans to take over the Dardanelles.

It is not surprising, then, that the joint British-Russian notes guaranteeing Turkey's independence and promising to respect the status quo of the Dardanelles have met with a warm reception at Ankara. The Turks may have their doubts about Russia's sincerity in proffering this pledge, but these doubts have been watered down by the fact that the pledge is also backed up by their British allies. Incidentally, these notes suggest that in the face of the common Nazi danger the historic Anglo-Russian rivalry regarding control of the passageway between the Black Sea and the Mediterranean has now been shelved.

Union Now

Your report of the American Forum debate on August 3 in which Frank Kingdon and I upheld Federal Union with the British Commonwealth against Congressmen Day and Mundt was, I think, unintentionally partial. Having been a reporter 20 years, I know how impossible it is to report all the give and take of a controversy, and I do not mind the play you gave the quips of our opponents.

Your report stated that Mr. Day had "recently charged Streit's organization as being 'un-American' and asked for investigation by the Dies Committee," but did not give my answer. Yet I began the discussion last night by reminding Mr. Day of this charge and of the statement I had then given out in reply "expressing my opinion of this poppy-cock, declaring we welcome investigation by everyone and pointing out that every detail of the Union Now proposal can be found and investigated in any library by any one." I added, "Since then I have heard nothing more of this contemptible smear-attempt."

Mr. Day made no answer, nor did he to my face indulge in any of the kind of name-calling he had indulged in elsewhere, and is privileged to frank through the country. I trust this means that he contemplates following Secretary Stimson's courageous example and withdrawing his aspersions. You also report another charge of our opponents that any loyal American would resent—that we of Union Now favor "scrapping the Declaration of Independence." May I give here the answer you omitted?

We would have the British as well as the Americans in this new Federal Union "pledged to reaffirm word for word," I said, "the universal free principles of our Declaration of Independence." How, then, can anyone pretend that we would junk that declaration? Only by arguing that the separation from Britain was not merely a means to establish those principles but the contrary—that the separation was the main thing and the principles simply window-dressing. But this, as I pointed out, was not the view of Lincoln, who said at Independence Hall:

"I have often inquired of myself what great principle or idea it was that kept this Confederacy so long together. It was not the mere matter of separation of the colonies from the motherland, but that sentiment in the Declaration of Independence which gave liberty not alone to the people of this country, but hope to all the world, for all future time. It was that which gave promise that in due time the weights would be lifted from the shoulders of all men, and all should have an equal chance. This is the sentiment embodied in the Declaration of Independence."

We Federal Unionists stand with Lincoln. As he preserved that principle by extending it where it was most endangered, we would preserve it his way now.

Army Tests

"The company commander tries to pick out his best men for promotion. I gave —— a chance in close order drill and in calisthenics for advancement to the grade of corporal and I thought he was doing better than anybody else." As a corporal he will be responsible for the antitank gun, its truck and five-man crew.

This was recently quoted in The Post. The private involved is a national figure and from what I know about him he will and can earn promotions. But let us hope that this basis of advancement is exceptional, unless I am badly misinformed.

Is it possible that in this day of small mobile units, mechanized troops, deadly gunfire, that our Army staff promotes men on the basis of "close order drill and calisthenics?" It sounds like nineteenth century Gilbert and Sullivan.

Will such tests train an officer to take care of his men and himself against panzer divisions in open field attacks? Foreign correspondents send reports of tactics rather remote from the drill grounds of West Point. V. J. WICKOFF.

Decentralization

The new Navy Building approaches completion in Arlington County. The Army prepares to erect a great office building there. In the meanwhile, Social Security talks of erecting a building in some city remote from Washington. The tendency to depart from the seat of the Federal Government should be discouraged, because, once started, log-rolling politicians would indulge in a wild scramble to favor their home communities and we would have a hodgepodge mess.

There is ample room in Arlington to place buildings much closer to the White House and Capitol than even the old boundary of Florida Avenue. If the Federal Government will take the bull by the horns, recognize its opportunity before the empty brickyard areas are built up with industrial plants, and provide additional roads and bridges to Arlington, the problem of where to locate future Government buildings will be solved.

There is no need to sacrifice the Experimental Farm area. That beautiful section should be reserved to provide for the extension of Arlington Cemetery. However, the section between the farm and Columbia Pike known as Queen City should be taken over by the Federal Government and its present inhabitants provided with modern and sanitary homes elsewhere. The proposed Army Building should go farther south than is at present proposed. It should not crowd the approach to Arlington Gate. More than a square mile of land almost empty of buildings lies between Columbia Pike on the north, Virginia Highlands on the south, the abandoned Alexandria electric line on the east and Arlington Ridge Road on the west. Here homes could be provided for thousands of workers and congestion on the bridges correspondingly relieved. The merchants of Washington would still get the business of these people because Washington is today the shopping and movie theater center for all of Arlington.

Serious Entertainment

At present, with public sentiment so extremely on edge, it is particularly interesting to note that Hollywood soon will launch a new picture called "Private Yoo-Hoo," based on the now famous incident of Gen. Lear.

Our strife between labor and capital, nationalities and otherwise is not enough yet, so Hollywood will add something brand new to the already overboiling pot!

I honestly think it is high time that Hollywood directors should understand that public opinion right now is set for more serious entertainment, a few less kisses, romances and crooners.

Fair Coverage

The tenants of the Dupont Circle Apartments wish to express their appreciation of the fair and impartial treatment which The Washington Post accorded the Congressional hearings on the leasing of the Dupont Circle Apartments to the Government.

The manner in which you handled the news of these hearings unquestionably aided in dispelling much of the confusion originally intended to surround the leasing arrangements.

Such alertness on the part of the press is a powerful deterrent to victimizations of the public.

Legal Proposals

The reported confession of a laborer's assault upon a 15-year-old girl and of the wanton murder of my friend, Jess Dunn, warden of McAlister Oklahoma State Prison, by desperate convicts call attention to the need for proper legislation and administrative action.

In the case of assaulting rapists, California has an applicable law, which has been in effect for some years. Upon conviction, in violent cases, automatically a 20-year-sentence must be imposed, with the alternative that the offender may elect to go to a State Hospital and be sterilized.

As to Oklahoma, it may be said that the able, and brave Jess Dunn is a victim of the failure of that State to carry through recommendations of a State commission composed of able citizens: some of them from her universities, some from the ranks of mental hygiene hospital staffs and others from the ranks of former sheriffs, business concerns, labor organizations and the professions. Under the plan these desperate types would have been segregated before this in a separate prison where they could have that combination of medical treatment and wholesome work which is best suited to the needs of such antisocial cases. As a consultant to the National Resources Planning Board, my services were loaned to Oklahoma in 1937 and 1938 to help work out the far reaching program only partly carried into effect.

Swastika

Mr. Thomas J. Culhane's elaborate essay about the "swastika" was more than instructive. May I add that the "swastika" is explained by Lippert in his "History of Culture" and also by Schurtz as a symbol of the first instrument to make fire the peoples used in prehistoric times. Two cave men would sit on their crossed legs facing each other. In their midst in the ground would be fixed a pole of some hardwood. They would have in their hands a stick with short handles on each end. Then one would rub his stick on the side of the pole facing his partner. By quick movements they would soon produce fire by putting dry grass on the rubbed place. It is quite natural that these crossed sticks with handles on the ends are the elements of the decorative "swastika"—so dear to any nation as symbolizing the beginning of technical civilization. Just the same way the Navajo Indians cherish also the arrow.

There is nothing "Aryan" in the sign of "swastika." Even the old Hebrews and Egyptians used this decorative motive.

It has been found also in old Latvian graves dating more than 800 years back before Jesus Christ. In modern times the Latvians, and if I am not mistaken also the Finns, used the "swastika" as a national emblem on their aeroplanes as early as 1912, before Hitler started his movement.

It seems that the German Balt, Rosenberg, who joined Hitler, put in his mind the absurd idea of the "swastika" being the sign of the "Aryans." The German Balts themselves plagiarized it from Latvian folklore. The Latvians call it also the "thunder cross." As a matter of fact nobody is entitled to monopolize this ancient symbol of the beginning of technical progress. Technical progress is the basis of sound democracy and democracy shall finally prevail.

Dictators' Textbook

"Princes ought, therefore, to make the art of war their sole study and occupation, for it is peculiarly the science of those that govern," said Niccolo Machiavelli 250 years ago.

Dramatist, historian, statesman, Niccolo Machiavelli wrote a textbook for the dictators and would-be conquerors of his time—seventeenth century Italy—which is by no means outdated today. He called his little book "The Prince" after the titular heads of the states in Italy at that time, and in it laid down simple laws and fundamental directions for seizing control of, holding and expanding a national state.

Up until the rise of our present crop of dictators, "The Prince" might have seemed pretty dead reading to us. But we now have a grim experimental ground on which to apply Machiavelli's principles—Europe.

"Do what we may, take what ever precautions we can, unless we divide and disperse the inhabitants, this name of liberty will never depart from the memory of their hearts, any more than the remembrance of their ancient institutions, and they will immediately recur to it on the slightest occasion."

These are ominous words for Hitler, who has conquered numerous free states, but apparently only begun to decimate one of them—Poland.

Michiavelli suggests two alternatives to this, however. One is to inhabit the conquered states. This is hardly a practicable course for Der Fuehrer, since he would have to scatter the German people over half of Europe. The other method is to set up a government of their own citizens, "for this new government, being created by the prince (conqueror) and dependent therefore on his favor and power, will be interested in exerting itself to support him."

Hitler has done very well with his Quislings, but some states—Netherlands, Belgium, Greece—are still held in outright bondage.

Machiavelli has also probed the prince's domestic affairs and laid down several laws for conducting government at home that Hitler seems to have followed.

A prince to preserve himself in office must make use of well applied cruelty. Machiavelli interprets well applied cruelty as being that "committed but once, and that of necessity for one's own preservation, but never repeated, and even then converted as much as possible to the benefit of the subjects."

"Ill applied are such cruelties as are but few in the beginning but in time do rather multiply than decrease."

Looking back over Hitler's period of reign, it is apparent that the bloodiest purges and harshest cruelties were inflicted during his early years in power, though it is hardly likely that he conducts German domestic affairs with a gloved hand today. If he continues his cruelty to any extent, the tyrant will be "obliged to be always ready with his knife in his hand; for he never can repose any confidence in his subjects, while they, by reason of his fresh and continued inhumanities, cannot be secure against him."

This does not mean however that the ruler should assume only the saintly qualities.

"A prince should earnestly endeavor to gain the reputation of kindness, clemency, piety, justice and fidelity to his engagements," says Machiavelli, but hastens to add:

"A prince cannot with impunity exercise all the virtues, because his own self-preservation will often compel him to violate the laws of charity, religion and humanity. It will be as useful to him to persevere in the path of rectitude, while he feels no inconvenience in doing so, as to know how to deviate from it when circumstances dictate such a course."

It hardly takes half an eye to see that Hitler has observed these principles with his orders for relentless persecution of the Jews one day, and his kissing of babies the next.

Machiavelli has some timely hints on the conduct of diplomatic relations also.

"A prudent prince cannot and ought not to keep his word except when he can do it without injury to himself. As the generality of mankind are wicked, and ever ready to break their word, a prince should not pique himself on keeping his word more scrupulously, especially as it is always easy to justify a breach of faith on his part. I could give numerous proofs of this, and show numberless engagements and treaties that have been violated by the treachery of princes, and that those who enacted the part of the fox have always succeeded best in their affairs."

Hitler has followed this law with excellent success up to the present time. But whether his latest breach of faith—breaking the nonaggression pact with Stalin—will end so happily as the others remains to be seen.

The Italian diplomat devotes a chapter to how princes become esteemed by their people. He cites the case of Ferdinand, King of Spain, who, "under the cloak of religion" (today they use "living space" or national security) "attacked Africa, Italy and France, always having some great design in view, the event of which kept his subjects in continual suspense and admiration. And those enterprises succeeded one another so speedily that his subjects had no leisure to think of other matters, much less engage in conspiracies against him."

This very methodology probably has been the greatest single basis of the German people's loyalty to Hitler.

"Antoninus Caracalla possessed also many excellent qualities, which made him dear to the legions and respected by the people; he was a warrior, an indefatigable enemy of effeminacy and high living, which rendered him the idol of the army; but then he carried his ferocity to such a pitch that not only the people, but the soldiery, and even his own officers, bore him an irreconcilable hatred. He perished by the hand of a centurion; a fatale vengeance for all the blood he had caused to be shed in Rome and in Alexandria, where none of the inhabitants escaped carnage."

HAYNES MAHONEY.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

The War Comes Nearer

LIPPMANN

AT LEAST it can be said that the French people did not of their own free will consent to the violation of their solemn pledges and to the black treachery of collaboration against their allies and friends. What has happened in France shows that a dictatorship is needed to destroy the resistance of the French nation before the resources of France — its ships, ports and fighting men—can be used for this gigantic betrayal.

There is now no longer any doubt that in Admiral Darlan, or through him and behind him, a dictatorship has been set up for the purpose of compelling France to fight for Hitler. There may be a faint doubt as to whether Admiral Darlan can effectively crush resistance in France; there may be a slightly stronger doubt whether he can dictate with entire effectiveness in North Africa. But there is no doubt that Darlan and the men of Vichy mean to try and do that. Behind the curtain of censorship, increasingly ruthless methods will be employed to break the spirit of the French people.

ASSURANCES, explanations and sentimental appeals, whether they come from Marshal Petain, the French Ambassador in Washington or from spokesmen in Vichy, can deceive no one. If Vichy does not surrender the fleet and the African ports and join the Axis as an active belligerent, it will be only because the Darlan dictatorship has not yet purged, imprisoned or otherwise liquidated the Frenchmen who are opposed to the great betrayal. It takes some time for a dictatorship to overcome all resistance: Mussolini needed several years and Hitler more than one year.

Darlan, too, may need a little time. But no one can any longer indulge in doubt that, backed by the whole power of Nazi Germany, the Darlan dictatorship will now move as rapidly as French resistance can be overcome toward active participation in the war.

THUS the die is cast, and Vichy, which has already opened the gates of Indo-China to Japan, will now use all of its powers of compulsion, corruption and seduction to open the gates of North Africa to Hitler. Vichy, which swore to high heaven it would defend the French Empire, has in fact used its Asiatic empire to let the triple Axis create a new war front in the Pacific and it will now use its African empire to let the Nazis create a new war front in the South Atlantic.

We see, therefore, how unfounded has been the optimism which has looked upon the Russian campaign as putting an end to Hitler's threats against Britain and the United States. It is true that Hitler's attack on Russia has opened up a new fighing front against Germany. But Hitler, who is no fool, has in reply undertaken to open up at least two and perhaps three fighting fronts against the democracies. Using Japan and Vichy France in the Far East, he has opened up a new front in the South Pacific which threatens gravely the Philippines, Singapore, Australia, the Netherlands Indies and the supply lines of China. Using Vichy France, and in some measure General Franco, he is preparing to open up a new front which threatens the whole connection between South America, North America and the British Isles. Finally, there is a strong prospect that he will induce the Japanese to open up a third new front in Siberia, thus gravely threatening Alaska and the sea routes of the Northern Pacific. If he can break through the Russian resistance and establish physical contact with Japan through Siberia all the four corners of our world position will then be under fire.

THE FREE WORLD today extends north and south from Alaska to the Argentine, and from the British Isles in the northeast through North America to Australia, the Indies, and China in the southwest. Were the Nazi-Japanese combination to occupy Siberia in the northwest, Singapore in the southwest, the British Isles in the northeast and West Africa and the Atlantic islands in the southeast, we should stand entirely encircled and completely isolated. We should be subject to blockade, raids and surprise attack in both oceans and from all directions. The conquest of Russia and the occupation of Siberia, the final French capitulation in Africa, are now in sight: The Russians may be able to resist, Gen. Weygand or some one else may be able to rebel, but it would be in the last degree imprudent to count on such windfalls.

Thus the stage is being set for the great struggle which will be waged in both oceans for the purpose of destroying the influence and breaking the power of Great Britain and America.

With the Axis powers striking at Britain in the North Atlantic, through the French and Spanish possessions at the South Atlantic, through Siberia at the North Pacific, through Indo-China at the South Pacific, it is no longer fair or truthful on the part of Republican politicians to talk as if their own Government were trying to provoke a war which would otherwise leave us alone. It is quite true that neither the Axis nor Japan wishes to fight us now, and if we will agree to let them conquer Europe and Asia and get into a position where we can never fight them and must capitulate, they would much prefer it.

If the Republican politicians are content to have Hitler and the Japanese opposite Alaska, to lose the Philippines and have the Japanese at Singapore and in control of Australasia, to have the Nazis at Dakar and the Azores and in control of the sea communications to South America, and to have Britain conquered and ruled by the British Darlan, then their partisan policy is intelligible. But if they really mean to defend the vital interests of America, and to retain the means with which to defend these vital interests, then these politicians are following a course which, if it is taken, means disaster for this country, and if it is rejected, means ignominious discredit for them.

Propaganda In Latin America

By Carlos C. Nagel

Axis Agents Counter Moves For Hemispheric Unity

COMPARATIVELY unnoticed, Senor Manuel Bianchi, Chile's new Ambassador to Great Britain and former secretary of foreign relations, passed through New York City a short time ago, bound for Lisbon and London via clipper. This slight, unpretentious-looking Chilean is one of the foremost authorities on South American politics; yet his arrival and departure made no headlines. He gave few interviews, but for a small group of friends in a farewell party he answered one seemingly unimportant question.

"No," Senor Bianchi said, "I am afraid that President Roberto M. Ortiz of the Argentine will not resume his office. Although otherwise in good health again, his failing eyesight will compel him to remain in retirement—leaving the Acting President to handle the affairs of state."

There is good reason to believe that the recent secretary of foreign relations of Chile would be well informed on the matter. Chile and the Argentine are neighbors; they are two of the most powerful and progressive countries of South America; and they keep in close touch with each others' affairs. The health of President Ortiz is of international importance, since his person may swing the Argentine government into closer cooperation with the United States and Great Britain.

Ortiz is a great admirer of President Roosevelt and his policy of defense of the Americas. The President of the Argentine believes in close cooperation with the United States against the Axis governments. Many of the Argentine's cabinet members, led by the Acting President, Senor Ramon S. Castillo, differ with Ortiz. The German and Italian representatives in Argentina, as well as the Axis sympathizers among the public officials and general public, would much rather have President Ortiz remain away from La Casa Rosada, the official Presidential mansion, as would the percentage of people who want Argentina to remain strictly neutral in this World War.

IF we consider Argentina's preponderant position within the concert of South American nations, we are justified in supposing that its capital, Buenos Aires, is headquarters for a number of undercover propaganda campaigns, for and against inter-American cooperation. Observers openly admit that here, again, Germany has beaten Great Britain and the United States to the draw. Only a year ago to date, no steps of consequence had been taken to counteract Axis propaganda in the Argentine.

The American Embassy and consulates throughout the nation were aware of the many obvious devices employed by Axis agents within the country, and there was no lack of diligence on the part of these American officials to report the movements—but no orders or tools with which to fight them were forthcoming from Washington. An American representative in the Argentine expressed himself this way:

"Each member of the embassy's staff, as well as of the consulates, has a certain function to fulfill. It is a routine task which certainly does not contemplate counter-propaganda or include research work into the activities of Axis agents in the Argentine. Even if we wanted to, we could not do it."

CONDITIONS, of course, have somewhat changed since then. The Office of Coordination of Commercial and Cultural Relations Between the American Republics, a government office established under the Council for National Defense, headed by Nelson Rockefeller, and other private organizations are slowly taking on the aspect of propaganda agencies. No doubt the Rockefeller outfit will become, in time, the official channel for the distribution of national propaganda.

The Germans, however, through their tremendously efficient Geopolitical Institute in Munich, have a machine that has been running smoothly for years. Maj. Gen. Prof. Dr. Karl Haushofer, head of the institute and reputedly the writer of the chapter on Germanic expansion in "Mein Kampf," from the beginning of Germany's attempt for world domination, has considered South America as the weakest link in the American defense chain. And he went to work early to corrode that particular link!

The Germans have made a careful study of South America. They have compiled a detailed and complex file on each of its countries, its leaders and its peoples. Dr. Haushofer is not only an internationalist but his military commission of major general indicates he has acquired a thorough knowledge of military life from his years of active service. While other high-ranking officers of the German army prepare the series of successful campaigns throughout Europe, Maj. Gen. Haushofer, as Dr. Haushofer, prepares, with the same care and detail, the campaigns which soften and shatter the morale of the peoples which his military colleagues will confront later on. The Geopolitical Institute announces that the German organization of propaganda in South America is superior to any which had been planned for the downfall of Norway, France or the Balkans.

The fruits of such work are already apparent. In 1917, and thereafter, seven Latin-American countries declared war on Germany. Today, in spite of strong "good neighbor" activities between the Americas, there are no indications that a state of war between the Axis governments and the United States would be followed by any of the Latin-American countries. After America entered World War I, it was soon obvious that Germany faced defeat; hence, some of the Central American countries saw the value of "getting on the band wagon." The most efficient written propaganda at that time was handled by Reuters News Service, an effective British tool to which the Germans gave proper credit for being partially responsible for their collapse. That they learned their lesson is proved by what today is going on throughout Latin America—mainly in the Argentine.

THE EFFICIENCY of the German propaganda machine in the Argentine has been made possible by three factors: (1) the very intense feeling of nationalism prevailing in that country; (2) the obvious success of the German war machine, and (3) the news from the United States.

Every Argentinian is aware that his country is, if not the leader, one of the most advanced countries of South America. Chaos and ruin in Europe is pushing the Argentine to the front in world importance. Any entanglement with European affairs at present might retard or nullify its progress. An Argentine statesman ably voiced the reaction of his people when he declared: "Maintenance of peace during these times of warfare in Europe to us means enormous strides in national progress, and we feel that we can perhaps be of greater stabilizing influence to the rest of the world." Argentina is willing and eager to cooperate with the other nations of the Americas, but only by adhering strictly to the decisions of the last Havana Conference; that is, by consulting and agreeing to a uniform norm of conduct in regard to the European situation.

In other words, the German propaganda office in Buenos Aires has been successful in inspiring the confidence and security that Germany will not, if victorious in Europe, Asia and Africa, occupy militarily, or dominate economically, Argentina or any other country of the Americas.

Dr. Haushofer's agents have been clever enough to mention only superficially the perfection of the German military machine and its role in the Hitler blitzkrieg. They know that the South American people are not militaristic, but, like young people, idealistic. They have no need to mention something that is obvious. What they do emphasize, however, is the corruption which rioted in the European democracies of a few years ago—their disorganization and internal disturbances, which the Nazi regime remedied in Germany through the National Socialistic regime doctrine as taught by Adolf Hitler.

AT LEAST a dozen newspapers in the Argentine are openly in favor of the Nazi regime. An additional number of papers are unwilling channels of Nazi propaganda. The latter, having little money to operate, accept material and pictures free of charge from the German news services which exist profusely throughout South America. Every bit of information and every photograph tends to glorify Germany, its people and its armed forces with very little disguise in their intent.

The press in general strongly features the lack of preparedness in the United States and, for effect, quotes the direct comments and criticisms as headlined in the free American press. The fact that freedom of belief and speech is impossible in Germany is of little value in making the South American people understand that only in a democracy can such freedom be found. Few readers will draw such conclusions, true as they are. The activities of the America First Committees and the speeches of such isolationists as Lindbergh and Wheeler are used to create the impression of disunity within the country "above the Rio Grande."

The Axis agents in the Argentine find a vital implement of propaganda in the labor disputes of the United States. How can you expect aid from a government that is incapable of maintaining order within its own industries, they ask? How will the United States save you from a supposed totalitarian invasion when the materials for its own defense are being made by communistic workers who will strike when it pleases them? What can you expect from a people who put money above patriotism? It will take the United States at least four years, on their present schedule, to confront successfully our perfectly organized and equipped troops. By that time, the war will have ended and Great Britain defeated, they argue.

The Argentine people listen, read, and ponder.

If Fifth Column activities, rampant throughout South America, are as deadly as experience has taught us to consider—let us study a map of the country for possible encouragement in its geographical position, since we are irremediably bound to Latin America by the Monroe Doctrine.

Until recent world events presented the possibility of a German invasion of the Western Hemisphere, we were never fully aware of the fact that "keeping the Americas for the people of the Americas" implied a commitment which made it necessary for us to consider, also, the use of another nation's power to reinforce such a desire. World War II has taught us that, in order to maintain the effect of the Monroe Doctrine, we shall have to keep the friendship of Great Britain and the cooperation of her navy. If Britain is beaten, her navy scuttled, sunk or captured, the nations of South America will be subject to European surveillance. The United States Navy has not yet reached the proportions of a two-ocean navy, capable of protecting the extensive American coasts which have too few fortifications. In order to protect the additional 12,000 miles of Latin American coast, Britain's help will have to be solicited if we are to prevent a Nazi infiltration from the south. The easternmost point of Brazil is closer to Africa than is the most southern tip of Florida.

SOME THEORISTS have mentioned the need of leaving the southern countries of South America to their own fate in the event of an emergency, and to concentrate on the fortification of Central America and the northern countries. Such a plan is impractical, for among the southern countries are Chile and the Argentine, both possessing immense natural resources, both among the most advanced countries of South America, and both wealthy in the strategic raw materials which Germany needs—copper, tin, nitrate, beef, wheat and corn.

Chile, with its 2,800 miles of coast line to defend, is also a much needed "stutzpunkt" (support point) for the success of the German scheme.

The Chilean army, for a long time has been deeply influenced by the German military system. German military regulations have been closely followed since 1902, and until recently, the Chilean uniform was an exact reproduction of the German. Because of their excellent military training, Chilean officers have been sent to other South American countries (Venezuela, Ecuador) to serve as instructors. It is easy to understand that such an army will have the majority of its officers following closely and with relish the success of the German military machine—perhaps not with approval of what the forces represent or fight for, but surely with admiration for perfect technique. A perfect state of mind for receptive propaganda, furnished by Dr. Haushofer.

FREQUENTLY, people in the United States speak of certain regions in Brazil, Chile and the Argentine as being strongly colonized by Germans. This statement, while it is true, is widely interpreted without true analysis. In the case of Chile, for example, the statement is definitely misleading because it tends to give an impression of being a new phenomenon—a mass immigration contrived by the new German octopus in an effort to embrace all universal aspects. We do not think of Yorkville or certain sections of Milwaukee as being populated by Hitlerites for reasons of German expansion within the borders of the United States. Likewise, there have been old German settlers in Chile. The typical landowners of southern Chile, who are second or third generation Chileans, may have German heritages, but they are no more parts of the Nazi regime than are the old German immigrants to America. You will find in their homes pictures of Frederic the Great, the Kaiser, perhaps Bismarck, and in their living rooms you will find the flag their ancestors knew, the old black-white-and-red banner, but nothing else to endanger their homes, lands and possessions, for the sake of a nation they left years ago with nothing more than an honest desire to make a new home in "Sud Amerika."

On the other hand, through the persistent and organized efforts of the German propaganda office, the new immigrant to southern Chile is regarded by the old German descendants as the "Ausland-Deutsche," the "foreign German." There is nothing subtle about his work. He works within the extent of Chilean laws and readily apologizes if any of his agents exceed the limits. Before the present Nazi regime had an opportunity to show the world its efficiency and preparedness through conquest, the German agents worked through good will and friendliness.

An interesting example can be seen in the town of Osorno, located in the lake region of Chile and the center of its agricultural wealth. Eight years ago the numerous German descendants of the town and surrounding countryside built a church. The highlight in its plan was a tower-clock, a luxury not dreamed of, presented the populace by Adolf Hitler, through his Ambassador in Santiago. At the presentation ceremony, the Ambassador, speaking in German, hinted that the time for "Der Tag" had arrived. This happened eight years ago, however, in the era of "propaganda through friendliness" when here in the United States as in other parts of the world, people were blissfully ignorant or too self-content to bother with the actions of a fanatical paper hanger.

The present government of Chile is supported by the Socialist element of the country, but the more moderate radicals have a strong influence. The unexpected war between Germany and Russia has caused much confusion in the nations' politics, but it has had the beneficial result of isolating the Communist Party which has always been identified by the moderates as being linked with Stalin's regime. This isolation can be traced to the nation's intense desire, like the Argentine, to remain neutral in the European conflict.

Here again, the reasons for isolation, paralleling the Argentine's, are properly encouraged by German propaganda. The Chileans still cannot believe that the young pinked-cheeked boys who crowd the sports fields of the numerous Germanic "turn-vereins" could possibly be the agents of the Gestapo from far-away Munich and Berlin. Dr. Karl Haushofer is completely unknown in Chile—but so is the Dies Committee!

Fair Enough

Uniforms For Press Agents

IN WASHINGTON, custom forbids officers of armed forces to be seen in public in uniform, except in time of shooting war or in time of cocktails or other ceremonial banality, the idea being that the statesmen on the hill might take fright or umbrage at the sight of so many clanking warriors, and cut off all military appropriations to prevent a putsch.

PEGLER

The wisdom of this pathetic decree has been debated informally in the services, with only a few officers holding that a soldier should wear the habit of his trade in peace as well as in war.

Most of them prefer mufti for several personal reasons which apply not only in the Capital but everywhere else. One is that the officer in uniform has no privacy in public, but may be badgered by any bore who has a cousin serving at Fort Snelling and regards that fact as a bond of interest with a professional man of arms who is weary of talking shop and only wants to read a detective story or look out the train window. Another is the idiotic, useless, expensive and uncomfortable affectation known as the Sam Browne belt, adopted from the British in the first World War and never abandoned by our Army, lest a decision so to do wound the feelings of Gen. John J. Pershing.

AS long as the old gentleman lives, and presumably for a respectful interval after he is laid away in Arlington, officers of another generation will have to wear this heavy harness which serves no purpose but to torture the man inside it and needlessly consume so many thousand units of leather and brass which might be put to better use. But I find myself straying again from the theme of my piece, a symptom of senility which occurs more often these days and which I trust you will remind me of, but kindly, please.

My thought for the day is that if it is possible that Congress would be impressed by the very number of officers on desk duty in Washington were they to go in uniform, it would be a very wise idea to insist that all Government press agents, regardless of their official classification or guise, be required to wear some distinctive garb to identify them to the statesmen and the people. There are so many of these now that no man in the Government has any idea of their total number. They have crept into the woodwork of the National Capital during these last eight years and a bit, quietly, one by one, on the recommendation of this or that bureau chief and all of them, it goes without saying, are bread-and-butter socialists at least, and some true-believing collectivists.

IT is not merely a question of numbers and of the gross aggregate expense of keeping them in jobs on salaries ranging as high as $10,000 a year. Equally interesting is the fact that they constitute a horde of tenacious and cunning parasites who have developed a remarkable skill in discovering quiet hiding places on the pay rolls and spotting new ones in advance when some developed instinct warns them that a new administration is coming in, bringing his own apologists, or that an appropriation is about to be cut.

Like creatures of the wild, they have developed a protective coloration, which is to say, the appearance of statisticians, librarians and quiet geniuses and an art of disguise on the books whereby a disgruntled former journalist may be listed as an executive assistant or research secretary, whose job actually is to ballyhoo his chief and the general philosophy of the New Deal, whatever it is. Their recommendations are as various as their number is great, but the basic reason for hiring in each case is not one of public interest but the individual's desire for a tolerably easy and secure job involving only mild exertions.

AN EXAMPLE for purposes of illustration is one who has been drawing $21 a day in the role "consultant" on the books for writing departmental publicity releases but, admittedly, it is impossible even to guess how many there are when the term press agent is never used and euphemisms are.

It it my theory that if all the members of this corps of both genders were made to wear a distinctive uniform, not necessarily unattractive like that of orphans or paupers in an English town or gaudy like those of the station master and postman in pre-war continental Europe, Congress and the people both would learn and view with a certain alarm a condition which today only the most cynical can suspect. About one person in four, in Washington, I believe, would prove to be a tub-thumper for some bureau or bureaucrat and, thus identified, their appointments could be traced down and revealed as an item of pork or de luxe charity.

It seems unnecessary to predict the effect of this revelation on a legislative body which long has been deliberately deceived by so docile and harmless a body as the officers of the Army, Navy and Marines.

Famed Shrine at Lourdes Attracts Throng of Refugees

In the decades-long procession of religious pilgrims to the famous Catholic shrine at Lourdes, France, the latest big delegation was composed of 10,000 war refugees from Lorraine, at the opposite side of France. Expelled from their homes by the Nazis, they assembled at Lourdes from all parts of Unoccupied France as "an act of faith and a token of confidence."

"Pilgrims have been flocking to Lourdes, at the threshold of the Pyrenees Mountains, ever since a peasant girl in 1858 said that the Virgin Mary was revealed to her in a beautiful grotto," says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society. "Peacetime visitors from around the world have ranged upward from 600,000 a year, with the longest lines forming in the vacation month of August.

"Churches have been built above and in front of the grotto, which extends about 15 feet into the hillside. On a rock near the entrance is a statue of the Virgin. The grotto walls are lined with crutches, left by afflicted men, women and children who have ascribed cures to visits to the shrine. In the grotto, too, is a spring in which many of the pilgrims bathe.

"Accommodating the thousands of visitors has become almost the sole business of the 9,000 residents of Lourdes. Inns, restaurants, stores—all must be provided for the throngs. Quarrying of marble and slate from the rolling mountains is about the only other industry aside from farming.

"In the days before firearms, when the ancient fortress overlooking Lourdes was considered impregnable, the town was called the 'key to the Pyrenees.' Seven passes lead from it to mountain resorts. The Spanish Border is only 20 miles away, while the Atlantic Coast is about four times that distance."

Bagdad Looted In "Terror"

By Edward Kennedy
Associated Press Staff Writer

Bagdad, Aug. 13.—The bodies of those slain during a two-day reign of terror begun when the abortive pro-Nazi government of Rashid Ali Al-Gailani fled into exile before advancing British troops still are being found in wells, sewers and cellars of this desert capital.

At least 240 were killed when local looters and fierce desert tribesmen pillaged the city, but nobody in authority yet knows the full story. Many Jews were among the victims. Young girls listed as missing were believed to have been carried off into the desert by their captors.

Anarchy descended on the city May 31 and June 1 and Bagdad itself narrowly escaped total destruction before the British arrived to reestablish order. Kurdish troops of the defeated Iraqi army also are credited with helping save the city.

Regent Abdul Ilah, who was ousted by Rashid Ali Gailani after months of plotting, now is back here and a government formed under him is functioning.

Responsible Iraqis would like to forget what happened during those two days, but here is the story as pieced together from them and others who lived through it:

On May 30 as 900 British troops were marching on Bagdad at the close of a month-old undeclared war, Rashid Ali and his "golden four" generals responsible for the Nazi-inspired coup d'etat against the pro-British government of Abdul Ilah, saw that the jig was up.

Along with Haj Amin El-Husseini Al Husseini, the grand mufti of Jerusalem—long exiled from Palestine because of his attempts to stir up the Arabs there against the Jews and the British government—Rashid Ali and his generals decided to flee to neighboring Iran (Persia).

They stuffed rolls of bank notes into satchels and headed for the border. But before crossing into Iran they were stopped by guards loyal to Abdul Ilah who seized their loads of money and allowed them to take only one month's salary with them.

The next day, May 31, the looting in Bagdad began by groups of deserters from the retreating Iraqi army. Many local undesirables and even some capital policemen joined them.

They went for the Jewish quarters, shot the locks off doors or battered them in. They shot and knifed their way indoors.

Women and children fled to the rooftops. Some of them leaped to their death. Others were attacked on the roofs, killed and their bodies thrown to the ground below. Downstairs those who were caught were killed and their bodies often tossed out the windows into the courtyards.

Modern homes also were sacked and in many cases Moslem looters fought and killed one another over the spoils.

Almost all British homes were looted, but their occupants escaped violence by fleeing to either the British Embassy or the United States Legation, where some Iraqi policemen stood guard.

It is estimated that two million dollars worth of property changed hands in the mad two-day scramble. Several business houses have not yet been able to reopen.

Does Absence Make the Heart Grow Fonder? They'll Find Out

By Inez Robb

International News Service Staff Writer

New York, Aug. 13 (INS).—The Nation's dream princes from Seattle to Sarasota are about to find out whether absence really makes the heart grow fonder.

Caught in the draft not for 12 but for 30 months, the Nation's outstanding glamour lads of the Selective Service army will have to find out the hard way if the girls really meant au revoir and not goodby.

BILLY LIVINGSTON
Now, He's Wearing Army Hat

The toney draftees include Winthrop Rockfeller, Hollywood's Jimmy Stewart, William McChesney Martin, the boy wonder of Wall Street and former president of the stock exchange; Hank Greenberg, whose next home run is a lot further off than he suspected; Winthrop Gardiner, Billy Livingston, Bobby Labranche and Joe Paterno, who used to be set pieces in New York's fashionable night spots; and John Astor Drayton, brilliant great-great-grandson of the original John Jacob Astor.

Even though Uncle Sam will probably keep these killer-dillers out of circulation for a total of two and one-half years each, it seems incredible that the girls will forget a glamour boy as:

1—Rich, eligible, pleasant and well-mannered as Winthrop Rockefeller.

2—Or as talented, companionable and famous as Jimmy Stewart.

3—Or as bound to succeed and be a good provider as humorous, quiet, self-effacing William McChesney Martin.

4—Or as patently the American athletic hero as Hank Greenberg.

5—Or as completely charming and good-looking as Winthrop Gardiner.

6—Or as amusing at all times as Billy Livingston, who used to be counted among the legion of Brenda Frazier Kelly's Beaux.

7—Or as polished a court jester as Bobby Labranche.

8—Or as tall, dark and handsome as Joe Paterno.

9—Or as brilliant as Jack Drayton whose I. Q., the Army discovered the other day, is two notches higher than a fox's.

The situation is a trifle up in the air for Winnie Gardiner and Joe Paterno, the all-out glamour boy and handsome Harry of the lot. They are both in the process of being parted from their respective wives, Babs Beckwith Gardiner, the beautiful model, filed a divorce suit against Gardiner in Florida late in May. Beverly Paterno, Joe's blonde wife, has filed suit for separation in New York State.

In the meantime, the fan mail for the majority of the draft army's glamour boys continues to arrive in Army trucks. Most of them have enough mittens, sox, scarves and sweaters to last out the duration, whether it be 12 or 30 months. And it seems unlikely, with such personality boys, that the gift situation will diminish.

It's not the draftees, it's the girls they left behind, who are

District Officials Tour 'Backyard Playgrounds'

The recent popular song containing the lines, "Playmate, come play with me . . . climb up my apple tree . . . slide down my cellar door, and we'll be friends for ever more," about typifies the current Backyard Playground Contest now being held in Washington, and which ends Saturday.

The contest in its second year is sponsored by the Department of Vehicles and Traffic, the Recreation Department, and the Junior Board of Commerce in cooperation with the District Work Project Administration.

Yesterday afternoon a number of officials from these departments visited some representative backyard playgrounds to see just what they were like.

They saw backyards of the well-to-do and of those in moderate circumstances. All met the aim of the contest. To stimulate interest in providing a place for pre-school age children to play and thus keep them off the city streets. Their ultimate aim is to have one backyard playground in each city block.

The judging will begin Saturday. Persons wishing to enter their backyards in the contest are urged by the sponsors to do so at once. The contest is open to all, free of charge, and prizes are offered for both playgrounds made with purchased equipment and those constructed of homemade materials.

Bicycle Messenger Hurt In Collision With Auto

CRASH SCENE—George Smith, telegraph boy, lies injured on the street car tracks at Fourteenth and Pennsylvania Avenue while waiting for the arrival of an ambulance. Smith, 20, en route on a bicycle to The Post with the Weather Bureau report, collided with an auto. Deputy Coroner Richard Rosenberg is at right. Arrow points to the weather report in Smith's hat

A 20-year-old messenger for a telegraph company was injured last night when the bicycle he was riding collided with an automobile in Post Square while he was en route to deliver a message to The Washington Post.

The youth, George Smith, 507 M Street Southwest, was removed to Emergency Hospital in an ambulance and treated for cuts and head injuries.

Police said the accident occurred when the car was making a turn into Fourteenth Street from Pennsylvania Avenue. A few minutes after the accident, the telegraph company phoned The Post to learn whether the youth had been there with the message. It was the report from the United States Weather Bureau. The report was delivered a half hour later by another messenger.

Police said the automobile was driven by Edgar A. Ash, of Belleville, Ill.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have three children, the eldest of whom is a daughter, aged 22. She is a graduate of high school and business college and now holds a fairly good position, paying about $1,500 a year. She doesn't save a cent and contributes very little to the home. She smokes and drinks and comes home around 3 a. m., just barely able to "make the grade."

This is my problem, and I have been so worried that recently, one time when she came home at that hour in that condition, my emotions got the best of me and I slapped her, left and right. All I ask of her is that she give up smoking and drinking, because it leads to no good. But she tells me she will do as she pleases and that I am behind the times. It is true I was reared in poverty, with little education, but I believe in living clean and decent. I am heartsick. Please advise me.

S. G. F.

DEAR S. G. F.: There is evidence to indicate that you may be unwittingly to blame for your daughter's defiantly non-cooperative behavior; that you are pathetically inept in dealing with her; that, indeed, you are as far from being a wise, resourceful parent as she is short of being an exemplary daughter. You are continuing to treat her as if she were a little child, instead of a grown girl; as if she were a puppet possession, instead of a person in her own right.

In angrily slapping her, "left and right," because her actions displease or alarm you, and in carrying the burden of her support, while she fritters away most of her salary as though it were a personal allowance, you are failing to treat with her on an adult (or "reasoning") level of behavior. When a youngster is newly arrived at an age and position in life where he feels entitled to exercise "grown up" privileges, he must be given to see, in case he does not already concede, that he must likewise shoulder the manifold responsibilities entailed by his adult status.

In your daughter's case, that would mean, among other things, (1) paying approximately the same "board," at home, that she would pay if entirely on her own away from the family (in return for which she would receive not only those necessities of life for which she was contracting with her parents, but also innumerable gratuities besides); and (2) ordering her social life, her comings and goings, not only in such a manner as to prove her ability to sensibly use unchaperoned freedom of action, but also in a way which takes intelligent account of the social viewpoint of those with whom she resides. For no matter where a girl of 22 might live, she could not make a habit of staggering in at 3 a. m., under the influence of liquor, without stirring up trouble for herself.

You hold it against your daughter that she "doesn't save a cent and contributes very little to the home." But one cannot expect a badly trained child to behave other than offensively. Had she been properly reared, she would have been unconsciously prepared to take upon her own shoulders a fair share of responsibility of her upkeep, simultaneously with becoming a wage earner. Yet, supposing she showed a light hearted (or thoughtlessly selfish) disposition to evade this obligation, you (had you been a far sighted parent, adept at character training) would have immediately nipped that tendency in the bud, by quietly holding her to a steadier performance.

It would have been a matter of acquainting her with the sound financial policy of "paying as you go," so that she would have a sense of earned self respect, a growing ability to manage money wisely, and the pleasant assurance that she was legitimately enjoying the respectful approval of her kin. Thus conditioned to a feeling of adult responsibility, properly discharged, she would have experienced the tonic pride of being a competently functioning individual, and be rather more spontaneously disposed to work for your approval in other ways,— providing, of course, you were willing to meet her halfway in effecting a feasible compromise between your essentially different philosophies of behavior.

In lumping smoking and drinking together, as vices of coequal demoralizing power, you are giving her some warrant for totally rejecting your social viewpoint. Granted that smoking is an untidy, extravagant and perhaps nerve-fatiguing habit, still, it cannot possibly be put in the same category with habitual drinking, which is an invariable and progressively demoralizing practice. And in defense of smoking, your daughter may truly say that smoking amongst women is now an accepted part of the cultural pattern of "respectable" society.

Thus, if you were wise, you would leave smoking out of the dispute, and confine your objections to late hours and excessive alcoholism. You would further refrain from reviling her as an indecent and undutiful daughter for offending your sense of the fitness of things—and emphasize, rather, the penalty she must surely pay, in loss of beauty, vitality, charm, professional competence and social magnetism, if she habitually poisons her system and dulls her senses with overdoses of alcohol and cumulative chronic fatigue. Get her to thinking in terms of what she is doing to herself, and she may listen—which, obviously, she never will do while you are raging about how she is upsetting you.

Skin Care Necessary for Confident Chic

Freckles, blemishes, faded sun-tan and fatigue lines must be banished by scientific skin care, or artfully camouflaged by the use of cosmetics, if the 1941 "summer girl" is not to look like an "autumnal hag" in her September finery. Off-the-face hats, as above, need the sort of face pictured, for beautiful teamwork

Fall Modes Call for Fresh Faces

New Hats and Frocks Both Focus Attention On the Complexion

By Carolyn Abbott.

FALL'S NEW swish-brimmed hats that shoot upward and sideward at a rakish Merry Widow angle focus attention on the face. Emphasis on conservative, good quality frocks rather than frou-frou styles further spotlights the face. To wear these new autumn fashions, with any degree of chic, the face, which is the focal point, should be free of freckles, blemishes, faded suntan and fatigue lines.

If you have neglected to care for your face properly during the long, carefree, hot weather months (and what woman hasn't?), or if your skin is dry and leathery from too much sun, start now to recondition your face. You can restore its freshness and beauty through a series of salon or home treatments. Unless you are expert in muscle manipulation you cannot do a first class job. Get a reliable beauty expert to teach you the correct technique of muscle manipulation through patting, toning, cleansing and exercising of the face. It will make a vast difference in your appearance.

The first essential of skin beauty is cleanliness. Cleanse the face each night and morning. If you use cleansing cream apply it with a pad of cotton moistened with ice cold skin tonic. Then pat on a mild astringent to help clear, tone and refresh the skin. The toning of the skin is very important, for it helps to stir up circulation. Lack of good circulation dulls the skin and increases wrinkles and fatigue lines. To further aid circulation a salon of international renown places the client on a couch. The feet are slightly elevated, which, they maintain, brings a new supply of blood rushing to the face. Then a mask is placed over the face. This new type mask has tiny low voltage electric wires which are connected to a machine. A small current of electricity runs through the wires, which are protected so as to shield the face. This electric mask gently stirs up circulation in the face and neck. It is so soothing that you relax immediately. A trained nurse gives this treatment.

Then Comes the Massage

After the electric mask is removed, you are then escorted to another room and told to recline on a comfortable couch. Your face is then covered with a good lubricating cream and the operator massages this into the face with firm, gentle upward strokes. She works around the sagging chin lines, crowsfeet under eyes and the perverse forehead wrinkle. Later, with her hands she pulls up the sagging chin muscles, tying them in place with a chin strap. This chin strap helps to firm and mold the face contour by eradicating a relaxed and sagging chin. After this comes the removal of the chin strap and lubricating cream. A cream mask is then applied to the face and left on for 20 minutes. Soothing eye pads are placed over the eyes. You can feel your face tingle and glow. When the mask is removed, the skin is again cleansed and toned. Foundation cream, rouge, powder eye shadow, mascara, complete the transformation.

If your suntan is beginning to fade, or has turned a yellowish color, try a little bleach cream. Apply the bleaching cream two or three times a week. Besides removing a sallow looking suntan, it will banish brown spots and freckles.

Exercise Will Help

To help restore the oils to the face that the sun has depleted, use a night cream regularly. When you have a few moments to spare at home, lie down on your bed, place two pillows under your hips, keep your head flat on the bed and prop your feet high above your head, either on the headboard of the bed or your wall. Let yourself go—just relax. In addition to relieving bodily fatigue, this will bring a new supply of blood to the face, which will draw out the old impurities. You can save time if you will cleanse, tone your face and apply your mask before lying down.

Self-confidence arises from the knowledge that you look your best. If you can't go to a salon for a course of reconditioning treatments, then learn how to treat yourself scientifically.

Color Lights On Threshold Of Home Use

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin

THERE may be electrical blackouts in our country that won't be caused by bombing planes. The need for electrical power in defense industries may force civilians on electrical rations. Besides there are many metals used in making electrical sockets and fixtures that are on the defense priorities list.

Despite this gloomy outlook the story of light has never been so thrilling. For enormous strides have been made within the last year in the adaptation of electric light for home use. Color lighting is just on the threshold of a brilliant career, with the decorators doing the experimenting with it, learning how to use it most becomingly for both people and places.

Spot lighting from concealed sources is a wonderful way to dramatize the beauty spots in a room—a fine piece of sculpture or a picture or a wonderful old piece of furniture. Concealed cove lighting is effective for illuminating draperies or mantel or niche. Indirect lighting for an entire room has already been accepted as the most satisfying type of general illumination. Another kind of new lighting—which works something like a radio, but don't ask us how—makes it possible to illuminate a vase or a figure from underneath the table or stand without the source of the light being visible.

Fluorescent light is responsible for many of these miracles, but incandescent light will continue to hold its own particular place in the lighting picture. Among the most interesting advantages of fluorescent light is the fact that it emits no heat, is economical and opens the door wide to color lighting. However, it isn't as flexible as incandescent light. At the present time the ideal in home illumination combines incandescent and fluorescent light.

The lighting of the future is referred to variously as the vitamins and the cosmetics in decorating. Maybe it belongs somewhere between these two extremes. At any rate it is not too much to expect that home illumination will include a whole repertoire of lighting to switch on according to your mood . . . for tranquil hours of party evenings, for conversation or music or whatever

The war and its attendant demands may postpone the realization of these lighting ambitions in many homes, but it will only be a postponement . . . for these aren't nebulous dreams . . . they are facts already in action in a certain few places.

Modern Versions of Cherry Pie

THERE comes a time in every cook's meal planning when dessert is a problem. If it is modern version of a heavenly dessert that you would like to serve, you need look no further, for I discovered a big dark red secret recently when I was a luncheon guest.

Miss Kathryn Smith, home economist who presides over the test kitchen of the National Canners Association, 1739 H Street Northwest, invited me to visit her domain and have dessert after we had lunched elsewhere. I wasn't especially feeling the need of dessert when I arrived at her shining kitchen, but that feeling was immediately overcome when I saw two attractive pies she had baked. One was a meringue pie made of bing cherries, the other a gelatin pie made of the same fruit.

Either one of these desserts is a pleasant variation in the pie line. Here are the recipes for making them, given me by Miss Smith:

Cherry Meringue Pie

Drain sirup from one No. 2 can sirup pack dark sweet pitted cherries and heat to boiling. Combine 2 tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt and ¼ cup sugar and mix thoroughly. Sift into the boiling liquid and cook until thick and clear, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, add 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ½ teaspoon lemon rind (optional), 1 tablespoon butter and the drained cherries. Pour into pastry shell. Top with meringue.

Meringue—Beat 2 egg whites stiff. Gradually add 4 tablespoons sugar and beat until mixture will stand in peaks. Spread over pie and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 15 minutes, or until well browned. Orange juice and rind may be used instead of lemon if desired.

Cherry Gelatin Pie

Drain sirup from one No. 2 can sirup pack dark sweet pitted cherries and add enough water to make 2 cups liquid. Heat to boiling point; remove from heat and add 1 package cherry flavored gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Chill until mixture starts to congeal. Add the cherries and turn into a pastry shell. Chill until firm. Whip ½ pint whipping cream, add 2 tablespoons sugar and add ½ teaspoon vanilla to the cream. Spread onto the pie.

Booklet Teaches 'Touch' System of Typewriting

NOT MUCH help reading the want ads if you can't type! So many of the better office jobs require at least some knowledge of typing. But did you ever stop to think you could teach yourself in your spare time?

Anyone can learn the touch system with the help of a keyboard chart which shows you where to place your fingers. Once you know how to find keys by touch you won't bog down with poky hunt-and-peck methods. Then to practice simple exercises so that you can acquire speed.

To be a really cracker-jack typist, though, you need to know a thing or two about the mechanics of typing English—the rules of spacing, punctuation and capitalization.

For instance, the letter in the diagram in booklet shows some of the rules of spacing. Between words in a sentence (A) you press the space bar twice. A comma or semi-colon within a sentence (C) is followed by only one space. No spaces are used before or after the dash (D) made by pressing your hyphen key twice!

With the helpful keyboard chart and exercises in our 40-page booklet, "Touch Typewriting Self-Taught," you'll soon become a proficient typist. Includes mechanics of writing English, rules for typing business and social letters, manuscripts, radio scripts, statistics. Explains typewriter parts.

Send 15 cents in coins for our booklet, "Touch Typewriting Self-Taught," to the NEW YORK OFFICE of The Washington Post, Home Institute, 100 West Nineteenth Street, New York. N. Y. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Sitting Down Exercises Produce Slim Waist Line

By Ida Jean Kain

PARE DOWN your waistline, but keep your weight up to the healthy normal. That's the trend in figures for fall. And there never was a better style. The really lovely figure is the one that is normal weight with curves, but slim in the middle.

We're going to do away with silly dieting, eat for normal weight and vitality, and give exercises the right twist to banish all waistline bulk.

You can trim a wayward waist in no time if you go at it right, and give each movement the scientific twist—as you stretch, pull firm through the midsection; as you twist, center all the movement smack at the waist; precede a bend with a stretch. These precision pointers give good returns for the effort.

The trick is to anchor the hips as you twist at the waist. Try this:

POSITION: Sitting on the floor, legs stretched wide apart, arms upstretched overhead.

MOVEMENT: Bend to the side as you pull up with the lower abdominal muscles. Back to position, bend to the opposite side. Repeat a dozen times. Now flop on your back and relax.

After you have loosened up a bit and relaxed, increase the stretch of that exercise by trying to touch your fingers to toes as you bend sidewards. Then bend forward, touching fingers to floor, but always pulling up with the midsection muscles.

This trio of twisters, taken every day, will slim half an inch off the waist a week. And what's more, they will give a firm, slim feeling about the middle. If you keep your weight normal and the waistline slim, chances are you have a pretty nice figure.

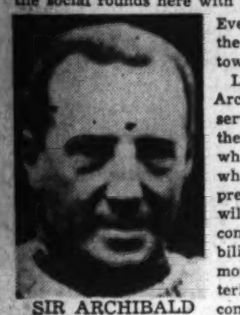
Lady Kerr Lives Here Incognito for 3 Months

Wife of British Ambassador to China Will Leave for N. Y. Tomorrow; Even His Majesty's Embassy Didn't Suspect

By Patricia Grady

The titled wife of a British Ambassador staying in Washington incognito for over three months? Ridiculous! It couldn't be done! Not in Washington, which prides itself on knowing everything about everybody. Not in Washington, where rumors are the staff of life and "strictly confidential" is synonymous with "did you know?"

But Lady Clark Kerr, wife of the British Ambassador to China, Sir Archibald Kerr Clark Kerr, has done just that. Hiding behind the close-to-right name of Mrs. T. Kerr—the T is for Teresa—at the Wardman Park Hotel, the British envoy's pretty blond wife has been going the social rounds here with very few Washingtonians being the wiser.



SIR ARCHIBALD KERR

Even the British Embassy does not know that the wife of the Ambassador to China is in town.

Lady Clark Kerr, a Chilean, married Sir Archibald in 1930, in Santiago, when he was serving there as his country's Minister. Since then she has accompanied him to Stockholm, where he was Minister to Sweden; to Bagdad, where he was Ambassador, and then to his present post in China. Tomorrow Lady Kerr will leave for New York, where she will confer with Mrs. Wales Latham on the possibilities of starting a Bundles for Britain movement in Latin America. If plans materialize, she will return to Washington for consultation with the Latin-American diplomats.

Lady Kerr, who was the only British woman in Chungking last winter and one of the colony of six Occidental women, said that "there was no diplomatic social life in China at all—the diplomats were too distributed." Some are in Shanghai, some in Hankow and some, like our former American Ambassador's wife, Mrs. Nelson Johnson, stay in Peiping.

Lady Kerr is quite nonchalant about living in a constantly bombed city. Her own house in Chungking, which is owned by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek—a present to him by the New Life Movement—has been hit four times. And each time the patient Chinese have built it up again. Lady Kerr, who lived on the north side of the Yangtze River, which splits the city of Chungking in two parts, speaks highly of the bomb shelters there. In the "bombing season," from May to September, before the winter fogs come in, the Occidental inhabitants of Chungking call their bomb shelters "home." According to Lady Kerr, "you're perfectly safe as long as you don't peek out at the planes, for the shelters are built in the solid rock crags that border the city." The only one who really looked forward to the bombing was Lady Kerr's cocker spaniel, who was the spoiled darling of the shelter refugees.

Observes Housing Shortage Here

Washington and Chungking have one thing in common, as far as living conditions are concerned—there's a tremendous housing shortage. Servants are plentiful, however, and Lady Kerr left the running of her petite household to the English butler who has been her husband's faithful retainer for many years. The Chinese Capital provided recreation in the form of one motion picture house, which was showing "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" at the time it was bombed out of existence this winter.

"And Shanghai is not much gayer," says Lady Kerr, as she describes the murders and kidnapings which are occasioned by the struggle between the Japanese puppet government there and the nationalist sympathizers. "It is so nice to be in America!" Lady Kerr echoes the cry of refugees from wars across both oceans.

Future Plans Somewhat Uncertain

As to what her plans are from now on, Lady Kerr doesn't know. Her husband feels that it is too dangerous for her to be with him in China, and, as a Chilean, there is little to draw her to England. So she will probably stay in New York until—well who knows? After the death of his cousin, Lord Lothian (Phillip Kerr), Sir Archibald's name went the rounds of the Washington grapevine as his logical successor. Now, with Lady Halifax in London and rumors that Lord Halifax may be called home to take another post, it is not outside the realm of possibility that Washington will be seeing a great deal of Lady Kerr, still as the wife of a British Ambassador.

W. H. Harrison, Bride Live Here

Mr. and Mrs. William Hollis Harrison, who were married on August 2, are making their home at the Park Lane, 2025 I Street. The bride is the former Miss Julia McDowell Hartley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hartley, of Buckner, Va. The ceremony took place in Arlington, Va.

Mrs. Harrison attended Mary Washington College and State Teachers College of North Carolina. Mr. Harrison, who is the son of M. R. Harrison, of Fisher, La., is attending George Washington University.

White Sulphur Attracts Many

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.—Andres Pastoriza, Minister from the Dominican Republic, and Senora de Pastoriza, with their daughter and son, Miss Matilde and Tomas, arrived yesterday from Washington to pass a few weeks at Hawley Cottage on the Greenbrier estate. The cottage, which is the largest and most spacious summer residence at the resort, is leased this season by Gen. Rafael Trujillo, former president of the Dominican Republic, and members of his family have occupied it through July.

Mrs. Stuart J. Fuller, of 3210 Rodman Street, Washington, is spending ten days here as the guest of Mrs. Howell Moorhead, of 2220 R Street.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ford Johnson, jr., of Rumford, N. J., have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Moffett, at Colonnades Cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman M. Underwood and Miss Anne B. Underwood, of 3021 Cathedral, Washington, are here for their annual stay and will remain for the Greenbrier Music Festival this weekend.

Mrs. G. A. Schlieker, of 4514 Connecticut Avenue, Washington, is occupying a cottage for several days, having in her party Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Egbert, of Chicago.

Mrs. Fitzhugh Donnally, of Bethesda, Md., is here as the guest of Mrs. Robert Ruffner, of Charleston. Others new in the summer colony include Dr. and Mrs. Aleca Preece, of 3816 Forty-ninth Street, Washington, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Driver, of Arlington.

Returning to Washington after passing the weekend were Gen. and Mrs. Sabur Isoda, of the Japanese Embassy; Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Amberson, the Misses Margaret and Louise Carr, and Capt. and Mrs. F. L. Lowe, of Chevy Chase.

Dr. E. Gil Borges And Family Will Return to Capital

Of wide interest to the many who knew Dr. E. Gil Borges during the years he was assistant director of the Pan American Union here, is the news that he and his family are returning. With his wife and their daughter, Dr. Gil Borges will arrive in New York today on he liner Sana Rosa and they are expected in Washington the end of the week.

Dr. Gil Borges has been foreign minister of Venezuela for the past five years and is now general adviser to the Venezuelan foreign service. He is coming here to represent his country in the Inter-American Financial and Economic Advisory Commission. The family has taken a house at 37 Oxford Street.

Windsors Likely To Visit Here

At long last, after at least one false start, it looks as though the Duke and Duchess of Windsor were going to pay that oft-rumored visit to Washington. At least a stop in the Capital is known to be under consideration by the couple, who will visit the Duke's Canadian ranch sometime between the middle of next month and the middle of October.

The famous "Aunt Bessie," Mrs. D. Buchanan Merryman, is a resident of Washington. As she has only a small apartment, the couple would probably stay at a hotel or with friends. Mrs. Merryman was their guest in Nassau for several weeks last winter.

It will be a year ago Sunday since the Windsors arrived in Nassau, and it is known that the Duke has refused to consider visiting his ranch until he had done at least a year's duty. The trip was originally scheduled for the last week in August, but was postponed, probably so the couple wouldn't conflict with the visit of the Duke's youngest brother, the Duke of Kent.

Mrs. Vyvyan Drury wife of the Duke's aide-de-camp who is visiting in Newport said that the exact route the couple would take to Canada had been undetermined when she left Nassau two weeks ago.

Patricia June Few To Wed Saturday

Miss Patricia June Few, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Noel Few, of Arlington, has selected Saturday as the day of her marriage to Morris Thomas Buckelew, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Buckelew, of Dunn Loring, Va.

The ceremony will take place in the Church of the Pilgrims at 5 o'clock. Miss Beverly Jean Few, sister of the bride-elect, will be her maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Rosemary McDermott, of New York, and Miss Margery Barton, of Arlington. Edward L. Crosby, jr., of Baltimore, will serve as best man and the ushers will be David Fagan and Harold Herman.

Mrs. Roland Dulin Entertains Today

Miss Ledbetter is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Walton Ledbetter, of Anniston, Ala., and is a graduate of Alabama University. For the past several years she has made her home with her sister and brother-in-law in Virginia.

Mr. Stonebraker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ellsworth Stonebraker, of Hagerstown, Md. He is a graduate of the Choate School in Wallingford, Conn., and of the University of Maryland.

The wedding will take place September 10 in St. John's Episcopal Church at McLean, Va.

Miss Susan Barbee And H. F. Smith To Wed Sept. 10

Mr. and Mrs. David Rankin Barbee have issued invitations to the wedding of their youngest daughter, Susan Guzman Barbee, to Hugh Frazier Smith, of Cumberland, Md. The ceremony will take place at 5 o'clock the afernoon of September 10, in the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church.

Miss Barbee was educated in New Orleans, Asheville, N. C., and Washington, and is a graduate of Wilson Teachers College.

Mr. Smith is the son of the late Hugh F. Smith, of New Orleans and of Mrs. Owen Heyer, of Covington, La. He is a graduate of Tulane University, took his master's degree at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and is a chemical engineer.

Marjorie Clapper's Marriage Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Walter John Clapper, of Ligonier and Pittsburgh, Pa., announce the marriage of their daughter, Jane Marjorie, to Samuel Evans Agnew, of Washington. The ceremony took place August 1, in Johnstown, Pa.

The bride attended National Park College and Mr. Agnew is a graduate of Georgetown University.

Lands to Leave Today for Ship Christening

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Emory S. Land will leave late this afternoon by plane for the West Coast, where Mrs. Land will christen the first ship to be completed in the United States for Britain's war effort. The admiral, who is chairman of the Maritime Commission, and his wife will board a plane on Sunday night to return to Washington.

The ceremonies will take place on Saturday at Richmond, Calif., which is in the San Francisco area. Sir Arthur Salter, head of the British Shipping Mission, is expected to be present. Admiral Land also will made an address.

The ship is to be called the Vanguard. Mrs. Land will conclude her brief talk at the christening by saying:

"Sir Arthur: To you, as the representative of Great Britain, my gratitude for the honor of standing sponsor for this ship; may she truly lead hosts of ships to guard the life line of your beloved country so that again, and always, your great Poet Laureate may sing:

". . . out of the darkness there was light.
There in the sea were England and her ships."

Many From D. C. Are at Newport For Tennis Week

Tennis week, most brilliant of the Newport season, has opened with the usual fanfare, and many from Washington are among the throngs gathering daily at the rambling, 62-year-old Newport Casino.

Countess Laszlo Szechenyi has with her Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Roberts, of this city, her son-in-law and daughter, and they were in her box on the opening day, along with Mrs. Roberts' two sisters, Postdeb Sylvia Szechenyi and Debutante Nandine Szechenyi.

The Chilean Ambassador and Senora de Michels will arrive at Newport the end of the week to see the tennis finals. They will be guests of Mrs. Frederick Mitchell Gould, who will entertain at a dinner for them on Friday.

Townsends Add To Country Home

From Schroon Lake, N. Y., comes the news that Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Townsend—who have been at their farm, Beach Hill, since May—are building an addition to their home.

Mr. Townsend, who celebrated his eighty-first birthday recently, is supervising the erection of the library, which will house his 2500 books. Mr. and Mrs. Townsend will probably remain at Schroon Lake until November, when they plan to come down here enroute to their winter home, Pass-a-Grille, in Florida.

Milwaukee Couple Weds at Ft. Lincoln

The picturesque little church at Fort Lincoln was the scene of the wedding yesterday of Miss Candace McDowell and Ralph Chamberlin, both of Milwaukee, Wis. The Rev. Robert L. Wittenburg officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Frank McDowell, and Miss Miriam Engle, of Philadelphia, a girlhood friend of the bride, played the organ during the ceremony.

The bride is director of the Nursery Training School at the State Teachers College in Milwaukee.

Mrs. Draper Back From Connecticut

Mrs. Ernest G. Draper will return to her home on Belmont Road tomorrow evening from Connecticut, where she has been visiting for the past two weeks.

She has been the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Col. and Mrs. Thomas Crimmins, at their home in Norton, Conn. Mr. Draper, who is a member of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System, spent a weekend in Norton.

Solers Return

The Minister of Paraguay, Dr. Juan Jose Soler, and Senora de Soler, returned to their Wardman Park apartment yesterday after a brief vacation trip which took them to Nigara Falls, N. Y., and several cities in Canada, including Toronto and Montreal. They were accompanied by their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Senora Raul Pena, and their granddaughter, Maria Carmen Pena, who returned with them.

About the Town

with Dudley Harmon

THE COMBINATION of a moon and an old Washington garden should be romantic enough. But add to that an assembly of musicians, romantic foreigners and diplomats who have been through some pretty hair-raising experiences lately, and you have the reason why some people insist they still like Washington, even during heat waves.

Dudley Harmon

Such a gathering took place on Tuesday evening in Mrs. Truxton Beale's garden behind her historic brick home, Decatur House. Guests of honor were the Kolisch Quartet, which had just given a concert at Meridian Hill Park. The group will play again tomorrow at the park.

Mrs. Beale's party was in line with a bright idea recently developed by the newly formed Women's Committee of the National Symphony Orchestra. They have formed a hospitality branch which does not see its duties in a narrow sense. Instead, the women are intent on making Washington a friendly place for musicians to visit, and from time to time will give informal parties where they can meet interesting people from the official, diplomatic, and/or music-loving residential sector.

SIR RONALD IAN CAMPBELL, newly arrived British Minister who almost didn't get out of Yugoslavia after the German invasion, was present. You'll recall that he had difficulty making connections with the destroyer sent to a Yugoslav port to get him and his staff. Not only did the diplomats all finally escape from the country, but took with them the English residents who had fled Belgrade with the Minister.

Sir Ronald reminisced with the Yugoslav envoy to this country and Mme. Fotitch, both among the guests. Another interesting person was modest, pleasant Rene Plevan, who recently arrived here to be commercial representative of Gen. DeGaulle. A leading economist, he it is who is credited with persuading a large part of the French African colonies that it was to their advantage to side with an English victory.

That romantic figure, Commander Petchkoff, was another invited to meet members of the Kolisch Quartet. This Russian-The Minister-Counselor of the from North Africa, where he served for years with the Foreign Legion.

The Minsiter-Counselor of the Netherlands Legation and Baroness van Boetzelaer were interested guests. They first met one another in Paris, where both were studying music. But the diplomat has little time these days to practice on the violin.

Others at the party included Novelist Susan Ertz, Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe, Mrs. Arthur Woods, C. C. Cappel, manager of the Meridian Hill concerts, and Mrs. Cappel.

LADY DIANA DUFF COOPER is expected to join her husband in Washington today. When he came here earlier this week she remained behind as guest at a Long Island estate. With her was her son, John Julius 2d, who is at school in Toronto.

Washingtonians are busy recalling that Mr. Duff Cooper was among the most ardent of the anti-appeasers. In fact, after Munich, he resigned from the government as a gesture against the Chamberlain policy. He's among the diplomats who have seen war at first hand, having fought in the first World War and been mentioned in several dispatches. Mr. Duff Cooper once wrote a book on Talleyrand, and in peaceful times his hobby is yachting. He is a guest at the British Embassy during his stay in Washington.

Wetherills to Live In Philadelphia

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Price Wetherill, who were married last Saturday at the Unitarian Church in Petersham, Mass., will be at home after October 1 at 1830 Rittenhouse Square, Philadelphia.

The bride is the former Mrs. Alice Constable Jewett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Pepper Constable, of Baltimore and Nantucket, formerly of Washington. The Rev. Frederick P. Griffin, of Philadelphia, officiated. Lieut. Giles P. Wetherill was best man for his father. Only members of the families and a few intimate friends witnessed the ceremony.

Trimble-Hammond Marriage Announced

Mr. and Mrs. David S. Hammond, of 4341 Montgomery Avenue, Bethesda, announce the marriage of their daughter, Roberta Elizabeth, to Private Arthur Pershing Trimble, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Trimble, of Pittsburgh, on Saturday, August 9, at the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church.

The couple will make their home at Fort Monroe, Va.

The Renchards Return to Town After Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. George Renchard have returned to their home here after a vacation trip which took them as far north as Canada. They visited Mr. and Mrs. George E. Hamilton, jr., Mrs. Renchard's cousins, at their home in northern New Hampshire, and also stopped with several of Mr. Renchard's fellow workers—he is a foreign service officer now stationed at the State Department.

Mr. and Mrs. Renchard stopped in Detroit, where the former's mother, Mrs. George Renchard, lives. While there they were honor guests at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mullins. They also stopped in Cincinnati to visit Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hamilton. From there the couple motored to Canada, visiting Lewis Clark, of the United States Legation in Ottawa; Mrs. Clark and Jack Fleishman. From there they went directly to New Hampshire, to stay with the Hamiltons.

Miss Marian Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton, will make her debut at a tea to be given by her parents on November 28.

During Christmas week her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Hamilton, will give a ball in her honor at their home, Stone Ridge, in Bethesda, Md. It is scheduled for December 27. Others who have made plans to fete her are Mrs. Daniel Stapleton and Mr. and Mrs. Renchard. She is the former Miss Stellita Stapleton.

The Culbertsons Will Be Reunited At Country Place

Miss Jane Culbertson and her father, William S. Culbertson, will go to their country estate in Charmian, Pa., this weekend to join the rest of the family. Miss Culbertson, who has remained in Washington this summer, has been spending most of her weekends there.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Luckenbill, of New York, recently arrived at Charmian, where they plan to spend a month. Mrs. Luckenbill, the former Miss Junia Culbertson, received congratulations several weeks ago on the birth of a daughter. Mrs. Culbertson and her younger daughter, Josephine, expect to remain at the Pennsylvania estate until the first of October.

Returns to Capital

Michal Kwapiszewski, Counselor of the Polish Embassy, has returned to Washington after several days at the Waldorf-Astoria

Notes of Society

Official and Residential

Miss Audrey Campbell, of Washington, has gone to Bar Harbor, where she will spend the rest of the summer at Italian Villa.

Mme. Emmanuel Lombard, wife of the former French Military Attache, is in New York at the Ritz-Carlton.

Federal Security Administrator and Mrs. Paul V. McNutt were hosts at a dinner on Tuesday evening. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stettinius, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Batt, Mr. and Mrs. James Adams and Oscar Ewing.

Justice and Mrs. D. Lawrence Groner and the latter's daughter, Miss Marian Shouse, are at the Bigwig Inn, Lake of Bays, Ontario, during a vacation trip through Canada.

Col. and Mrs. Roger B. Colton are at the Martinique.

Mrs. A. Mitchell Palmer, of Washington, is at the Hotel Biltmore, in New York.

Mrs. Frederick Andres Hessick will leave this week for Miami. She is building a new house near Coral Gables, Fla., and will be gone for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Ragan and Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Mehl, of Washington, are vacationing at the Lakeside, Eagles Mere, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. John Thilman Hendrick are at the Claridge, Atlantic City, for the remainder of the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Drury are spending several weeks there.

Miss Nan Rawls is at the Glaslyn-Chatham in Atlantic City.

Col. and Mrs. H. F. Wanvig have been joined in their apartment at the Wardman Park by their daughter, Miss Caroline Wanvig, who has been spending the summer in Colorado. She will remain here until time to resume her studies at Bennington College in the fall.

A. W. V. S. Projects Flourishing

Members Are Busy With Plans for Promoting Better Nutrition Locally

By Lucia Giddens

The agricultural committee of the American Women's Voluntary Services yesterday was in the midst of projects and plans for promoting better nutrition.

A group of women put on old clothes and went out for their regular chore—to weed the acre garden on River Road, where tomatoes are being grown for the WPA school lunch canning project.

Mrs. L. Corrin Strong, chairman of the committee, was busily engaged with the group, but she took time to discuss some of her plans for helping to "build the strength of citizens behind the lines."

Members from the A. W. V. S. this summer have been volunteering to assist with the serving of the WPA lunches to children. Their help has released some of the regular WPA workers to go to the canning project at the central kitchen on Wisconsin Avenue.

Mrs. Douglas Murray, who is serving with Mrs. Strong as chairman for Fairfax County, has encouraged rural women to can extra jars of fruits and vegetables to add to the program. Their participation has been furthered through the homemakers' clubs, in cooperation with the home demonstration agents in Fairfax and Montgomery Counties.

Training to Serve As Nutrition Aides

Members from the A. W. V. S. are training this summer to serve as aides in the nutrition classes which WPA will open in the fall for housewives. Although plans are not yet complete, it is expected that these classes, open to women who are interested in learning better methods of meal planning and food preparation, will be located in six or eight communities in the District.

In the fall Mrs. Strong's committee expects to promote more intensively an education program in nutrition, looking for guidance from the nutrition committee in the District Health Department, she said.

Members Plant and Tend Tomato Field

The tomato field on River Road, which A. W. V. S. members have planted and tended, is on land loaned to the project by Mrs. Christopher Granger. Girl Scouts have assisted in the chores there on the regular Wednesday workdays.

Among women assisting Mrs. Strong in the program are Mrs. Charles Baldwin, chairman of the Montgomery County committee; Mrs. Donald Hiss, vice chairman of the general committee, who has been a leader in the nutrition course; Mrs. Edward Hickey, in charge of obtaining volunteers to assist in the serving of WPA school lunches. Mrs. Harold Marsh and Mrs. Walter Ufford also have assisted Mrs. Strong.

9 Girl Reserves Here Will Attend N. C. Conference

Miss Margaret Graves, assistant Girl Reserve secretary at the Y. W. C. A., will lead the nine delegates from local clubs who will leave Wednesday for the Girl Reserve conference at Camp Betty Hastings, near Winston-Salem, N. C.

The regional conference for North Carolina, West Virginia, Virginia and the District of Columbia is intended chiefly to instruct the girls in improving the functioning of the clubs and in carrying out their duties as club officers.

Miss Graves will be in charge of the crafts offered to the girls among the spare time activities. They will lead a camp life, sleeping in tents, swimming and playing tennis.

Walton Auxiliary To Make Picnic Plans

The annual picnic of the Izaak Walton League will be planned at the meeting of the women's auxiliary to be held at 8 p. m. tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Jay Reed, 3303 Washington Avenue, Alexandria.

The outing will be held at the Bureau of Fisheries Station, Fort Belvoir, August 23.

Zontians Get Tips on How to Use Less Gas

Widespread voluntary conservation of gasoline, to avoid the necessity of rationing, was urged by Maj. Beverly C. Snow and A. D. Willard, jr., leaders in the conservation program in the District, at the meeting of the Zonta Club, yesterday.

Maj. Snow, who is chairman of the District of Columbia Petroleum Conservation Committee, said that the shortage of gasoline on the Eeastern seaboard may be more critical this fall than at present.

One of the aims of the committee, he said, was that the reduced consumption be accomplished in a patriotic way by voluntary cooperation, rather than by restrictive measures.

Mr. Willard, who is manager of Radio Station WJSV and a speaker for the conservation program, outlined ways by which drivers may reduce gasoline consumption. Among them, he named: Reduced driving speed, elimination of sudden stops and starts and use of first and second gears sparingly.

Maj. Snow explained that the transportation of oil from Texas to refineries in New Jersey had been affected by the transfer of 50 tankers for use in carrying products to Britain. It would cost ten times as much, he said, to ship the oil by truck or rail to New Jersey.

Cooperation of the Zonta Club in the conservation program was pledged by Mrs. Ethel J. Hess, president, who was in charge of the luncheon meeting at the Y. M. C. A.

Army and Navy League Elects Mrs. Fowler

Mrs. Raymond F. Fowler, who has recently returned to Washington after a five years' absence, has been named president of the Woman's Army and Navy League to succeed Mrs. Julian L. Schley, it was announced yesterday.

Mrs. Fowler is the wife of Col. Fowler, in charge of operations and training in the office of the Chief of Engineers. They came here from the Seventh Army Corps in Birmingham, Ala.

Maj. Gen. Schley's tour of duty here is over, so Mrs. Schley has given up the post of league president.

As new president, Mrs. Fowler will be active in the direction of the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Club which the league operates at 1015 L Street Northwest.

The Fowlers are now at the Westchester Apartments but will be in their home in Belle Haven, Va., after October 1.

Madame Chairman

By Suzanne

Women's City Club members have been unearthing fragile heirlooms for their program tonight—on lace.

Miss Ann Singleton, who will be hostess for the evening, will bring a Spanish mantilla which has been in her family about 200 years. It was handed down by a Spanish ancestor.

From another ancestor, a great-grandmother on the English side of the family, she came into possession of a black lappet—a lace covering for the head. It is more than 100 years old.

In addition to these two pieces, she will show a Venetian rose-point yoke which is only about 20 years old, and also a piece of white Duchess lace.

Mrs. Gladys B. Middlemiss, president of the club, will bring a Spanish black lace shawl, given to her by a friend, whose mother had it in her trousseau. Mrs. Middlemiss wore it for a "Spanish Night" on shipboard when she was on a cruise several years ago.

Mrs. Middlemiss also will show at the meeting a piece of old rose-point lace which she bought in Belgium in 1935. This piece, a large, creamy-colored collar, she found at a lace-making establishment, where newer designs had superseded this more elaborate type. She thinks it is 40 or 50 years old.

D. A. R. HOSPITALITY—"Enroll for hospitality" to service men, Daughters of the American Revolution are urged in a message from Mrs. Saidee E. Boyd, chairman of the D. A. R. Committee on National Defense Through Patriotic Education, in the August issue of the National Historical Magazine.

"Give the boys a taste of home life," she suggests as a service to men on leave. "Invite a certain number of boys" at regular intervals, she adds. "This is already being done by hundreds of Daughters. Do not make a party of the dinner; just give your guests a place in your ordinary home life."

Women Voters Seek Million Signatures

The National League of Women Voters will seek one million "recruits" in a pledge of courage, unity and sacrifice for development of citizen morale behind the national defense effort, it was announced yesterday from its headquarters here at 726 Jackson Place.

To league members in 1500 communities have been sent tricolored "recruiting blanks" for soliciting their neighbors' signatures.

The signed pledges, which will be collected in headquarters here, bear this statement:

"United we stand. All the courage it takes to fight a war, all the spirit of unity it takes to win a war, all the sacrifices demanded, hard tasks undertaken; all these are demanded of us now to win America's Battle of Production, to keep free people free. Let's help win!"

The new move climaxes a three-month "Win the Battle of Production" campaign, in which the league has sought to marshal public sentiment in support of the Nation's production program.

In an open letter accompanying the recruiting blanks, Miss Marguerite M. Wells, national league president, called on members to "help take up that lag in public understanding that elsewhere has brought the world to the brink of destruction."

New Tops Also Sought In Canning Jar Drive

An appeal for contributions to the fund for new jar tops and rubbers was added yesterday to the jar collection campaign, sponsored by the District Congress of Parents and Teachers for the WPA school lunch program.

Mrs. Lucian Jordan, chairman of the campaign, is serving also as treasurer for the fund, at her home, 2300 Runnymeade Place Northwest. The new tops, for which there are no WPA funds available, are required for the quart and half-gallon glass jars which are being donated by citizens in the current campaign, centering at depositories in 29 public schools.

Morale Held 'Factor' as Woman Loses 300 Lbs.

By the United Press

Chicago, Aug. 13.—A New York physician today reported the case of a woman who lost 300 pounds of fat in 18 months to prove his contention that anybody can lose weight if he maintains his "morale."

In an article for the August 16 issue of the journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. James J. Short concluded, "There is apparently no limitation to the amount of excess weight which can be removed with perfect safety."

The secret, he said, is a 'submaintenance diet" which provides the subject with less calories than he needs to subsist, thus forcing his body "to draw on its own stores of fat for heat and energy."

Short said weight reductions should be accomplished at " a fairly rapid rate" since "morale, an intangible but important factor, is much better among patients who can perceive definite, consistent, weekly results."

Short supported his article with the case of a woman who reduced her weight from 479 to 179 pounds under his treatment over an 18-month period, nine months of which she spent in a nursing home.

He said she lost 208 pounds in the first eight months, at an average rate of 26 pounds per month. He added, however, that the treatment was accompanied by several complications, indicating that weight reduction treatments should be administered under "careful, competent, medical supervision."

"It was interesting to find," Short continued, "that the patient had almost lost the power of locomotion after returning home. She was unable to climb steps but could walk short distances on the level.

"At this point, she was told that she might expect a return of power to the affected muscles, since it was assumed that the removal of infiltrated fat had left the muscles too long to be effective. The prediction proved true, and in a few weeks the patient was able to take up activities of housework and travel with practically normal facility."

Other complications Short listed included the appearance of varicose veins, labored breathing, nausea, severe thirst and abdominal pain. He said all of these were overcome by specific treatments.

Short added this observation:

"In general health and mental attitude there has been a marked improvement (with this particular patient). It is not uncommon for patients, when liberated from their prisons of fat, to express extreme gratification, and this patient was no exception."

Industry Hires 81% Of Courses' Alumni

Frederick, Md., Aug. 13 (AP).—Private industry has taken 81 per cent of Frederick City and County men who completed national defense training courses, George F. Lartz, jr., in charge of the work, reported.

He said 74 men have completed courses to date—27 in woodwork, 23 in metals, and 24 in welding. Twenty-four men went into industries in Frederick County, and 36 in Hagerstown, Baltimore and Washington.

Auto Workers Vote to Back Murray, Lewis

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 13 (AP).—U. A. W.-C. I. O. delegates, speeding toward adjournment of their sixth national convention, today pledged support of both C. I. O. President Philip Murray and John L. Lewis, former head of the organization.

The United Automobile, Aircraft and Agricultural Implement Workers, in their busiest session of the convention which started August 4, unanimously adopted a resolution asserting Murray and Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, are united in the furtherance of the policies of the C. I. O.

They condemned those "who seek to create the fake impression that we are divided on the basis of support" of the two men and said such stories are "maliciously manufactured by the enemies of the C. I. O. for the purpose of creating suspicion, distrust and dissension in the ranks of the C. I. O. and particularly among delegates to this convention."

As the tempo quickened the convention took the following actions, among others:

1. Seated ten delegates from the Allis-Chalmers Local at Milwaukee who were reelected after they were denied representation last week because of an alleged unconstitutional election.

2. Voted opposition to curtailment of automobile production "unless shown to be necessary for national defense," and adopted an 11-point program to meet the problems arising from any reduction.

3. Recommended that Federal District Judge Arthur J. Tuttle, Detroit, retire from the bench and that the House of Representatives be petitioned to institute impeachment proceedings against him for alleged prejudice against the C. I. O.

Barbara Hutton Sues For Plantation Money

West Palm Beach, Fla., Aug. 13 (AP).—Suit was filed today on behalf of Barbara Hutton, the former Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow, seeking to collect $530,000 and interest fromthe estate of her late father, Franklyn L. Hutton.

The action was based on a note dated December 29, 1939, payable on the death of Hutton and secured by a mortgage on plantation property in South Carolina. Interest at 5 per cent from June 30, 1940, was claimed.

Va. Man Kills Self at Grave Of Stepmother

A 30-year-old Bureau of Standards official and member of a prominent Virginia family shot and killed himself yesterday beside the grave of his stepmother in Columbia Gardens Cemetery, Arlington.

The dead man is Roland Pancoast Cheyney, of 3730 N. Pershing Drive. He was found lying beside the grave of Mrs. Louise Etta Cheyney, who died in April, 1934. One bullet had been fired into his right temple from a .38 caliber revolver found nearby.

Joseph L. May, of Cherrydale, said he heard the shot from another part of the cemetery at about 10 a. m. He rushed to the scene but Cheyney was dead.

Arlington County Coroner W. C. Wellburn issued a certificate of suicide. A close friend of Cheyney, he said the dead man, a senior physical science aide at the Bureau of Standards, had "been unnerved" through overwork.

The marriage of Mr. Cheyney, son of Mr. A. R. Cheyney and the late Mrs. A. R. Cheyney, of Livingston Heights, Va., and Miss Barbara Bell Smith, who survives, was one of the prominent social events in Arlington in 1934.

The body is at C. J. Ives Funeral Chapel at Clarendon.

'Cold Wave' Nips Most of U. S.; It's 'Just Right' Here

Washington basked in 73 degree warmth yesterday, unlike less fortunate sections of the country where the mercury touched the freezing mark, as a wave of chilly air from polar reginos spread over most of the Nation.

Counting one way, it was the District's coldest day in more than two months. Last time the mercury stayed below 73 was June 5, when it rose only to 66, the Weather Bureau said.

Counting another way, it was the coldest day since July 18, the last time the mercury dropped as low as 60 as it did at 6 a. m. yesterday. It fell to 58 July 18.

More weather about the same was promised today—mostly fair with the high temperature about 80, but with a colder touch early today when the mercury is expected to fall to 56.

The freezing mark of 32 was recorded at Kane, Pa.; light frost nipped late summer crops in New England, and the coolness extended over most of the Nation, except Florida, where the mercury hovered above 90, the Associated Press reported.

'Intercessory Prayer' Asked By Bishop

An appeal for "a wave of intercessory prayer" to effect a national and international spiritual revival was made yesterday at the Massanetta Springs (Va.) Bible conference by Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, retired prelate of the Washington Area, Methodist Church.

The churchman, addressing Methodist Day exercises, reminded the audience that intercessory prayer had preceded Pentecost and the Scottish, Welsh and Irish revivals.

Earlier in the day, Bishop Hughes told a pastor's session that sorrow was "an untouched area" often passed over by ministers, reminding them that "healing the brokenhearted" was part of Christ's plan. Some clerics, he said, "seem to feel that their intellect is to be expressed and their emotions repressed."

Delivering a morning address on the subject of "Seeking and Finding God," Dr. Frederick W. Norwood said he had spoken to millions of people in over half the world, and had found the trouble to be that "men had stopped seeking Jesus." "They've become satisfied with their own traditional positions," he asserted.

Bible conference officials said yesterday that many additional guests are arriving daily for the meetings, with all 34 cottages filled up and the hotel almost filled.

Many Washington and Maryland churchmen are among the attendants.

"I Am an American Day" was celebrated last night.

Senate Will Join House in Recesses Starting Monday

The Senate will follow the House into a series of recesses beginning Monday, when "time out" will be called until Finance Committee completion of the tax bill.

For at least two weeks, and maybe three, both houses will be in "adjournment" for all business purposes.

Senate leaders said no recess resolution will be adopted, as was done in the House, and vacations will be shorter, teminating whenever the tax bill is reported. That is due between September 1 and September 10.

The House agreed Tuesday to three-day recesses begining Monday and lasting four weeks, unless Speaker Rayburn calls members back sooner. The Senate similarly will take three-day recesses that can be ended any time.

Offers "Tombstone" for Ships

Sandy Cross, N. C.—Thomas Joyner offered his tombstone to the making of battleships today. Already in his eighties, Joyner has set up a piece of steel girder, bored holes in it to spell his name and date of birth, and placed it in the family burying ground behind his farm house. "I don't seem to be showing any signs of using it," he said.

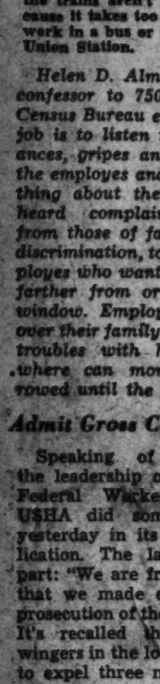
The Federal Diary

By Jerry Klutz

Group Has Plan to Save Gas, Relieve Traffic

A group of Federal employes has devised a plan that should be close to the hearts of Secretary Ickes and Traffic Director Van Duzer. The proposal would save gasoline and relieve traffic congestion by taking cars off District streets. All that's needed is the cooperation of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad which would be required to run its rush hour local trains on the Rockville - Silver Spring - Takoma Park and Laurel - Hyattsville lines through the Union Station and out toward Fourteenth Street bridge. Stops would be made at Seventh Street Southwest, and at the Government freight yard at Fourteenth and D Streets Southwest.



The employes, all of whom live in nearby Maryland and who now drive cars to work daily, have sent their plan to Secretary Ickes. They have asked him to make a survey of the number of employes who would use such a service and then get the B & O to start it. The employes say the trains aren't used now because it takes too long to get to work in a bus or streetcar from Union Station.

Helen D. Almon is mother confessor to 7500 temporary Census Bureau employes. Her job is to listen to the grievances, gripes and worries of the employes and to do something about them. She has heard complaints ranging from those of favoritism and discrimination, to those of employes who want to be moved farther from or closer to a window. Employes also talk over their family and personal troubles with her, such as where can money be borrowed until the next payday.

Admit Gross Case Errors

Speaking of confessions, the leadership of the United Federal Workers local at USHA did some repenting yesterday in its official publication. The latter said in part: "We are frank to admit that we made errors in our prosecution of the Gross case." It's recalled that the left-wingers in the local attempted to expel three members who had protested against their handling of grievance proceedings. The expulsion charges were dropped due to pressure from C. I. O. headquarters and two of the three members resigned soon afterward.

Joseph L. Fay, Social Security Board director in Baltimore, has verified the story that appeared here Tuesday that the Government is planning to build a new building in Baltimore to house 6000 employes. Some 1900 employes here in the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance would be moved to Baltimore after next July 1 under the plan . . . Ninety-seven per cent of Procurement's employes are signed up to buy defense bonds . . . Procurement is saving gasoline. Its cars have been checked and the routes they cover have been checked to prevent duplication.

A new and different employe organization has been formed at the Labor Department. Its membership is not made public, but it makes its views public by the distribution of leaflets on employes' desks. The organization is called "Committee For Truth." It's symbol is the scales of justice. The committee takes credit fo rthe election of Spencer Moon, an independent candidate, for the department efficiency rating appeals board. Moon defeated William R. Shilland who was backed unofficially by the United Federal Workers. The "Committee For Truth" is accused of being a C. I. O.-baiting outfit by UFWA members. The committee, it seems, has taken issue with some of the statements made by the UFWA Labor local.

Tomorrow is supposed to be the last day a lawyer can be hired in the Federal service without the express approval of the Board of Legal Examiners. The board, however, may be compelled to extend the time if it isn't prepared to give noncompetitive tests. The board under regulations issued July 1, will give noncompetitive tests to applicants for legal jobs after August 15. Incidentally, don't write the board if you want to be a Federal lawyer. The board has no jobs, it merely will examine candidates for them.

Fight on Bill To Bar Alien Doctors Du

Sharp Division Of Opinion Rises On Measure Urged By Commissioners

Signs of a fight when the measure is considered on Capitol Hill were seen yesterday as the District Commissioners recommended passage of a law to make American citizenship a prerequisite to practice of medicine.

Although the bill has been approved by the District Medical Society, an informal canvass by telephone turned up as many members who are skeptical of the plan—or outright opposed—as are in support of it.

At present aliens are permitted to qualify for licenses to practice medicine in the District. Forty-four States have laws or regulations requiring medical applicants to be American citizens or holders of first naturalization papers.

Exceptions to this general rule, besides the District, are California, Indiana, Vermont and Arizona.

Dr. George C. Ruhland, District Health Officer, indorsed the bill submitted to Congress yesterday, chiefly on the basis that physicians have certain quasi-legal duties which make citizenship highly desirable. These include such responsibilities as signing birth and death certificates and examining Selectees, he pointed out.

Cites Texas Decision

The health officer cited a 1939 decision by the Texas Supreme Court upholding the right of a State to deny a medical license on the ground on noncitizenship because medicine is not a "common occupation."

On the other hand——

"The bill is petty and selfish," commented a Washington practitioner of many years' standing. It is directed against the refugee doctor who would make a living for himself and his family in this free country.

"Those who favor such a law are thinking only of their own pockets, fearful of competition. By allowing qualified, capable physicians from abroad to practice here, we are availing ourselves of a wonderful opportunity. We are receiving the benefits of their skill, and at the same time the shortage of doctors which threatens is relieved.

"It is too bad if this country does not have a place for the refugee physician, either in private practice or in the military service."

Another practicing physician, a native of Germany, declared that he sees no need for such a restrictive law, one which would disqualify even the doctor who has applied for citizenship.

"The present curbs are enough," he said, pointing out that the District Commission on Licensure requires candidates to be graduates of first grade American medical schools.

Advocates Temporary Placement

Still another physician who was queried held the opinion that, while the citizenship requisite is logical and fair, provision should be made for the professional placement of foreign-born candidates pending their naturalization.

"You can't work in a hospital alongside a refugee physician, as I am doing now, and observe how earnest and humble he is, and at the same time hold no sympathy for those in his predicament," this doctor asserted.

Dr. Francis X. McGovern, chairman of the District Medical Society's executive committee, indorsed the bill on the same grounds as Dr. Ruhland, holding that it is illogical for a quasi-law enforcement agent not to be a citizen of the country whose statutes and regulations he is helping carry out.

It is estimated that 5000 immigrant physicians, principally refugees from Axis-dominated countries, have entered the United States in the past decade.

Probably less than a dozen are now practicing medicine privately in Washington. A relatively small number have applications pending before the Commission on Licensure. Slightly in excess to 2000 men and women are now licensed to practice in the District. How many of these are nonetitizens cannot be told, though one District official said the number is very small.

Miss Meusel Stars Here In 'Traviata'

By Ray C. B. Brown

Fortune Gallo presents the San Carlo Opera Company in Verdi's "La Traviata" at the Potomac Watergate on Wednesday night. The cast:

Violetta Valery...Lucille Meusel
Alfredo Germont...Dimitri Onofrei
Giorgio Germont....Ivan Petrov
Flora Bervoix...Charlotte Bruno
Baron Douphol....Fausto Bozza
Gaston de Letoriere:
Francesco Curci
Marquis d'Obigny
Louis de Cesare
Dr. Granvil...Richard Wentworth
Conductor: Carlo Peroni

August provided one of its rare cool nights for the opening of the San Carlo Opera Company's summer festival at the Potomac Watergate last evening, and thousands of music lovers gathered on the spacious terraces to give the visitors a cordial reception. Not a wisp of cloud obscured the star-strewn sky above the most panoramic American setting for music out of doors, and the air was almost autumnal in its freshness. In addition to the serried ranks of auditors along the shore there were others on the river, listening from canoes and motor boats clustered within the visual angles of the stage. The inauguration of the week's engagement was signalized with the singing of the national anthem, led by Mobley Lushanya, Chickasaw soprano.

BROWN

Devotees of opera in cities from coast to coast have long been familiar with the dependable quality of performance which Fortune Gallo assures them. It was such a performance of Verdi's "La Traviata" that was presented on this occasion, ably conducted by Carlo Peroni, thoroughly routined by the stage director, Louis Raybaut, and neatly fitted into the limited confines of the orchestral shell.

The stellar singer of the cast was, of course, Lucille Meusel, one of our best floritura sopranos, whom the San Carloans are fortunate to have with them. In the role of Violetta she disclosed once again a voice of delightfully pure intonation and clarity, and she used it with a flexible grace in phrasing. She has as well the artistic skill to color her tones with emotional nuances and to project her impersonation effectively.

Dimitri Onofrei gave an acceptable reading of Alfredo's part, but was overshadowed vocally by Ivan Petrov as the elder Germont. The barytone has an excellent dramatic sense and a poignancy of delivery which he used admirably in the garden scene. Beneath the ruggedness of his voice lies an emotional cogency that carries conviction. The minor roles were taken by Charlotte Bruno, Fausto Bozza, Francesco Curci, Louis de Cesare and Richard Wentworth.

Sundry opera guides, taken from the shelf and consulted, translate "La Traviata" as "The Erring One," "The Wayward One" and "The Castaway." One of these titles conveys the exact shade of implication. "Traviata" is the past participle, feminine gender, of the vero "traviare," which means to mislead or to misguide. "The Misguided Woman" comes closer in application to the original person, Alphonsine Plessis, who was immortalized under other names, first by Alexandre Dumas in "La Dame aux Camelias" and later by Verdi.

Alphonsine, deprived of her mother at an early age and left with no wiser counselor than a dissolute father, fled from her country home in Normandy at the age of 17 and went to Paris to seek happiness in the Latin Quarter. She became one of the most toasted women of the demi-monde, but paid the penalty of her reckless life by contracting tuberculosis, and died when she was only 23.

Pedestrian Hurt as Truck, Auto Collide

The driver of an automobile and a pedestrian were injured yesterday when a truck and an automobile collided at Seventeenth Street and Benning Road Northeast.

Jones Abney, 53, Negro, of 206 D Street Northwest, driver of the car, and Herbert G. Lumpkin, 21, of 1323 Emerson Street Northwest, the pedestrian, were treated at Casualty Hospital. Abney suffered cuts and body injuries while Lumpkin received injuries to his legs and ankle.

The accident occurred, police said, when the automobile collided with the truck and then struck Lumpkin, standing nearby. Alfred R. Varbee, 27, of 222 E Street Northwest, driver of the truck, was not hurt.

In another accident yesterday, Luther W. Styles, 26, of Arlington, Va., suffered a crushed foot when a truck backed into him at Fort Davis Place and Fortieth Street Northeast. He was treated at Casualty Hospital. The truck was driven by Arthur McDonald, 36, of 1111 Eleventh Street Northwest.

George Smith, 20-year-old telegraph company messenger, was injured last night when the bicycle he was riding collided with an automobile at Pennsylvania Avenue and Fourteenth Street Northwest. He was treated at Emergency Hospital for cuts and head injuries.

War Building Likely to Pass Senate Today

A last-ditch fight is scheduled to be made on the Senate floor today against construction of a 34-acre War Department building next to Arlington National Cemetery.

The final answer in the controversy over location of the 35-million-dollar building may be provided before the Senate quits for the day, as managers of the seven-billion-dollar defense appropriation of which the building is one item, expect passage in a single session.

A small group of Senators last night was prepared to offer "resistance" to the project, but the tenor of their comment strongly indicated that they expect the Senate to approve location of the building in Arlington County.

The move has been opposed by President Roosevelt, Interior Secretary Ickes, the Budget Bureau, the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the Fine Arts Commission. Mr. Rosevelt termed the project, as planned by the War Department, unwise. Secretary Ickes declared that the huge building and large-scale roadway construction it will necessitate, would mar the beauty of Potomac Park.

Chief opposition to the project in the Senate is expected to come from members of the Buildings and Grounds Committee who expressed irritation that the usual procedure of initiating large building proposals by committee study was not followed in this case.

Senator Maloney (Democrat), of Connecticut, building committee chairman, declared that the project "undoubtedly will meet with some resistance," but pointed out that members of the Appropriations Committee, in approving location of the building across the Potomac River, appeared to be satisfied that no District sites are available.

Maloney repeated, however, his previous assertion that he found it difficult to believe there is no place in Washington for the structure.

Senate Gets D. C. Crime Bills Today

Measures to Tighten Habitual Criminal And Vagrancy Laws Passed by House

Senate versions of House-passed bills to tighten the District's vagrancy and habitual criminal statutes will be reported to the Senate today by Chairman Pat McCarran (Democrat), of Nevada, of the District Committee.

Moving swiftly in the drive to reduce crime in the District, the House passed the bills by unanimous consent yesterday, and shortly afterward Representative Woodrum (Democrat), of Virginia, chairman of the Deficiency Appropriations Subcommittee, announced that he will start hearings at 10 a. m. today on a bill to appropriate $152,000 to pay the salaries of 100 additional Metropolitan policemen.

Representative Cochran (Democrat), of Missouri, author of the police bill, and Inspector Edward J. Kelly, acting superintendent of police, will be the witnesses.

Vagrancy Bill Amended

The crime bills were called up in the House by Representative Schulte (Democrat), of Indiana, chairman of the recent metropolitan police investigation. The vagrancy bill was amended to provide that its language should not be construed as denying labor's right to strike. The habitual criminal bill was modified so that maximum sentences should not be mandatory for second offenses in crimes not involving force or violence.

The Senate vagrancy bill is identical to the House bill, before amendment, but the habitual criminal bill has been rewritten.

The McCarran bill carries a long list of crimes of violence and provides penalties ranging from maximum sentence to twice the maximum sentence for repetitions of those offenses.

Representative Wickersham (Democrat), of Oklahoma, took the House floor just before adjournment yesterday and declared that before Congress takes a vacation "there is still one job that needs to be done." That job, he said, is to see to it that the District Police Department is strengthened.

Well-Trained "Policemen"

Recalling the city's record of 19 rape cases, the legislator inferred that the police department assigned too many men to labor disputes. He declared that 56 policemen were assigned to keep order at the strike-bound Arcade-Sunshine Laundry.

Wickersham called for "good, well trained" policemen, and said that, if necessary, the department should go to the Federal Bureau of Investigation to get them.

Later, Wickersham said he would support Cochran's bill, if a larger police force is found to be necessary.

Club Exchanges Paris Memories

Memories of life in Paris were exchanged yesterday by members of the American Club of Paris who had been driven home by the war at a luncheon yesterday at L'Escargot Restaurant, 1120 Connecticut Avenue Northwest.

Among those on hand to reminisce about the French capital they had known were Russell Hare, international lawyer and president of the club; Russell I. Hill, the noted pianist; Clifford C. Church and James MacAlese.

MOTORLESS FLIGHT—Representative Sutphin is up in that glider

Representative William H. Sutphin (Democrat), of New Jersey, the sponsor of a bill to encourage gliding by American youth to train them for possible future service as military aviators, yesterday flew for 15 minutes in a glider built by Michigan National Youth Administration enrollees at Congressional Airport.

The Congressman declared himself "greatly pleased" with the performance of the glider and the manner in which it was piloted by Ted Bellak, NYA youth of Newark, N. J.

Sutphin's bill would authorize the NYA to promote mass construction of gliders and the formation of glider units for national defense purposes.

Marijuana Raid Traps Three Here

Cigarettes and Auto Seized; Weed Was Brought to This City From New York

Seized when detectives and Federal agents raided a house in the 900 block T Street Northwest, Tuesday night, three men yesterday were held for the action of the grand jury on charges of violating the Marijuana Act.

United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage ordered the men bound over under $1000 bail each when it was testified that nearly 100 marijuana cigarettes were found in their possession. The suspects identified themselves as William E. Dyson, 24, of 41 Myrtle Street Northwest; Robert Miller, 27, of 907 T Street Northwest, and Robert Frazier, 30, of 1012 Eighteenth Street Northwest.

Detective Sergts. H. H. Carper and Robert Bryant with Federal Narcotic Agents L. W. Morrison and T. A. Talent entered the establishment about 9 p. m., arrested one man and decided to wait for further developments.

Eight other persons, including a white woman, came into the place, Sergt. Carper said. All were taken into custody and with the exception of the three charged were later released.

The raiders also confiscated an expensive sedan used, it was said, to transport the illegal weed into the city from New York.

176th Artillery Leaves Meade For Week's 'Shooting' in Pa.

By the Associated Press

Fort George G. Meade, Md., Aug. 13.—The 176th Field Artillery Regiment, nearly 1200 strong, left Fort Meade today for Indiantown Gap, Pa., where the troops will have a week of service practice on the artillery range.

The 155-millimeter regiment, formerly a Pittsburgh National Guard unit, has been training at Fort Meade since February 3. It is a part of the Twenty-ninth Infantry Division.

The firing program will be under the supervision of Lieut. Col. John Nash, commanding officer of the 176th, and will provide the first simultaneous test for the entire personnel of the organization.

The several hundred selectees who are a part of the personnel of the six firing batteries will, for the first time since their training began last April, fire the regiment's big guns.

Also participating will be the regiment's three headquarters batteries and two service and ammunition batteries.

Gen. Reckord Reviews Md.'s 58th Brigade

Maryland's Fifty-eighth Infantry Brigade passed in review today before Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, commanding officer of the Twenty-ninth Infantry Division, in its first close-order formation parade since the division's arrival at Fort Meade.

Brig. Gen. Amos W. W. Woodcock, commanding officer of the brigade, said the purpose of the review was "to get back to some close-order drill."

Soldier Slain Fleeing Guard At Fort Meade

By the Associated Press

Fort George G. Meade, Md., Aug. 13.—A former Fort Bragg soldier held here under a desertion sentence was killed today while fleeing from a guard, post authorities announced.

The prisoner, Avonn T. Cooper, 21, died of shotgun wounds in the neck before he could be taken to the station hospital.

Post authorities, opening an investigation, said the guard reported having fired once after Cooper jumped from a garbage truck while on a work detail. They are investigating reports that Cooper was running toward a civilian automobile, which sped away immediately after the shooting.

Army records show that Cooper enlisted in the Army at Baltimore in October, 1939, deserted from Fort Bragg, N. C., August 6 of last year, and surrendered here to authorities last May after working for some time in Baltimore, where his mother, Mrs. Roxie M. Johnson, lives.

Cooper had been sentenced here to one year's imprisonment for desertion, but the sentence had not yet been approved by higher Army authorities.

House Defeats Property Draft By 254 to 51

The House yesterday rejected a modified version of the Administration's "draft property" bill by a vote of 254 to 51.

Under the bill, the President would be authorized to requisition material, tols or machinery immediately essential to defense production when other means of obtaining such property from its owners have been exhausted.

Yesterday's vote sends the measure back to a Senate-House conference committee with instructions to the House conferees to insist on amendments originally approved by the House, but stricken out in conference.

A bloc of Southern and Western Democrats, led by indignant Texans, occupied nearly half of yesterday's debate with a demand for retention of the House amendment stating that the bill did not authorize the requisitioning or registration of firearms.

"No Adequate Protection"

The group contended that the substitute amendment approved by the conferees, asserting that nothing in the act impaired the right of a citizen to keep and bear arms, furnished no adequate protection against Government requisitioning of rifles and shotguns.

Representative Thomason, ranking majority member of the House Military Affairs Committee, which is handling the bill, and the only Texan who rose in defense of the measure, told the House he came from "the shooting country" himself, but thought the substitute amendment furnished sufficient guarantee that sportsmen and farmers will not be deprived of their firearms.

Representative Taber (Republican), of New York, protested the elimination in conference of his amendment prohibiting the Government from requisitioning any machinery or equipment from any factory or firm actually using the equipment. Removal of the amendment, threatened many small firms with destruction.

Plant Refusal Cited

Thomason replied that the Taber amendment would remove from the scpoe of the legislation important equipment which Undersecretary of War Patterson and other defense officials have testified they must have power to take over.

He cited an example given by Patterson of a large automobile factory which had 99 machine tools of a certain type but refused to turn over one of them to the War Department, which needed the equipment for an airplane engine plant. The management refused only because one of its competitors was not being asked to give up the same machinery, Thomason said. Since the plant and its competitor were both going concerns, he continued, the Taber amendment would have prevented any Government action to end the impasse.

Chief purpose of the legislation, however, is to take over tools, machinery and material now being held for speculative purposes, Thomason explained. He charged that some vital defense equipment is now in the hands of "racketeers who are jumping the price from 2 to 20 times the value of the property."

D. C. Judge Jails Vagrant for Year, The Maximum

Police Court Judge George D. Neilson yesterday continued his revival of "old-fashioned justice" when he sentenced a man charged with vagrancy to a year in jail—the maximum penalty under the law.

The defendant, William Smith, 54, of 1409 Tenth Street Northwest, was convicted on a prior criminal record and "suspicious actions" last Saturday night on a streetcar loading platform at Seventh Street and Florida Avenue Northwest.

Detective Sergt. Richard Cox testified he arrested Smith as a suspected pickpocket after observing the man's actions on the crowded car stop. Investigation disclosed, Cox said, that the man had a criminal record dating back to 1919, and that in 1940 he was released from a Nashville, Tenn., jail, where he served three years.

Judge Neilson on Tuesday sentenced a motorist to pay a $250 fine, the maximum, on a charge of reckless driving.

Army to Fight For Arms Fund In Congress

The War Department last night was preparing to carry into Congressional conference its fight for $1,347,053,000 for reserve ordnance supplies if the Senate approves the Appropriations Committee's action rejecting the item.

Army officials were reported preparing a "break-down" of the tanks, antitank guns, antiaircraft weapons and artillery supplies, showing many would be absorbed in the three million man Army as soon as completed.

The Senate committee on Tuesday rejected the sum, contending it was in excess of immediate Army requirements. The matter will come up today when the Senate acts on the supplemental defense bill. If the committee wins, the fight will go to conference.

Chairman Woodrum, of the House Deficiencies Subcommittee, yesterday obtained permission to file a conference report in the House today if an agreement is reached. Army officials are expected to be called before the conference. House conferees are bound by the House to support the reserve estimate.

Mural Designs Are on Display In Post Windows

Two mural designs by Stevan Dohanos, of Westport, Conn., are now on exhibition in The Post art window. They were executed under the program of the section of fine arts for the decoration of the United States Postoffice and Custom House, in Charlotte Amalie, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, where the completed murals (tempera on canvas) are now installed.

Each of the panels represents characteristic aspects of the life of St. Thomas. One combines the present and the past showing a sixteenth century cannon with a pile of cannon balls on a grass mound decorated at the base with conch shells, while in the background as symbols of the present day, may be seen two radio towers and a modern steamer. In the other the happy-go-lucky existence of inland traders is suggested. On the dock in which even the wide old boards are meticulously painted the straw-hatted heads of two traders can be seen behind a great pile of bananas. The aisls of the boat have been lowered, while in midstream beyond another trader is about to take in sail and call it a day.

Stevan Dohanos was born in 1907 in Lorain, Ohio. His water colors and prints are in the permanent collections of various public galleries including the Whitney Museum of American Art. Mural paintings by the same artist have been installed in the Agricultural and Forestry Building in Elkins, W. Va., and in the postoffice in West Palm Beach, Fla. Both of these projects were carried out under the section of fine arts. Mr. Dohanos designed the National Tuberculosis Christmas Seal for 1941 and has illustrated various magazines. He is a member of the Society of Illustrators, New York City, and lives in Westport, Conn.

Italians Find Mud Is Their Greatest Enemy in Ukraine

Copyright by New York Times

Rome, Aug. 13.—The Italian force on the Ukraine front has so far found that its greatest enemy is the incredible amount of mud it has to plow through, according to a dispatch from the Messagero's war correspondent, Lino Pellegrini.

He reveals, incidentally, that the Italians are "about 100 kilometers beyond Soroca," which is on the old Bessarabian Russian frontier, and hence they are taking part in the drive on Odessa, for that would place them in the neighborhood of Balta.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

U. S. Now Safe FromBombing, Knudsen Says

By W. W. Chaplin

International News Service Staff Writer

New York, Aug. 13.—William S. Knudsen, director of the Office of Production Management, said today that defense production has already safeguarded America against the probability of serious bombing, and called for a cutting of governmental red tape to speed production to double that of any other country by next July.

Addressing the New York City defense production clinic where 1,000 small manufacturers and prime contractors discussed subcontracting of defense orders, Knudsen said:

"All we need is to get together and stop bickering over procedure. Decentralize procedure business and let each manufacturer handle his job and his business with as little of—I could almost say Washington—as possible and we will get the job done.

Too Late for Bombing

"All we need is the will to get this job done and we have one great advantage—nobody is going to bomb us while we are doing it. I think it is too late for that."

Knudsen told the clinic, the latest of several held in the State under sponsorship of the State division of commerce, that if the half way mark toward the defense production goal is reached by next January 1, peak production should be attained by July 1.

"After that," he said, "America can write its own ticket on war material. And this ticket can, as far as I'm concerned, be twice what anybody else's ticket is."

Knudsen said that for the first year of the intensive rearmament program, ending last month, defense production reached the nine billion dollar mark. He predicted it would be expanded to 20 billion dollars in 1942 and in 1943 to 30 billion dollars or almost one third of the country's total production.

Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, who followed Knudsen in addressing the clinic, said that while there has been no bombing here yet, not a moment must be lost in completing the defense job.

"Every available machine and tool factory must be used," he said. "Every available worker must be trained and employed. Time is of the essence—not a day must be lost."

Army May Build Huge Jersey Pier

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—The Herald Tribune said tonight that real estate circles had heard reports that the War Department planned to build a six million dollars port of embarkation and supply depot on a 400-acre plot at Jersey City, N. J.

The port would consist mainly of a huge pier, the paper said. Army surveyors were said to have been working on the site, most of which is under several feet of water, for more than two weeks.

The land, acquired by Jersey City from the Lehigh Valley Railroad in a tax foreclosure action, is 9 miles by road from Times Square, and has excellent railroad approaches.

C. I. O. Fights Broadening of Income Tax Base

By Turner Catledge

Copyright by New York Times

The Congress of Industrial Organizations threw in its lot yesterday against the Administration's proposal to widen the income tax base to finance the defense program.

Testifying before the Senate Finance Committee, Ralph Hetzel, jr., director of the C. I. O.'s economic division and spokesman for Philip Murray, president, said his organization was "emphatically opposed" to the lowering of personal income tax exemptions.

He also opposed more extensive excise taxes and urged the committee to restore provisions for mandatory joint income returns by husbands and wives.

"Inclusion of this measure," Hetzel said, "would close one of the most serious loopholes in the progressive income tax structure. It would collect revenue, as the committee well knows, in the higher income brackets among persons who can well afford to pay. To allow this bill to be passed without this provision will be a shocking defeat for an effective tax policy."

Hetzel was supported in his plea by Mrs. Joan David, of Washington, speaking for the League of Women Shoppers, Inc.

Testifying for the Association of American Railroads, of which he is general counsel, R. V. Fletcher said the rail carriers had no objection to the 5 per cent tax on transportation of persons, provided by the House bill, since it would fall alike on travel by rail, air, bus or water. He suggested, however, that the exemption of daily commuters who travel not more than 30 miles be rewritten to make the limit 60 miles.

L. C. Stowell, of New York, representing the Office Equipment Manufacturers' Institute, and Alvin E. Dodd also of New York, president of the American Management Association, protested the 10 per cent manufacturers' excise on business machines. Stowell contended business and store machines are the "machinery of management" just as machine tools are the machinery of production.

John V. Lawrence, of Washington, general manager of American Trucking Associations, Inc., warned that "doubling of excise taxes on automotive equipment, tires and tubes and parts used by truckers, as provided in the House bill, might shrink the industry's revenue to the "vanishing point," particularly if the committee should recommend a further increase in the gasoline tax.

'Sustaining Fund' Helps Don Craig Sustain Army Life

A brand new defense agency, which has been operating quietly here for nearly three months, was revealed yesterday. It's the Don Craig Sustaining Fund, whose sole purpose, defined by its title, is to sustain Don Craig, former drama critic of the Washington Daily News, through the rigors of Army life.

Craig, drafted three months ago, is at Camp Lee, Va., and every week he is getting a check for $5 from the D. C. S. F.

Founded in the last hours of Craig's civilian life, during a small party, the D. C. S. F. is backed by more than 50 of his friends, each pledged to pay a dime a week.

The friends "proclaimed" establishment of the fund on a piece of parchment, deftly spiced with "whereases."

YANKS HAVEN'T MUCH COMPETITION

New York, Aug. 13.—An idea as to what the Yankees are up against in the American League can be gleaned from the fact that they gained ground even while they were losing seven out of 12 games during the past two weeks. During their worst slump of the season, the Yanks saw their lead grow. The suspicion is that the Yanks don't have much to beat.

POVICH

There is some doubt that this is a great Yankee club. At this point they are suffering from a strange Yankee malady, a lack of home runs. In their last 15 games the Yanks have produced only five homers. They aren't used to that sort of thing. Home runs have been the keynote of Yankee success for several years. Without 'em they can be just another ball club, and panicky at that.

Manager Joe McCarthy, for all his 14-game lead, is not unworried. His pennant worries are over, but he reserves the painful right of not kidding himself about his ball club. It isn't functioning like a team that is 14 games out in front. Scarcely a day has passed that he hasn't shifted his batting order to get more power. McCarthy never used to bother about switching his line-up against left and right-handed pitching, but these days Johnny Sturm, Joe Gordon and Charley Keller are shuttling up and down the batting order as if the Yanks were in the second division.

Only Three Hitting Over .300

For all the Yankees' reputation as a slugging team, only three players are batting more than .300. Joe DiMaggio is in the .350's, and Buddy Rosar is hitting .322, and little Phil Rizzuto is there with a .301. DiMaggio and Charley Keller, who are driving in the runs, and the Yankee pitchers are carrying the load. Tommy Henrich is hitting a mere .268, Red Rolfe is a .267 hitter, Joe Gordon can show only a .256 average, and Johnny Sturm can muster only a .245.

That seems to be evidence that the Yankees aren't a team calculated to overpower anybody, but they are 14 games out in front. Seemingly, they don't have much to beat. In fact, we can say that all over again. The Cleveland Indians, for instance, who were supposed to be the team to cause the Yankees trouble, have been only a joy to the Yanks. The Indians, in second place, had a grand chance to make a battle out of it during the Yankees' August slump, and what happened? Well, the Indians promptly went into a six-game losing streak during the same period and are now fighting to hold second place against the Red Sox.

Out in Portland, Oreg., bandy-legged little Oscar Vitt is probably getting a bait out of the American League proceedings. Vitt caught hell last year for not winning the pennant with the Indians. He butchered the job, according to Owner Alva Bradley and the Cleveland press. The Indians said they couldn't play ball for Vitt. There was strife and dissension on the club. Yet Vitt, plagued by everything that is supposed to hamper a manager, had his team in the lead most of the season and barely lost the pennant by a one-game margin.

Peck's Harmony Didn't Work

Roger Peckinpaugh was supposed to do better with the Indians this season. Harmony was the keynote in the Indians' training camp under Peck, and when the Indians moved out in front rather comfortably in late May, Peck appeared to have hit upon the secret of getting the best out of the Indians. However, harmony couldn't get runners around the bases and the Indians fell out of it. They lack punch very definitely, and with their pitching also a bit sour, they aren't going to come close to any pennant. In fact, the Red Sox probably will beat them out of second place.

The Red Sox could do very well for themselves if Joe Cronin or the boss of their farm system could come up with some pitching. The Sox have most everything else. They're far and away the power club of the league. But even if they come up with pitching next season, it may be too late. The Red Sox are coming apart at the seams. Jimmy Foxx is definitely passe as a batting threat, and only Joe Cronin's powerful batting average enables the Red Sox boss to keep himself in the line-up; he's slowed up that much. By next season, the Sox will need pitching, a first baseman and perhaps a shortstop.

There isn't anything else in the league that should worry the Yankees in 1942. Nothing except a complete rebuilding job will get the Tigers even into the first division. The White Sox's hitless wonders have been getting by purely with pitching and are struggling merely for a first-division berth. The Athletics, with better pitching, could finish second to the Yankees. It is just as well for the Yanks, perhaps, that the league is as weak as it is. They might not be winning pennants if they didn't come cheaply.

McCormick's Hit Breaks Mound Duel

Camilli's Home Run Features Big 3d Frame for Brooklyn; Podajny Loser

By the Associated Press

Cincinnati, Aug. 13.—Frank McCormick singled in the tenth inning to bring the Cincinnati Reds a 3-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals here tonight. Bucky Walters, of the Reds, avenged an extra-inning loss last Thursday to Pitcher Morton Cooper, of the Cards.

McCormick's single broke a 2-2 deadlock brought about by Johnny Mize's twelfth homer in the eighth with none on. After Walters fanned, Eddie Joost got a triple past Johnny Hopp, who missed a shoe-string catch attempt, and Mike McCormick and Eddie Lukon were intentionally passed. Then Frank McCormick scored Joost with his game-winning drive.

Ernie Lombardi hit his seventh homer in the seventh after Bill Werber singled for the Redlegs' other two runs, and the Cards' first marker came in the fifth on Gus Mancuso's double and Terry Moore's single.

The defeat cut the Cards' hold on first place to a half game over Philadelphia, and put the Reds within a game of third-place Pittsburgh, losers tonight to Chicago.

Dodgers Defeat Phillies at Night, 7-2

By the Associated Press

Brooklyn, Aug. 13.—The Brooklyn Dodgers, aided by Dolph Camilli's twenty-third homer with two on in a four-run third inning, skipped to a 7-to-2 victory over the Phillies tonight. Curt Davis rationed the losers to six hits for his eighth triumph of the season.

The Dodgers opened their attack on bespectacled Johnny Podgajny in the second inning with a run on a walk, a two-base error by Bob Bragan and a single by Peewee Reese.

Then they routed the Philly starter in the next frame. Dixie Walker drew a pass, went to second on Harry Lavagetto's single and loaded the bases when Podgajny's throw to third on Jim Wasdell's sacrifice was late. A fly by Joe Medwick prodded across a run and Camilli blasted his homer over the right-field screen for three more.

Lee Grissom pitched scoreless ball till the eighth when Rufus Melton went to the mound and gave Brooklyn its other two runs on a walk, a double by Walker and a single by Lavagetto.

Parker Routs Bitsy Grant In Newport Casino Tennis

Ted Schroeder Scores Over Segura; Johnsen-Moylan Lose in Doubles Play

By the Associated Press

Newport, R. I., Aug. 13.—Apparently tired and stale, Bryan "Bitsy" Grant, of Atlanta, Ga., was beaten today by second-seeded Frankie Parker, of Altadena, Calif., to drop from competition in the quarter-finals at the twenty-fifth annual Newport Casino Invitation Tennis Tournament.

Parker swept through the first set, 6—2, and appeared on the way to a runaway victory, but Grant rallied gamely in the second set and forced Parker to some of his best tennis before he surrendered, 8—6. That effort apparently shot the Atlantan's bolt because he could not withstand Parker's calculating drive in the final set, although he forced the issue to ten games, 6—4.

Schroeder Wins

In the day's other quarter-final match, youthful Ted Schroeder, Glendale, Calif., ousted the only surviving foreigner in the contention, defeating Francisco Segura, Guayaquil, Ecuador, 6—3, 2—6, 6—3, 6—1.

Parker and Schroeder thus were lined up for one of the semifinal matches while the other will depend on the outcome of tomorrow's remaining quarter-finals.

In the doubles, the three-seeded pairs had little trouble in advancing to the quarter-final bracket.

The top-seeded combine of Jack Kramer and Schroeder, defeated Joe Hayes, San Francisco, and Nathaniel Winthrop, Boston, 6—1, 6—2; Parker and Don McNeill, Oklahoma City, second seeded, ousted Gil Hunt, Providence, and William Clothier, 2d, Philadelphia, 5—7, 6—1, 6—2, and the third seeded pair, Wayne Sabin, Portland, Ore., and Gardnar Mulloy, Coral Gables, Fla., swept to a 6—4, 6—1 decision over Ed Amark, San Francisco, and Robin Hippenstiel, Los Angeles.

Grant and Russell Bobbitt, both of Atlanta, Ga., defeated William Crosby, of Oakland, Calif., and George A. Toley, of Los Angeles, 9—7, 6—3. William Canning, of Berkeley, Calif., and William Gillespie, of Miami, Fla., defeated Edward Moylan, of Trenton, N. J., and David Johnsen, of Washington, D. C., 10—8, 6—4. J. Gilbert Hall and Frank J. Bowden, a New York City team, defeated Budge Patty, of Los Angeles, and Arthur Marx, of Beverly Hills, Calif., 1—6, 6—2, 6—4. Edward C. Alloo, of Berkeley, Calif., and William F. Talbert, of Cincinnati, defeated Seymour Greenberg, of Chicago, and Ronald Edwards, of San Francisco, Calif., 6—3, 6—8, 6—2.

Miss Osborne Scores Tennis Upset Again

By the Associated Press

Manchester, Mass., Aug. 13.—For the second day in a row unseeded Margaret Osborne, 21-year-old San Franciscan, kicked over the dope bucket in the Essex County Club's Invitation tennis tourney, defeating third-ranked Dorothy May Bundy, Santa Monica, Calif., today in a quarter-final singles match, 6—4, 6—3.

"Ozzy" started her giant-killer role yesterday by upsetting Valerie Scott, the English Wightman Cup veteran and top-seded foreign performer, 6—2, 4—6, 7—5, the victory hinging on a baseline decision which so unnerved the English star that she dropped four straight games in the final set.

Today's victory over Miss Bundy, who is fourth-ranked nationally, was the first for Miss Osborne in five meetings between the pair. Miss Osborne is rated elventh on the national list.

Miss Betz Wins

Other matches of the day ran true to form with top-seeded Pauline Betz disposing of Louise Brough, Beverly Hills, Calif., 6—3, 6—4, in a third round match while second-ranked Helen Jacobs, Greenville, Del., also advanced to the quarter-finals by eliminating Mrs. Helen Pedersen Rihbany, Brookline, 7—5, 6—3.

Helen Bernhard, New York, fourth-seeded, joined Miss Osborne in the semifinals by defeating youthful Dorothy Wightman, Boston, 6—1, 6—2.

The Betz-Bundy doubles team, top ranked, took a quarter-final match from the Los Angeles combine of Barbara Bradley and Jane Stanton, smashing back after dropping the first set, 4—6, to pull even, 6—3, and then batter to victory in a love set.

Red Sox Beat A's, 4-0, To Near Second Place

By the Associated Press

Philadelphia, Aug. 13.—The Boston Red Sox climbed within 1½ games of the second-place Cleveland Indians in the American League tonight by opportune hitting behind Charley Wagner's shutout pitching to beat the Athletics, 4 to 0, before 19,106 at Shibe Park. It was the A's fifth straight defeat.

It was the seventh victory of the season for Wagner, who held an edge over Phil Marchildon.

Doubles by Joe Cronin and Ted Williams gave Boston their first run in the third inning. In the fourth Lou Finney singled, reached third on another one-baser by Frankie Pytlak, who got four hits in four times at bat, and scored on Wagner's infield out.

In the seventh Dom DiMaggio singled, reached third on an error and a sacrifice and came home on Cronin's fly. In the ninth DiMaggio doubled, moved to third on a sacrifice and scored on a wild pitch.

The A's threatened in the sixth, but Bob Johnson was caught at the plate. In the eighth Benny McCoy singled and Johnson walked, but Sam Chapman struck out and Dick Siebert lined out.

Redskins Sign John Stonebraker

Los Angeles, Aug. 13 (AP).—George Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins of the National Professional Football League, said today he had signed John Stonebraker, star University of Southern California end and tackle.

Westward Ho! Our Haight Hops Freight

It's "California, here I come," as far as our Walter Haight is concerned. The heavy fellow with the light typing touch will be hoisted into a baggage car at 5:45 today when the vanguard of the Washington Redskins entrain for their conditioning grounds at San Diego. Although Haight's football knowledge is the product of three years as left guard with "The Little Potatoes, We're Hard To Peel" and a year as third string fullback at Business High School, it is reported he knows the game is played outdoors.

The Helmet

In sending "Pounds" to the West Coast, the Sports Department feels that it is doing its bit to relieve the crowded condition, if not the humidity, of our fair city. But if Haight lives up to past performances, we can expect plenty of hot air to filter back from California in his "Dear Boss" letters. Those who followed his communications from Florida and elsewhere last winter, under the headings of "Haight Goes South" and "Pieces of Haight" are familiar with his humorous and homey style.

We are not sure just what the experience of our Walter Haight will be in the Wild West but, even if nothing happens, we'll wager he will report it in a few thousand words. As soon as we receive a letter from the fat one, the series will begin. Then look for it every morning on these pages.

Steve Mamakos Knocked Out In Chicago

By the Associated Press

Chicago, Aug. 13.—Johnny Colan, sensational 19-year-old Italian youngster from New York, scored his twenty-seventh consecutive victory tonight by knocking out Steve Mamakos, Washington, D. C., in the seventh round of a scheduled ten-round fight in the Chicago Stadium outdoor arena. Colan scored five knockdowns.

Mamakos fell victim to a savage right-hand smash to the chin that knocked him sprawling. He tried to get up at the count of nine but was unable to rise.

Colan, a terrific short puncher with both hands, was floored for a count of two in the first round and got up to drop Mamakos twice. Again in the second and fourth, Colan floored Mamakos who fought with bulldog stamina until he was dropped with a right-hand smash after 41 seconds of the seventh.

The battle drew 3853 spectators with receipts around $7,000. Colan weighed 161½ and Mamakos 160.

Infielder Orengo's Toe Is Fractured During Practice

Boston, Aug. 13.—Joe Orengo, utility infielder, will be lost to the Giants for ten days or two weeks as the result of a fracture of the big toe of his left foot, Manager Bill Terry said today.

Orengo's toe was broken by a foul tip in batting practice before yesterday's double-header with the Dodgers at Ebbets Field. He played both games, however, and didn't know the extent of the injury until an X-ray was taken last night. He didn't accompany the team to Boston.

The Braves also have a possible fracture case in Carvel Rowell, who injured his left thumb yesterday. Young Al Roberge, brought up from Hartford last month, replaced Rowell at second.

Pirates-St. Paul Deal Is Canceled

Pittsburgh, Aug. 13 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates' deal with St. Paul, of the American Association League, in which Pitcher Joe Bowman was to be traded for Oral C. Hildebrand was called off today.

President William Benswanger of the Pirates told Bowman, who arrived here today from St. Paul, to return to his home town of Kansas City for treatment of his ailing right arm. Bowman's disclosure of the ailment caused the proposed deal to fall through.

Meanwhile the whereabouts of Hildebrand were unknown. While Bowman reported to St. Paul, Hildebrand failed to arrive in Pittsburgh after leaving St. Paul. Pirate officials said the right-hander would go back to St. Paul when located.

2 Golf Deadlines Set Tomorrow

Tomorrow is the entry closing date for two golf tournaments—the Maryland State mixed two-ball, Sunday, at the Country Club of Maryland, and the Government employes' handicap tournament, August 18-29, at Bradley Hills.

Emmet Gary is handling the State two-ball entries at 16 McClellan place, Baltimore. Play will be selective drives, alternate shots, with half handicap allowance. Net and gross prizes will be awarded.

The Government tournament will be a 36-hole affair, with 18 to be played between August 18-22 and the second 18 between the 25th and 29th. Entries close at the Bradley Hills Club.

Sid Hudson Wins First Game, 5 to 3

Marvin Breur Wins Nightcap for Yanks; Archie's 11th-Inning Homer Wins Opener

By Shirley Povich
Post Staff Writer

New York, Aug. 13.—The Nats fell down and got a draw with the Yankees this afternoon. They bogged down in the second game of a doubleheader, made only five hits off Marvin Breuer, and took a 5-1 beating after licking the Yanks, 5 to 3, in an 11-inning first game.

Shades of 1940 were present in the opening game when Sid Hudson unloaded a superb pitching job to beat the Yanks with the timely help of George Archie. In that first game, the Nats were a pleasure to watch as they came from behind, tied the score in the ninth, and went on to win.

They won the game because George Archie, all of a sudden turned slugger. He slugged Ernie Bonham for a fierce two-bagger that put the tying run in scoring position in the ninth, and two innings later he improved upon that clout. He broke up the ball game in the eleventh with an enormous home-run far into the left field stands with Cecil Travis on base. In addition to Archie's home run, there were 14,924 customers in the stands.

Chase Is Loser

In that second game, Ken Chase was the losing pitcher for the fourteenth time, but for him it was a heart-rending defeat. Before he retired with a blistered finger at the end of the seventh inning he had given up only six hits and three runs to the Yankees. Four of those Yankee hits were tainted infield affairs and all three of their runs off Chase were scored on hits which we are not above saying were of the cheapest type.

Eventually young Walter Masterson made a mess of the second game when they put him in the box in the eighth. He filled the bases with Yanks before getting anybody out, and the Yanks came up with two clinching runs.

In that first game, though, it should have been a breeze for Hudson, who shut the Yankees out with two hits in the first six innings. But Hudson's support crumbled late in the game and a pair of errors by Jimmy Bloodworth and Mickey Vernon helped the Yankees to tie the score at 2 to 2 in the seventh and take a 3-to-2 lead in the eighth.

Travis Triples

Back in the fourth inning, the Nats took a 2-to-0 lead with two out when Lewis singled to center and Cecil Travis made the first of his three hits of the game. This one was a lenthy triple that rolled to the center-field wall. Vernon got Travis home with the second run of the inning by beaitng out a hit to Rizzuto.

Bonham was keeping the Yanks in the ball game, however, and he was rewarded when the Yanks came up with the two tying runs in the seventh. They'd have made more except for heedless base running. Bloodworth's muff put Henrich on base and the Yanks were off. DiMaggio singled to left and two runs were scored when Keller doubled to left, but Keller was thrown out by Case when he tried to take three bases. The Yanks took a 3-to-2 lead in the eighth after tossing away a run. Joe Gordon opened with a double to left, but was trapped when he overran second and Case threw him out. With two out, Henrich singled off Vernon's glove and galloped to second when Vernon threw wild to Hudson, who was covering the bag. DiMaggio's single to center scored Henrich, but Cramer threw DiMaggio out when he tried to stretch his blow.

As if to atone for his error, Ver-

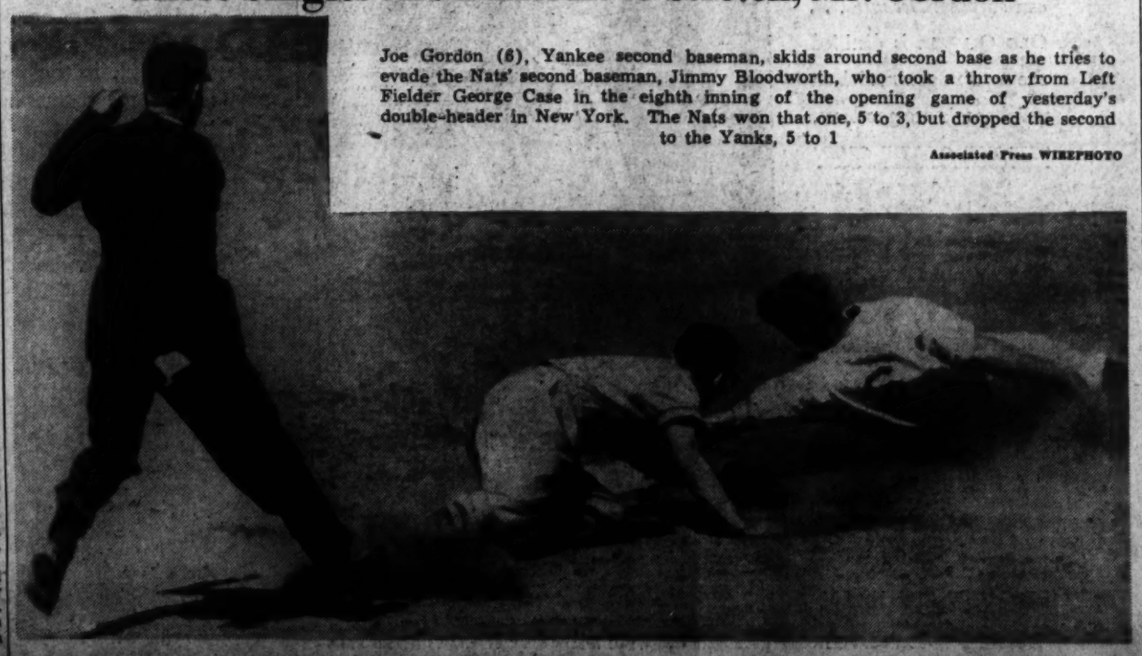
Those Singles Are Difficult to Stretch, Mr. Gordon



Joe Gordon (6), Yankee second baseman, skids around second base as he tries to evade the Nats' second baseman, Jimmy Bloodworth, who took a throw from Left Fielder George Case in the eighth inning of the opening game of yesterday's double-header in New York. The Nats won that one, 5 to 3, but dropped the second to the Yanks, 5 to 1

Post's Scholastic Grid School May Become Annual Affair

Eastern High Officials Lend Support

Classes to Be Held Monday at 4 P. M. At Tide's Stadium; Sam Fox to Coach

Mounting interest in the first football school sponsored by The Washington Post, opening for a two-week stand Monday, will likely make the affair a fixture on the local scholastic preseason schedule.

Hearty support is being given the young grid institution by all concerned, especially from officials of Eastern High, in whose stadium classes will be held. Asking no fee, Eastern bosses said the school's dressing rooms and showers would be thrown open to youngsters throughout sessions

All a young football hopeful of 14 years or more must do to join The Post school, is fill out the accompanying entry blank, mail it to The Post School Editor, and show up Monday at 4 p.m. with shorts and tennis shoes. He'll be able to dress at the stadium, and when classes are over at 6 o'clock he can go home clean and refreshed.

In fulfillment of their promise to bring in "guest" coaches for each class, Sam Fox and Les Ehrlich, former local stars who are in charge, yesterday lined up talent for the first two days. Monday's "guest," appropriately, will be Sam's brother, Phil, who will teach football at the host school this year. On Tuesday it will be Hardy Pierce, the former George Washington and Hardin-Simmons star, who recently gave up his coaching post at Central High.

In addition to Fox and Ehrlich, who will take special charge of ends and linemen, respectively, The Post School's regular staff will include Jim O'Leary, mentor at Devitt Prep. The latter volunteered his services day before yesterday and was promptly accepted. He will be responsible for backfield men.

Special arrangements are being made to accommodate full scholastic teams who wish to attend single sessions in a body. Spectators will be welcomed, free of charge.

Browns Beat Indians With Big 3d Inning

By the Associated Press

St. Louis, Aug. 13.—Denny Galehouse held Cleveland to eight hits, allowed no runs after the first inning and smacked three singles himself as the Browns won today, 9 to 3.

The Browns' big splurge was the third when seven runs scored on seven hits, a wild pitch and a walk. Only one of the hits was an extra baser—George McQuinn's double, which drove in the sixth and seventh runs and drove Clint Brown to the showers. A few minutes before Starting Pitcher Joe Krakauskas had been knocked out. Harry Eisenstat retired the side.

Clarence Campbell, first man to face Galehouse, singled, Ken Keltner walked, Larry Rosenthal sacrificed and Jeff Heath was passed intentionally, filling the bases. Oscar Grimes flied ou. Then Lou Boudreau cleaned the bases with a double and took third on the throw to the plate. That ended the Indians' scoring for the day.

Nats Meet Yanks In Double-header; Carrasquel Hurls

Special Dispatch to The Post

New York, Aug. 13.—The Nats move back into Yankee Stadium for another double-header with the league leaders tomorrow. Alex Carrasquel will be seeking his sixth straight victory in the first game and Manager Bucky Harris, now shy on pictures, will turn to Bill Zuber for the second game effort.

It was against the Yanks in Washington last week that Carrasquel scored a 4-3 victory and won his first 1941 start. He had won three gamesc in relief roles without a defeat and has since beaten the Red Sox.

The Yankees will pitch Marius Russo and Steve Peek in the double bill. Lefty Gomez originally was scheduled to pitch today but reported a painful stiff neck while warming up.

Cubs Score 5 In Ninth, Beat Pirates, 6-4

By the Associated Press

Pittsburgh, Aug. 13.—Scoring five runs in the ninth inning on two hits, the Chicago Cubs surged from behind tonight to beat back the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6 to 4, before 25,373 fans. Charlie Gilbert, pinch hitting, drove inthe tying and winning runs with a single.

It was the third straight setback for the Pirates, their longest losing streak in seven weeks.

Going into the ninth, Pitcher Johnny Lanning was coasting along on a 4-to-1 lead. A walk to Bill Nicholson, Arky Vaughan's fumble of Hank Leiber's grounder and Babe Dahlgren's single scored a run. Then Debs Garms fumbled Clyde McCullough's grounder, letting Leiber score. An infield out and a pass filled the sacks, and young Gilbert, up from Montreal, greeted Relief Pitcher Floyd Dietz with his winning two-run single. The fifth run came on an infield out.

Rookie Paul Erickson, who whitewashed the Pirates on one hit last Friday in Chicago, yielded three runs in the first inning without a hit, passing three batters and committing an error, along with Dahlgren.

Little Tavern Scores Over Reliance, 5-2

After piling up three runs in the first inning, Little Tavern's nine went on to win over Reliance Life Insurance, 5 to 2, in a Washington Post-Industrial League game on the Ellipse yesterday.

In the victors' half of the first Knocky Thomas walked and Good hit a high bounder that fell between first and home for a hit, sending Thomas to third. Clarke, next up, fouled six balls and, with the count three balls and two strikes, slammed a home run along the left field line scoring Thomas and Good for enough runs to take the game.

Gaffke, 27, is a right-handed hitter and was purchased partly as protection against the expected loss of Clarence (Soup) Campbell to the Army. The Minneapolis player has been deferred by his Selective Service board.

Air Waves Are Shivering In St. Louis—Diz Is on 'Em

Dean Has Settled Down Since Old Days; Even Agrees With Umpire's Decisions

By the Associated Press

St. Louis, Aug. 13.—A raw-boned, lanky man quivering with excitement was sitting behind a microphone in the broadcast booth high above the playing field at Sportsman's Park.

His graying hair dangled over his forehead and his face was drawn in emotional intensity.

Down below the St. Louis Cardinals were battling hell for leather to hold first place in the National League. They hadn't come up with such a fighting aggregation since 1934 when the great Dizzy Dean and brother, Paul, won the World Series.

The score was tied in the eighth inning. The Cards had runners on second and third with one out.

There was a sharp crack as the bat connected with the ball—and a crash of a chair overturning as the announcer leaped into the air waving his arms and yelling, "Yoweeeee—you can't beat 'em."

It was Dizzy Dean himself, once the greatest attraction in baseball, in action as a radio sports commentator.

Pops Off Less

Although he still is somewhat of a riot in the press box, old Diz isn't the fire-eating pop-off he used to be.

When he took the radio job—for a reported $10,000 a year—he vowed "they ain't gonna change me none," but he has settled down until the umpires he used to heckle as part of his daily diet would hardly know him. He is taking the job seriously.

On a close play at home plate the other day he even remarked over the air:

"Well, I wouldn't attempt to call them from up here where I sit, but it looked to me like the ump was right."

He broadcasts an inning or two each game and chimes in frequently to give listeners some "inside" dope. He admits he doesn't think he is quite as good at hurling words as he was at throwing fast balls, but states frankly that he is improving.

Lansburgh Ten Defeats Greenbelt, 8-1

The Lansburgh ten rolled on last night at Washington Softball Stadium, winning its fourth upset game in a row by swamping Greenbelt, 8 to 1. This game was the first of a three-game playoff series for the National Night League title.

Turk Lannon limited the Marylanders to three hits. Subway Baker pitched a good game himself, holding the winners to five hits, three of which were made by Krebs.

The Yellow Cab team won the Prince Georges County League title by smothering Carr Brothers, 13 to 1, for the second successive night. Bump Simonds held the losers to three hits.

Tonight Kavakos Grill and Fat Boy will resume their feud at 8 o'clock, when the second half championship of the Sherwood League will be decided. Greenbelt and Lansburgh will clash in the second of their three-game setto for the National League title at 9:15.

The Greenock A. C., with a record of 16 victories in 18 starts challenges teams in the Washington-Virginia League and the H. and J. Construction nine to Sunday games. Call Plummer, District 5700, Branch 2234, between 8:30 and 4:30.

Giants Split Double-header With Braves

By the Associated Press

Boston, Aug. 13.—The New York Giants and Boston Braves divided a double-header today with the Giants capturing the first, 7 to 6, and the Braves taking the nightcap, 2 to 1.

The Giants were held to seven hits in each game, but a four-run third inning furnished the impetus for victory in the opener.

Babe Young, who had duobled a run across in the first frame, came up with the bases loaded in the third and hit another double for two more tallies, routing Al Javery. Then Manny Salvo promptly wild-pitched to let in another pair of runs.

The Braves made a dozen hits and twice bunched four in an inning for three runs in the third and seventh.

In the second game Lefty Art Johnson kept the Giants well in check, while Boston teed off in the first inning for two runs against Hal Schumacher, the first scoring he had permitted in 22 consecutive innings.

$100 Bids in Time Maker Colt at Sale

Saratoga Spring, N. Y., Aug. 13 (AP).—The annual yearling sales here in the famous George Street auction ring attracted another large gathering to bid on the progeny of some of the most prominent sires and dams.

Tonight's sale included consignments from Waren Wright's Calumet Farms, Henry H. Knght, among others.

Fifty-six yearlings were offered this evening and the various breeders received $72,200 for their youngsters, an average of $1289.

In contrast to the high bidding, Time Maker-Broken Veil, a dark chestnut colt, only brought $100, the lowest single sale of the vendue. This colt was purchased by Nat Harris.

The highest price of the evening was $5200 paid by Thomas H. McCreary when he out-bid the others for a handsome dark bay colt by Questionnaire-Cachua.

Mrs. Harry Lunger, owner of the Christiana Stable, purchased a bay colt by Imp Pharamond-2nd Sparta for $5000.

Dole Is Winner

Commander Vincent W. Dole won the veterans' tennis championship at the Edgemoor Club yesterday when he turned back Sven Johnsen, 6—2, 7—5. The award was made to the Army-Navy Club player by Dooley Mitchell, president of Edgemoor.

Newsom Hurls 4-to-1 Victory Over Chisox

By the Associated Press

Chicago, Aug. 13.—Buck Newsom, whose pitching victories for the Detroit Tigers totaled 21 last year, scored his ninth win of the current season today as his mates defeated the Chicago White Sox, 4 to 1, aided by three Sox errors in the third inning.

Newsom, who shut out the Chicagoans, 1 to 0, six weeks ago, walked one batter and was in trouble in just one inning today. In the fourth Myrl Hoag's fly with the bases loaded spoiled his shutout. Buck has lost 16 games.

The Tigers made nine hits off Ed Smith, including two singles each by Rudy York and Birdie Tebbetts. Their three runs in the third came on a single by Barney McCosky, an error by Jimmy Webb, a dual fielding and throwing error by First Baseman Don Kolloway and a double by Pinky Higgins.

HERBERT RAVENEL SASS'

Complete Novel In Sunday's Post!

Herbert Ravenel Sass is a well-known writer. His stories and articles appear in such magazines as the Saturday Evening Post . . . and he's written numerous books, among them "The Way of the Wild" and "War Drums."

Sass is a native of Charleston, South Carolina, and has long been a student of the early history of Charleston. "Emperor Brims," his latest novel, is the result of that special interest. Sass has taken one gripping incident in the early struggle between the Indians and the White Man and turned it into a colorful historical romance, "Emperor Brims." Look for this splendid novel in Sunday's Post!

15 Seek Four Amateur Golf Berths at Towson, Md., Today

Qualifiers Who Back Out Face Penalty

C. C. of Maryland Scene of 36-Hole Play; 7 From D. C. In Starting Field

By Merrell W. Whittlesey

A 1200 mile trip to the National Amateur Championship in Omaha, Nebr., at their own expense, will be the reward for the four low scorers in the sectional qualifying rounds for the Middle Atlantic District today at the Country Club of Maryland, just outside Baltimore in Towson.

The smallest Nation-wide entry since 1937, attributed mainly to many of the amateur golfers being in defense work and unable to leave and many more in the Army, was true in this section as only 16 entered and one of them, Bobby Brownell, will not be on hand.

The heavy favorite to win the gold medal for low scorer over the old Terra Marias and Rodgers Forge course will be the home club star, Otto Greiner, whose showing in last week's Anderson Memorial Tournament in New York proved he is right on his stick.

From the District Bobby Brownell's acceptance of a position keeping him from almost entirely from golf was a blow to his many backers who felt sure the 22-year-old youngster, Middle Atlantic amateur and Maryland Open champion, was ready to make his presence felt, particularly this year when Bud Ward is the only outstanding amateur in the country.

No Wasted Places

A new slant on today's qualifying rounds will be that qualifiers will be asked immediately after their places are assured as to whether or not they definitely intend to make the trip. The U. S. G. A. apparently intends to crack down on those who qualify and then waste their places, thus depriving alternates of an opportunity to make the trip.

No penalty has been prescribed for flagrant violators but it is believed the U. S. G. A. will not accept their entries for future tournaments. This situation has come up several times locally in the past few years when qualifiers decided not to go too late for an alternate to make plans for the trip.

District Hopes

Washington's hopes today lie chiefly with those inseparable golfing companions, Ralph Bogart, the District champion, and Earle Skinker, his side-kick from Columbia, who qualified locally last year, made the match play grade at Mamaroneck and then lost together in the first round.

Charley Malone, who has apparently decided to pass up the Redskins this year, will be the first player off the tee and with Gene Pittman, Ray Swearingen, Joe Basse and Charley Price will comprise the remainder of the District delegation. Malone, if he can keep his ponderous tee shots in the fairway, will be a real threat.

Eddie Johnston, the junior star from the host club, will be Baltimore's second best bet for one of the four places.

Charlottesville sent Virginia's only representatives, Pat Janssen, Ben Bassett and Walter Cushman, all fairly well known here. One "floater" will be in the field, Harold L. Fates, of the Yale Club in New Haven.

The 36-hole tests will begin at 9 a. m., with Malone leading the field of 15. Several of the players tested the course yesterday, Skinker and Basse going over for a practice round with their home club pro, Fred McLeod.

The championship will be played August 25-30.

Recreation Net Deadline Is Tomorrow

The eighth annual D. C. Recreation Department's open tennis tournament will begin Saturday at the Reservoir courts, Sixteenth and Kennedy Streets Northwest.

Entries will be taken until 6 p. m. Friday at 1740 Massachusetts Avenue Northwest or the Tennis Shop, 1019 Fifteenth Street Northwest. Further details may be obtained by phoning Michigan 1165.

Barney Welsh won the men's singles title last year. Alphonso Smith was runner-up. Welsh and Hugh Lynch captured the doubles. The women's singles was won by Margaret Keever over Charlotte Decker. Miss Decker and Frances Rowan captured the doubles title.

Dykes Looks Cheerful—Salary Raised

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

As Mrs. Grace Comiskey (left), president of the club, and her daughter, Dorothy (center) look on, Jimmy Dykes signed a contract to manage the Chicago White Sox for three more years. "Oh, yes, he got a raise in salary," Mrs. Comiskey said

Jimmy Dykes Signed to Pilot White Sox Three More Years

Manager Emerges From Contract Signing With Broad Grin; Given a Good Raise

By the Associated Press

Chicago, Aug. 13.—Baseball's scrappy little round man, James J. Dykes, cast his lot for another three years today with his equally scrappy Chicago White Sox.

Squashing reports he might leave for another managerial spot—rumor had it that he was going to Detroit's Tigers at $96,000 a year—the 44-year-old White Sox pilot signed to manage the club through 1944. Mrs. Grace Comiskey, club president, said, "Jimmy got a raise"—and it was generally believed it upped his salary from $25,000 yearly to about $27,500 or $28,000. "Without mentioning the names of any clubs, I've had offers at more money," said Dykes. "But I haven't had any since last spring, when certain clubs told me that if I ever contemplated leaving Chicago to keep them in mind.

"But it's been pleasant working here, and I'm told I'll have the same free rein I've had in the past. I'll go right on trading, buying and selling players as I see fit and that suits me fine."

Jimmy Beams Satisfaction

Dykes had a broad, satisfied grin on his face as he made that last remark, for the leeway the club has given him helped build his reputation as one of the shrewdest traders in the game—one who has demonstrated a remarkable faculty of making a collection of bargain basement players in a hustling, hard to beat club.

The White Sox have been "hot" recently, taking nine victories and a tie in their last 12 starts and being only a game and a half out of third place. Dykes is confident that his 1942 team will be the best he's had since he took over the club managership in May, 1934, succeeding Lou Fonseca. That season the club finished in the American League cellar, but from then Dykes transformed the club into a hustling outfit that for years has been a pennant factor.

Immediately after signing, Dykes hurried away to Mercy Hospital for another one of the many check-ups on some stomach trouble he's been having lately. During the past month or so he's lost 20 pounds, dropping from 196 to 176 pounds. It's had no visible effect on his hustle on the field, however, for last Monday's player battle between the White Sox and St. Louis Browns saw Jimmy in the thick of things and earning a clean cut "wrestling" decision over the Brownies' Al Strange.

Since coming to the Sox, Dykes has been the American League "pepper hot," his feuds with umpires keeping him constantly in hot water and resulting in his recent suspension by President Will Harridge.

Nearby Team May Fight Local Boxers

Washington's amateur ringmen probably will be looking into neighboring backyards for opposition in the near future.

Billy Blake, director of the summer program launched this year by the District A. A. U., last night disclosed that negotiations are under way for matches with either a Baltimore or Philadelphia team for an all-star Washington line-up after next Monday night's show at Turner's Arena.

"We'll take the boys who have looked best on our shows at Turner's," he said, "and I think we'll have a team good enough to stand up with anything those other cities can get together."

Griffith Stadium is being considered as a site for the matches if the idea materializes, although there is nothing definite about that phase of it. Blake, moreover, is figuring on team matches with Army ringmen from Fort Meade and other nearby military posts.

Redskin Group Leaves for Camp, Practice Monday

Seven members of the Redskins football club, General Manager Jack Espey and a group of sportswriters will leave Union Station at 5:45 p. m. today, heading for San Diego, Calif., where the pros will start their training for the 1941 season. Practice begins on Monday. Other players will join the group en route or will report directly to the camp.

Those leaving from Washington are: Frank Filchock, Bob Masterson, Bob McChesney, Wayne Millner, Clyde Shugart, Clem Stralka and Ed Cifers. The last named is a rookie end who played with the University of Tennessee last year.

Mrs. Brownell, Stokes Tie at Manor Club

With her son, Bobby, out of the golf headlines for a while, Mrs. J. V. Brownell took over at Manor Club yesterday and with Mrs. W. R. Stokes tied for the first day's lead in the annual Schlosser Cup Tournament.

Mrs. Brownell had nines of 43 and 46 for an 89, minus 12 handicap strokes, for a net 77. Mrs. Stokes, the District champion, was out in 41 with a 7 on the ninth and then was one over men's par for eight holes of the back nine but finished with a 6 and 36 for a 79—2—77.

With the final 18 holes set for today, Mrs. H. J. Beech, 90—12—78, and Mrs. L. Butler, 93—15—78, were tied for second, and Mrs. J. E. Nell, 92—12—80; Mrs. G. E. Pugh, 90—10—80, and Mrs. Edgar Puryear, 97—17—80, tied for third low score.

Bob Bensinger Gains Md. Net Semifinals

By the Associated Press

Mount Lake Park, Md., Aug. 13.—Arlo Kleintob, of Peckville, Pa., defending champion, and Robert Bensinger, Washington, became the first players to reach the semifinals of the Western Maryland Tennis Tournament today, Kleintob defeating Price Colvin, Baltimore, 6—4, 6—2, while Bensinger eliminated Charles Freer, Washington, 6—3, 6—1.

Other semifinalists in the men's singles division will be determined tomorrow when Jack Southworth, Pittsburgh, meets Billy Jacobs, Baltimore, and Ed Alcorn, Pittsburgh veteran, plays Eddie McCullough, of Breckenridge, Pa.

Southworth won from Al Baker, Baltimore, 6—2, 7—5, while Jacobs downed Bernard Petruska, Pittsburgh, 6—1, 6—4. Alcorn had little trouble with W. J. McClaroy, Pittsburgh, 6—3, 6—0. McCullough, however, won by default from Adrian Hartman, Pittsburgh, but then was hard pressed to defeat Ed La Fleur, Baltimore, 1—6, 6—4, 9—7.

Randolph Loses

Representative Jennings Randolph, of Elkins, W. Va., was an earlier victim of Alcorn, 6—0, 6—1. In the doubles he teamed with Col. Hugh Miller, of Washington, and lost to the Baltimoreans, Joe Albert and Al Baker, 6—2, 6—0.

In first matches of the women's singles Virginia Hood, Washington, defeated Ann Smith, Cumberland, 7—5, 6—1, then lost to Hazel Bishop, Washington, 6—1, 6—2. Dolly Harris, Pittsburgh, won from Frances Barry, 6—1, 6—1. Mrs. Ellen Poindexter defeated Helen Boggess, 6—3, 6—8, 6—4, and Joy Hartman won from Cara Weber, Oakland, by default.

Doubles Results

Other results in the men's doubles:

Jacobs-La Fleur defeated Donald Dunham, New York, and Fred C. Wright, Hagerstown, 6—0, 6—4.

Alcorn-Southworth defeated Frank Haymond and Thomas Haymond, Fairmont, W. Va., 6—0, 6—0.

Al McCabe, Huntington, and Dan Siverling, Hershey, Pa., defeated William Woerle and Dan Sullivan, Baltimore, 6—2, 9—7.

Play in the mixed doubles will begin tomorrow.

Snodgrass Duo Will 'Scuffle' At Turner's

The art of scufflin,' as practiced by Smoke Mountain, Tenn., hillbilly will be unfolded to wrestling customers tonight at Turner's Arena by Elvira Snodgrass, and her tobacco chewing hubby, Elmer.

Elvira, who calls wrestling scufflin', will meet Mae Young, Oklahoma City cowgirl, in a double windup match, with Ernie Dusek, the notorious Nebraska rioteer, facing Joe Cox, the Kansas Krasher, in the other co-feature.

Elmer will remove his shoes and scuffle barefooted against Angelo Leone, the New York Italian.

The show, formerly scheduled for the ball park but shifted to the Arena when Promoter Turner decided not to gamble on the weather because the hillbillies are available only for tonight, is considered by Turner as his best of the season. It will find The Green Hornet, masked wrestler, returning to action, in a special match against Pat Fraley, the popular Pacific Coast Irishman, and also offers Fred (Legs) Grobmier, the scissors expert, tackling Milo Steinborn, the emphis "Strong Man."

The hillbillies are sort of inseparable when the matches in which each participates get under way. That is to say, Elmer aids and abets Elvira, and Elvira by the same token seconds Elmer.

Promoter Turner has promised the winner of the Snodgrass-Young bout a match with Mildred Burke, the champion, in the next few weeks, which is good news to Elvira, who, a few months ago, lost a close bout to the titleholder and since has been seeking a rematch.

Dusek and Cox need little introduction to the fans. They grappled here last winter and Dusek won via disqualification.

First match at at 8:30.

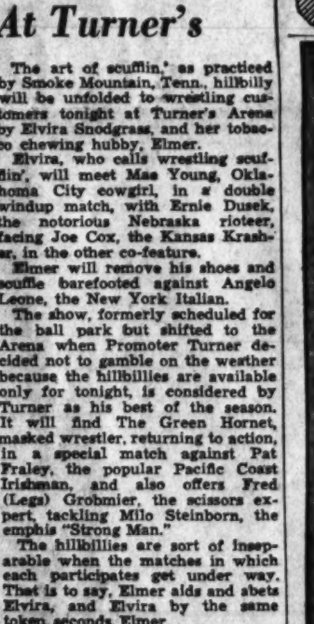
Shot Put Wins Turf Feature

Chicago, Aug. 13.—Mrs. Marie Evans' Shot Put, the Marathon champion, carried 128 pounds to a galloping six lengths victory in the $2500 added Garrison Handicap of 2¼ miles at Washington Park today.

Shot Put easily defeated Betty's Bob and Bucking in that order. A. C. Ernst's Al Au Feu, second choice to the winner at 2 to 1, never was in it, finishing fourth in the seven-horse field.

The winner, a 5-year-old gelded son of Chance Shot—Muzzie II, which his Chicago owner purchased from Joseph E. Widener for $2,000 two years ago, ran the distance in 3:35 2-5, a second slower than the track mark he set with 122 pounds up last year. Shot Put was conceding from 17 to 30 pounds to his rivals. He paid $4.20 to win and earned $1950.

Mrs. Hirsch Jacobs' Marriage, unbeaten winner of eight straight races this season, was stopped by Dixiana Stable's Sirocco in the Omaha Handicap. It was Sirocco's first victory since his 1940 Arlington Classic triumph. Jockey Jimmy Wilson brought Sirocco home three-quarters of a length ahead of Marriage. Sirocco paid $10.60 and ran the mile in 1.36 2-5.



On the Line With Considine

New York, Aug. 13.—If those two hardy old biddies, Mmes. Beatrice Fairfax and Dorothy Dix don't mind, we'd like to reply to a letter from a slightly dizzy doll who is 17 and considered pretty by her friends. She wants to know, momentously enough, if she should take up golf or tennis or some similarly agreeable exercise and use the sport as a means of "getting the right man."

CONSIDINE

Well, Snooks, it all depends. We don't know just what kind of a bloke is "right" for you. But there is proof available that if a dame plays a game competitively she's better able to pick a guy who isn't a phony. Competitive sports seems to give her a clearer sense of values.

Don't take my word for it. Recently Dr. William Moulton Marston, well-known psychologist who had much to do with the perfecting of the lie detector, tested the emotions of 100 New York girls watching the horror of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" unfold on a screen.

The doctor found that the girls who had gone in for competitive sports showed no sense of fright when Spencer Tracy drank his super mickey and changed into what looked something like a caricature of John L. Lewis scowling at William Green.

Their chief emotion when Hyde, the Louse, began pitching his werewolf woo at Ingrid Bergman was a wrathful "I'd slug that bum before I'd take that from him." In short, or even in shorts, the athletic girl builds up a great resistance against hit-and-run flimflams, and thus, more often than not, is likely to come up with something worthwhile in the gent's line.

That's all, sister. Next!

We've decided that the trouble with Feller isn't Feller. The trouble is in those eight players who appear on the same field with him. They are called a team, the Indians, but about their only right to that term is the similarity of their uniforms. Feller certainly isn't overworked. His path toward the best season of his career has become hopelessly clogged because the Indians—called "the most courageous team in the majors"—have given up the ghost. The firm simply is made up of dispirited individualists who can't arouse themselves from their selfish blue funk even when they are playing behind the best young pitcher of his day.

A shrewd lady baseball fan, Isabelle M. Parks, of Washington, coincidentally writes: "In a recent Cleveland-Washington game, Jeff Heath hit a triple that drove in two runs. Later he scored, but not a single Indian spoke to him or congratulated him when he returned to the bench. I know, for I was sitting nearby. Honestly, I wonder if Joe DiMaggio could have hit in 66 straight games with the Indians. I doubt it. The sincere near hysteria of the Yanks over Joe's streak certainly helped keep it going.

"Gomez was scheduled to pitch against the Senators one day last year. The Yanks were going badly. Just before the game Bill Dickey quietly told the team that this game might be Lefty's last bid to save his job for 1941 and that they had to win this game for him. You never saw anything like the way they played. From where I sat it didn't look as if Vernon had anything but a glove and a prayer, but Washington didn't score on him in the seven innings he pitched. DiMaggio practically broke his neck in center field, and the infielding was astounding. It was really touching. Joe McCarthy has made a team out of the Yanks. They have individual stars, but winning games as a team comes first and they know it. I know a lot of the people who hate Bill Terry would like to see Cleveland wished on him just for meanness. Personally, it would interest me very much to see what Bill would do with the Indians. I think he'd do something, even if he had to kill a few of them in the process—not that that wouldn't be constructive."

603 Seek Amateur Qualification

By the United Press

New York, Aug. 13.—Six hundred and three nervous linksmen are ready for tomorrow's 36 holes of qualifying play for the National Amateur golf championship.

The night before any golf competition, and particularly any stage of the Open or the Amateur, is the critical one for many a golfer. That is when they begin to tighten up. A lot of fine rounds have been left on a sleepless or a nightmarish pillow.

Some of the boys who have been practicing regularly in the low 70s will soar into the 80s tomorrow.

Of the 603 who start out in 27 sectional rounds, 137 will qualify for a shot at Dick Chapman's title in the championship proper over the links of the Omaha Field Club, August 25 to 30. In addition, seven others have been exempted from qualifing and six qualified at Denver Monday, making a total field of 150 to tee off at Omaha.

Of all the qualifying hopefuls, only a handful have established a reputation outside of their home districts, and casting about for a successor to Chapman must necessarily be confined to this group. The total field of 637 is the smallest since 1937 and almost a 50 per cent drop in the record 1118 who entered for the 1936 championship at Garden City, N. Y.

Schley Al Wears Down Marandan to Win Cumberland Race

Gradatim Runs Third In Feature

12,000 Fans See Program; Jockey Hernandez Rides $24.40 Winner

Special Dispatch to The Post

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 13.—With the largest crowd of the meeting, some 12,000, rooting in their best style, R. A. Bowman, jr.'s Schley Al wore Marandan down in the closing sixteenth to earn top money in the National Horseman's Guild Purse, fourth and feature event on the Cumberland Day card. Gradatim was up to earn the short end of the purse.

Pandoramint was first to show when the start came, but she was quickly joined by Marandan and Counora. Jockey Kelly, on Counora, was forced to take up when caught in close quarters in the run to the first turn. Marandan disposed of Pandoramint to take the lead between calls, but when Jockey Hernandez called on Schley Al he had too much speed for the favorite. Hernandez kept to his task and when they reached the wire, Schley Al had opened a length lead over his rival. Marandan held on well and was easily best of the others.

Slightly neglected by the crowd, Schley Al closed at 11 to 1 on the board and returned his backers a $24.40 mutuel. The time for the six and one half furlongs was 1:24, slightly off due to the condition of the track. The track had been called "good" by the chartman.

Scocca Scores

Danny Scocca, leading rider of the meeting, lost little time in reaching the winner's circle. Scocca was aboard Mathora in the opening race and he piloted the two-year-old daughter of Mate to the wire two lengths ahead of the favored Little Suzanne. Tacaro Lilly, after being bothered at the first turn, got up to earn the show.

Mathora, running in the colors of Mrs. R. Gilbert, covered the about 5-furlong course in 0:56 2-5 and returned her backers $8.10 for the usual $2 wager.

Willie Kelly, who with Scocca was the star of Tuesday's card, came back in the second race and scored a front running victory on I. Beaver's Microplay. Microplay covered the 6½ furlongs in 1:23 4-5 and downed Birthday Miss and Taradiddle for the main money. Microplay, the public choice, returned a $5.60 mutuel in her own right and completed a $20.40 daily double for those coupling her with Mathora.

Cumberland Race Chart

Wednesday, August 13, 1941—By Walter Haight.

WEATHER, CLEAR; TRACK, GOOD.

FIRST RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $500; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won handily; place driving. Went to post at 2:10. Off at 2:11. Winner, Mrs. R. Gilbert's ch. f. (2), by Mate—Athora Naylor. Trained by F. Waring. Value to winner, $325; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:56⅘.

Horses	Jockeys	Wgt.	Post	Start	¼	Stretch	Finish	Straight
MATHORA	(Scocca)	105	4	4	3¹	1¹	1¹	$3.60
LITTLE SUZANNE	(McDonald)	112	3	1	1²	2²	2²	3.05

CHIEF TEDDY	(W.Kelly)	111	1	2	4¹	4²	6¹	3.15
TIN CAN	(Acosta)	112	6	6	6¹	6	7¹²	6.65
ONE FLAG	(Parsons)	103	8	8	8	7²	8	30.30

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MATHORA, $8.10, $3.70, 3.10; LITTLE SUZANNE, $3.40, $3.20; TACARO LILLY, $7.30.

MATHORA moved to the front while running on the outside of LITTLE SUZANNE, drew out to a good lead and won rather easily. LITTLE SUZANNE was sent to the front early, held on willingly, but was no match for the winner. TACARO LILLY was sloughed at the first turn, was taken inside and closed full of run.

SECOND RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 2:41. Off at 2:42. Winner, I. Beavers' ch. m. (6), by Microphone—Keen Flay. Trained by D. Chamblin. Value to winner, $325; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:23⅘.

BECK'S BOY	(Pool)	115½	1	5	4¹	8	8	8	41.00

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MICROPLAY, $5.60, $4.10, $3.40; BIRTHDAY MISS, $40.10, $12.90; TARADIDDLE, $5.50.

MICROPLAY outpaced BIRTHDAY MISS in the opening quarter, drew out gradually and was an easy winner. BIRTHDAY MISS was closest to the winner throughout, but could not keep up. TARADIDDLE was bothered in the opening stages, came between horses and closed with a belated rush. CHAINWICK was within striking distance.

Daily Double—MATHORA and MICROPLAY Paid $20.40.

THIRD RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place driving. Went to post at 3:17. Off at 3:18. Winner, Mrs. R. Gilbert's b. m. (5), by Westwick—Divine. Trained by F. Warins. Value to winner, $325; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:24.

WHAT'S TO DO	(Grant)	109½	6	8	4¹	8	8	8	34.60

Two-dollar mutuels paid—THOA, $14.60, $4.70, $3.80; BALKANESE, $3.80, $2.90; HONEY MAID, 3.60.

THOA was sent up on the outside of HONEY MAID to take command, was well raied while racing in front and held on well. BALKANESE went to the inside on the backstretch and appeared the winner, but hung slightly in the final drive. HONEY MAID sprinted into an early lead, but gave way after a quarter. CREAM CHEESE went to the leaders in the first half and faltered thereafter.

FOURTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $600; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 3:54½. Off at 3:55½. Winner, R. A. Bowman, jr.'s br. c. (4), by Vanderpool—Show Boat. Trained by A. S. Bowman. Value to winner, $425; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:24.

COUNORA	(W.Kelly)	113	1	3	8	8	8	8	4.00

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SCHLEY AL, $24.40, $9.60, $4.40; MARANDAN, $5.00, $3.90; GRADATIM, $6.30.

SCHLEY AL improved his position steadily, moved up on the outside of the leader and won in going-away fashion. MARANDAN displaced PANDORAMINT early, opened a good lead, but could not resist the winner. GRADATIM moved into contention after breaking sluggishly, was hard ridden and was just up for the show. PANDORAMINT flashed in front and then weakened.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $500; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 4:31. Off at 4:33½. Winner, S. Jennings' ch. g. (6), by Flag Pole—Dunite. Trained by C. Reilly. Value to winner, $325; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:50.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—RHODIUM, $3.80, $3.20, $2.80; RIVER BROOM, $7.70, $5.40; EXPECTED BELLE, $10.40.

RHODIUM, allowed to settle into his best stride, went to the extreme outside to take command and was an easy winner. RIVER BROOM, off last, worked his way up between horses and was going good at the end. EXPECTED BELLE raced head and head with KENNER for three-quarters, held on gamely, but was all out at the finish.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $500; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 5:10. Off at 5:11½. Winner, K. C. Casto's b. g. (7), by Trojan—Starlight. Trained by T. Lewis. Value to winner, $325; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:51.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TROSTAR, $5.00, $3.30, $2.80; ROMNEY ROYAL, $8.30, $6.40; WILLIAM V., $7.50.

TROSTAR, outrun in the early stages, came around the leaders to take command and held on well in the final drive. ROMNEY ROYAL went to the front at once, fought it out willingly when challenged, but was no good enough. WILLIAM V. came from quarters and faltered thereafter.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place driving. Went to post at 5:48. Off at 5:46. Winner, J. L. Garthright's b. g. (6), by Longworth—Her Own. Trained by J. L. Garthright. Value to winner, $325; second, $100; third $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:50⅘.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WORTHOWNING, $9.40, $5.50, $3.20; ALLENCAID, $8.30, $4.20; YANKEE LAD, $2.70.

WORTHOWNING worked his way into contention between horses, went to the outside of the leader and drew out to win well in hand. ALLENCAID was far out of it for a half, responded to pressure and was running over horses at the end. YANKEE LAD moved up gradually in the opening half, took command, but weakened when headed. PACK SADDLE reached contention on the backstretch and tired.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $500; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place driving. Went to post at 6:19½. Off at 6:20½. Winner, N. S. Ryder's b. m. (6), by Mud—Lady Modish. Trained by T. Lewis. Value to winner, $325; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 2:10½.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DUCHESS DEL, $23.00, $6.40, $4.30; ALMAC, $4.20, 3.10; CURVES, $4.10.

DUCHESS DEL was sent to the front at once, was under a good grip while setting the pace and won with speed in reserve. ALMAC went to the leader after being in trouble early, but was not good enough. CURVES saved ground and closed willingly. DRESSMAKER closed on the rail with good courage. BYNUMS RUN tired.

Dear Al:

Apprentice Eddie Parsons, who I spoke of several days ago as having galloped Rosetown while in the employ of George D. Widener, accepted his first mount when he was astride One Flag in the opening race today. One Flag is owned by Mrs. Nancy Hannah, of Washington, and is trained by Miss Judy Johnson, who holds Parsons' contract. Sammy Palumbo, who was unable to accept mounts when he could not get down to a suitable weight, plans to resume riding today. Wagering for the first seven days of the meeting is $150,000 ahead of a similar period last year. J. Donald Hay, director of wagering here, states that he expects the betting at the Marlboro meeting to break all records for that plant. Trainer O. F. Kent, conditioner of Royal Business and others for Capt. Ewart Johnston, announced this morning that his charge would not start in the Harry A. Manley Handicap, due to her weight assignment. Royal Business, a double winner at this session, will be shipped to Marlboro at the conclusion of this meeting. Besides offering a watch to the leading flat rider and trainer, it was announced that there would also be an award to the leaders in the steeplechase ranks. Among the fans witnessing the day's program were Representative Katherine Edgar Byron and Dr. H. C. (Curly) Byrd, of University of Maryland. Mrs. Byron presented the trophy to the owner of the winner of the race named for her. After being off rather slowly in the jockey race, Willie Kelly seems to have taken a new lease on life. Kelly was aboard three winners Tuesday and came back to score with —one of his mounts yesterday. Danny Scocca, leader for the watch offered, the outstanding rider also scored with two of his mounts on Tuesday and then came back with one winner. Kelly was not in the gayest mood however for the stewards plastered a $50 fine on him for crossing the field too sharply on Microplay in the second race. Jockey Martin Bletzacker, one of the most improved riders on the smaller circuits, was handed the same fine for his ride on Dacotah in Tuesday's final race. It seems to be the consensus around the track that if Walter Haight trains as hard as the Redskins he may earn a spot on the club. One thing to his advantage is the weight.

CLOCKER MIKE.

First race—VALE DOVE seems to to be the 2-year-old champion of the smaller tracks so I see no reason to go against her here. CLIFTON'S DAWN was a winner here and will be a factor. BUSY TIME is a fair sort and must be given a chance if able to break in.

Second race—PUSHKIN'S last was nothing to shout about, but that winning effort at Bel Air was a corker. PETIT FOURS could be a threat but is again way down on the also-eligible list. NEW STEP has early speed and will be in front early.

Third race—FLAG ETTA is not at her best now but she is still capable of handling this field. Willie Kelly will do the booting and should make no mistakes. RED WINGS will have the outside post if able to start and she has always been partial to this position. HIGH BUD for the show.

Fourth race—GLITTER GIRL has finished behind Royal Business in her last two races and must be given the call here. DASHING DOE has a lit of class and should furnish the contention. BUTTERMAN is the speed merchant of the field and may forget to stop.

Fifth race—BLIND BROOK was second to Sky Hostess in his last appearance and off that race he appears to be the right one. GOOD BATTLE also has a second at this track to recommend and must be given a chance. FLYING FALCON is a jumper that has worked well.

Sixth race—SKY HOSTESS is a mighty tough mare when she is in a running mood. "Skeets" Holland will be in the saddle and she seems to run her best races for him. BLACK CRUSADE won like a champ here but beat cheaper than these. VESTALE could be dangerous.

Seventh race—DARK ACE is the speed horse in this affair and I see no reason for her not making it two in a row. SPEED SHIP closed with a burst of speed in that last and might take it all. COUNT ME is another that will be going well in the final quarter.

Eighth race—GOLD SWEEP was second in that last after winning five in a row. PETEE LAD was an impressive winner here. KAMARI is a speedy sort.

Best bet—Blind Brook.

D. C. Realty Bonds Soar During July

Washington real estate bonds, reflecting the increased demand for housing space, showed a sharp price advance during the past month.

Mayflower Hotel Co. first 5s of 1950 led the upturn with a leap of 17 points during July, based on a bid price of 125. Other realty bond increases here, according to the monthly report of Arnott, Baker & Co., included National Press Building first 3-5s of 1940, up 2 at 88; National Press Building 4½s of 1950, up 2 at 30, and Washington Properties, Inc., 7s of 1952, up ¾ at 68½.

All four Washington issues are included in the Arnott, Baker & Co. realty bond average of 200 issues which advanced 1.7 per cent during July and 7.8 per cent for the first seven months this year. The average price of a $1000 real estate bond now is $303 as compared to $281 on December 31, 1940, and $298 on May 31, 1940.

Commenting on current strength in realty bonds, Arnott, Baker & Co. said:

"Hotels lead in the advance with a percentage gain of 12.1 per cent (for seven months), helped largely by sharp advances in quotations for Washington's Mayflower and the Hotel Syracuse. Apartment hotels are up 11.3 per cent and office buildings are up 8.9 per cent thus far in 1941.

"Theaters have shown the least progress, advancing only 3.1 per cent."

Best & Co. Sales Up 9.7 Per Cent.

Best & Co., which operates a department store in Chevy Chase and ten other outlets elsewhere, yesterday reported net sales of $8,040,905 for the six months ended July 31. This compared with net sales of $7,324,867 for the same period, an increase of 9.7 per cent. Net profit was $447,946 after depreciation and taxes, as compared with $397,563 last year, an increase of 12.6 per cent. Net was equal to $1.48 a share, compared with $1.29 a share in the same six months last year.

Policies Pay $4,117,000

District of Columbia families received an aggregate of $4,117,000 in payment of 5,575 life insurance policies which became death claims during the first half of 1941, it was announced yesterday by the Institute of Life Insurance.

"The financial relief accorded to the widows, children and other beneficiaries of the owners of these policies which became death claims during this period averaged $686,000 per month in this District," Holgar J. Johnson, president of the Institute, stated in releasing the figures.

Of the payments made in the District $2,755,000 was paid out on ordinary policies, $676,000 on group policies, and $686,000 on industrial policies.

New Patent Bill To Guard Military Secrets Is Passed

Copyright by New York Times

The House yesterday completed Congressional action on a bill designed to guard national military secrets more closely by prohibiting filing of patent applications in foreign countries without a special license obtained from the United States Commissioner of patents.

The new prohibition also covers any application in a foreign country for the registration of a utility model, industrial design or model in respect of any invention made in the United States, except when authorized in each case by a license obtained from the commissioner of patents.

This legislation amends and strengthens the act of July 1, 1940, which authorizes the commissioner of patents to issue an order of secrecy covering the invention disclosed in any application for a United States patent and to withhold the grant of a patent whenever such disclosure or issuance of patent might be detrimental to the public safety or defense.

C & S. Units Plan $13,527,500 Issues

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—Joustin R. Whiting, president of Commonwealth and Southern Corporation, announced today two subsidiaries engaged in defense power production expansion planned the issuance of $13,527,500 of new bonds carrying not more than 3½ per cent interest to finance the new projects.

Proceeds of the sale of the new bonds, redeemable in 30 years, would be used to refund $12,866,000 of 5 per cent bonds and to repay proposed Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans.

The subsidiaries concerned are Mississippi Power Co., which plans a new 20,000-kilowatt generating station at Hattiesburg, Miss., and Gulf Power Co., which plans a station of equal power at Pensacola, Fla.

Adm. DuBose Heads Cramp Shipbuilding

Philadelphia, Aug 13 (AP).—Rear Admiral William G. DuBose, United States Navy, retired, was elected president of the Cramp Shipbuilding Co. today, to succeed James Reed, who died July 23.

Admiral Duose, 66, a native of Georgia, retired from the Navy October 1, 1940, to become chairman of the executive committee at the shipyard.

The Outlook

By James M. Wood, President of Stephens College

U. S. Colleges Declared Falling Down on Job Of Training Girls to Fill Their Role in Life

James Madison Wood, president of Stephens College, and pioneer in modernizing practical higher education for women, today acts as guest columnist for Merryle Stanley Rukeyser.

The time has come to revise our education of women in the light of "what they need to know after graduation."

Training women for their real life responsibilities has never been the accepted purpose. The earliest concept of female education was to groom girls to be "ladies" in the Victorian sense of the word. Female academies, as they were called, taught these fragile maidens to be helpless creatures, demure in manners, good in dancing and adept at chit-chat. They were trained to win husbands, but not instructed in how to hold them.

The reverse is the present concept of educating "emancipated" woman, which seems to mean turning out a career girl. Our colleges are either producing materialistic women for the business world, or just shallow pseudo-intellectuals who fancy themselves the last word in sophistication.

It is time American educators faced the blunt fact that most schools are not giving women the same practical lore we give to men. To be sure, women receive the same instruction as men. That is the trouble. We train boys for men's work, but we also train girls the same way.

We prepare boys for the vocations and professions in which they will seek a living. The related courses that are available all emphasize knowledge that will be of value to men in business. The accent on education today is almost universally masculine, and that is why some modern college girls have been labeled mannish in their outlook. College women are, for the most part studying subjects they will never put to practical use, while they are learning less about the things they should know—than if they had stayed home and never gone to college!

What does the average woman need to know? Primarily, she should know how to manage her home. That means everything, from keeping a budget to bringing up her children as good citizens. Managing a home is a business all in itself. Housewives spend more than two-thirds of all money expended for consumer goods. They buy 90 per cent of all food, 95 per cent of all furniture, 75 per cent of all clothing and even 63 per cent of men's ties.

More than 65 per cent of the 25 billion dollars of savings acounts in the Nation's banks are in women's names. They own 40 per cent of all real estate.

More than 45 per cent of stockholders of corporations are women, and they own at least 22 per cent of all stock shares.

They inherit half the money left in estates, and they are beneficiaries of 80 per cent of all life insurance policies. Each year they receive over a billion dollars from life insurance benefits.

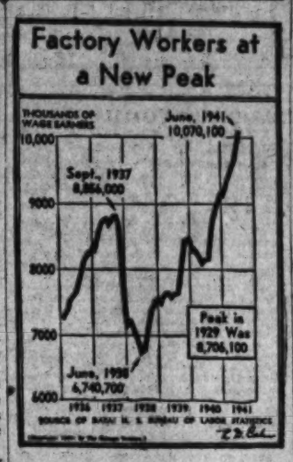
If, through her control of the money power, the American woman has such vital responsibilities, surely it is incumbent upon our schools to equip girls for the role they will play in real life.

At Stephens, we teach girls to buy food and study prices, to learn dressmaking along with color and design. They go out into Columbia, Mo., to learn at first-hand the problems of community welfare. In other words, we are preparing these young women for the responsibilities that will be pushed on them the minute they leave school and decide to get married.

No college should ever be ashamed of these subjects, or think them unworthy of inclusion in its curriculum. The training of our young women for life in a democracy is a challenge to America's educators, and it is about time all of us faced it squarely.

Newsprint Price Raised $1 a Ton in N. Y. Area

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—The Great Northern Paper Co. today announced an increase in the price of newsprint of $1 per ton for the last quarter of 1941, raising the price to $50 a ton for the New York area.



Kodak Earns $10,460,425 In Six Months

By the Associated Press

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Directors of Eastman Kodak Co. reported today that consolidated net profit for the first six of the firm's 13 periods in 1941 of $10,460,425, equal to $4.15 a share of common stock after deducting preferred dividends.

This amount, covering earnings of the parent company and its Western Hemisphere subsidiaries, compares with $9,179,170 for the corresponding 1940 periods, or $3.63 a common share.

Sales for the six periods were $73,525,058, an increase of $16,509,534 or 29 per cent over 1904's like periods. Profit before provisions for income taxes was $20,252,899, a 67 per cent increase over the same periods of last year.

The board made an aggregate provision of $9,792,474 to provide for present and natipicated taxes, as cmpared with $2,913,104 for the same 1940 period.

Government contracts for special military equipment such as height finders, aiming circles, telescopes, and time fuses total approximately $44,000,000, the report showed.

Average Bond Price Increases to $95.04

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—The New York Stock Exchange announced today 1271 bond issues were listed in the month ended July 31 with a par value of $56,041,115,610 and a market value of $53,259,696,637, compared with 1278 having a par value of $56,159,155,232 and a market value of $53,237,234,699 in the previous period ended June 30.

The bonds traded last month brought an average price of $95.04 compared with $94.80 the month before.

Record Carryover Of Wheat in Canada

Ottawa, Aug. 13 (Canadian Press). Total carryover of Canadian wheat at the end of the crop year July 31 was reported by the Dominion bureau of statistics today at 480,083,691 bushels—"by far the largest amount of Canadian wheat ever carried over from one crop year to another."

Total stocks of oats, barley, rye and flaxseed, with 1940 figures in brackets: Oats, 41,713,303 (46,931,028); barley, 10,674,811 (12,653,875); rye 4,911,710 (5,351,661); flaxseed, 620,313 (583,307) bushels.

Auto Output In August May Surpass 1940

By David J. Wilkie
Associated Press Automotive Editor

Detroit, Aug. 13.—Public demand for 1942 model automobiles still is a somewhat uncertain factor in the motor car industry's plans as a limited number of car makers start their new models down the assembly lines.

Because Ford has continued to make 1941 models and there has been comparatively little reduction in truck output, the August volume of assemblies may aggregate considerably more than the approximately 89,800 that were turned out by the United States and Canadian factories in the same month of 1940.

Worse Cut Seen in 1943

Most of the sales chiefs concede that the more than 4,350,000 passenger cars purchased in the United States during the 1941 model year provided for the normal market of that period and borrowed some from the year ahead. They are not agreed as to the approximate amount of the borrowing, and many of them maintain that considerable stimulus to new car demand properly may be looked for as a result of uncertainty regarding the degree of production curtailment. They point out also that all the curtailment discussions thus far seemingly have centered only around the 1942 model year; it is more than likely, they explain, that the 1943 model year may be even harder hit than the current period.

That is the view of authorities convinced that a heavy demand for new cars may be maintained through the 1942 model period. Other sources assert the rate of retail buying in the final months of the 1941 model year was so abnormally swollen that it was bound to exhaust itself shortly. These quarters, supporting the theory that a natural shrinkage in demand is to be expected in the months ahead point out that most of the vehicles purchased in last year's near-record market must be paid for out of earnings in the coming year.

Plymouth Dealers Meet

Plymouth division of Chrysler Corporation held dealers' meetings in Detroit and other large centers today. Because the car industry has taken on the defense task as its No. 1 job, the meetings were devoted largely to reviews of the Plymouth part in the armament production undertaking. The 1942 model motor cars were shown and described privately, with emphasis on the fact that there will not be as many passenger vehicles available during the new model year.

Plymouth is working on an order for a heavy volume of 40-millimeter rapid-fire antiaircraft cannon as well as bomber plane parts.

Along with all the other problems incident to the uncertainty about production volume and consumer demand, the industry has yet another hurdle ahead—selling the fact that the 1942 models are better than last year's vehicles. The manufacturers admit that some dealers expanded their 1941 model sales by trading on apprehension concerning the new models.

Some of the producers who used aluminum pistons last year have replaced them with cast iron. They have utilized stainless steels and certain other materials to retain the bright trim that featured 1941 cars.

Insofar as the car makers now have advanced, however, they have had to make no changes that in any way affect the sturdiness of the new models and they have been able to add much in the way of roominess, eye-appeal and riding comfort. A wider adaptation of the automatic transmission also will be a noteworthy feature of the 1942 vehicles.

Week's Power Output Shows Minor Drop

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—Electric power production declined nine-tenths of 1 per cent to 3,196,009,000 kilowatt hours in the week ended August 9, from 3,226,141,000 in the preceding week, the Edison Electric Institue announced today. The output, however, was 16.5 per cent above 2,743,284,000 in the like week last year.

It was the first time in five weeks that production showed a week to week decline.

Fred A. Smith Named Head of Building Ass'n

Fred A. Smith, prominent Washington real estate man and president of the Washington Board of Trade has been elected president of the Columbia Permanent Building Association, it was announced yesterday.

F. A. SMITH

Mr. Smith succeeds the late Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen who headed the association from the time it was organized in 1903 until his death last month.

Mr. Smith has been a director and secretary of the association since 1927, and active in its work since 1914. Another director, C. Clinton James, was elected vice president of the association.

Edward A. Dent, assessor for the District of Columbia, was named a director, as was Richard A. Norris, vice president of the Lincoln National Bank.

Mr. Smith, the new president, is widely known in local business and financial circles. He is vice president of the Lincoln National Bank, and executive vice president of Floyd E. Davis Co. He formerly was president of the Washington Real Estate Board and has served in various executive capacities with the Board of Trade.

Sharp Gain in Assets

Interstate Building Association, nine years old this year, yesterday reported record resources of four million dollars, a gain of more than $1,200,000 during the past year. Secretary Edward E. Jones said that the bulk of the gain was experienced since the association joined the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corporation and Federal Home Loan Bank System in 1929. Officers include John L. Weaver, president; Clarence Dodge, vice president; Earl M. Mackintosh, vice president; Martin R. West, treasurer, and Lawton E. Inabinet, assistant secretary.

Earnings Reports

International Nickel Co. of Canada, Ltd., and subsidiaries reported net profit of $17,315,607, equal to $1.12 a common share, for the first half of 1941, compared with $18,060,293, or $1.17 a share, in the first half of 1940.

The company's report showed provision for income and franchise taxes in the 1941 period of $15,189,325, equal to $1.04 a share, compared with $9,246,823, or 63 cents a share, in the 1940 period.

Profits for the June quarter this year were only slightly under 1940 figures. The 1941 quarter's net was $8,075,898, equal to 52 cents a share, compared with $8,240,179, or 53 cents a share, in the 1940 period.

Philco Corporation reported net income for the first half of 1941 of $919,108, or 67 cents a common share, compared with $519,394, or 38 cents a share, in the like 1940 period.

Greyhound Corporation reported net profit for the first half of 1941 of $2,708,965, or 95 cents a common share, compared with $1,203,133, or 41 cents a share, in the like 1940 period.

International Paper & Power Co. and subsidiaries reported net income for the June quarter of $3,214,688, equal after preferred dividend requirements to $1.10 a common share, compared with an adjusted net income of $3,938,859 or $1.47 a common share in the corresponding period of 1940.

Provision for taxes, including those under proposed laws, was $5,999,512 in the 1941 period against $4,616,240 in the 1940 quarter.

Net earnings for the first half of 1941 were $6,761,511, equal to $2.55 a common share, compared with 1940 first-half earnings of $6,899,433 or $2.74 a common share. Provision for taxes in the 1941 period were $9,075,052 compared with $5,259,885 in the 1940 half.

Time, Inc., magazine publisher, reported net profit of $2,194,028 after taxes and charges for the first six months of 1941, equal to $9.29 a common share. This compared with net profit of $1,848,279 or $7.84 a common share in the like 1940 period.

Subsidized Food Exports Likely

Copyright by New York Times

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard said at a press conference yesterday that the United States might have to subsidize the export of food to Europe after the war to create a world safe for Americans to live in.

As one way of dealing with the present corn surplus, the Secretary announced that the Commodity Credit Corporation had offered to make 20 millions bushels of corn available to the War Department—not to feed Army mules, but to make alcohol for use in munition manufacture. Twenty million bushels of corn will produce about 50 million gallons of alcohol. This is approximately the amount that can be extracted from 125 million gallons of molasses, which is now imported from Cuba for that purpose and requires 100 tanker voyages to bring it here.

Express Shipments By Air Set New High

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—The Nation's airlines carried more express in the first half of 1941 than in any other six-month period in history, the air express division of Railway Express Agency announced today.

Shipments totaled 618,989, up 28 per cent from the first half of 1940 and poundage jumped 47 per cent to 4,620,077—a total of 1310 tons.

Stocks Shuffle Aimlessly in Torpid Trade; Anxiety Continues Over Federal Controls

New York, Aug. 13.—Forces that make for price changes in stocks were so evenly balanced today the market was forced to prolong its stalemate despite a somewhat better performance by a fair number of the leaders.

After more aimless shuffling in the early proceedings buying picked up a little in selected rails, steels, coppers, heavy industry and merchandising shares. These tacked on fractional gains as motors, oils and aircrafts remained stationary or gave ground. Near the close another shift rubbed out most of the plus signs in the carrier and copper divisions.

Indicating the market's cramped position, all the Associated Press stock averages ended unchanged. The 60-stock composite held at 43.0. Dealings were among the slowest of recent months, totaling 420,700 shares against Tuesday's 427,300.

It was the fourteenth consecutive session in which the list on average finished either unchanged or lower.

What bidding appeared was associated mostly with speculative ideas the market might be shaping toward a technical rally.

The outside news as interpreted in the boardrooms was scarcely of a sort to encourage large commitments. Anxieties continued over foreign events, the extension of Federal controls in the business realm and taxation probabilities.

A highlight was a further modest rise in United States Steel in the face of persistent heaviness in Bethlehem. Wall Street reports said some investment services had been recommending a switch from big steel to Bethlehem on the theory the spread in prices in favor of the latter was not justified by the relative showings of the two companies' reports for the six months ended June 30.

Issues closing higher included Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Union Carbide, Air Reduction, Westinghouse and U. S. Gypsum. In arrears were Standard Oil (N. J.), Pennsylvania, American Telephone and General Motors.

Higher in an uneven Curb were American Cyanamid, Glen Alden Coal and Sherwin Williams. On the offside were Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Pennroad. Transfers here were around 62,000 shares against 79,000 the previous day.

A group of foreign dollar issues and a few domestic specialties moved up fractions to 2 points in today's bond market but the main list hovered in a narrow range with the trend mixed.

Four groups in the Associated Press average remained stationary. They were the rails, industrials, foreigns and low-yields. The utilities slipped .2 of a point. Turnover of $6,373,350, par value, compared with $5,459,300 on Tuesday.

Notwithstanding the indifferent performance of the list as a whole, observers noted many signs of stability, especially that virtually all of the issues that changed hands in worthwhile volume ended on the plus side. These included Alleghany stamped 5s, at 63¾; St. Paul 5s, at 11¾; Rock Island general 4s, at 23⅛; Erie first 4s, at 91⅞; Missouri Pacific 5s, at 27¾, and Commercial Mackay income 4s, at 54½.

Among foreign issues showing the widest improvement were Denmark 4½s, at 57; Brisbane 5s, at 70; Czecho-Slovakia 8s, at 12¾; Norway 4½s, at 34⅜, and Mexican 4s of '54, at 6. Taiwin Electric Power 5½s lost 6 points, at 30½, and Finland 6s dropped 4, to 51.

United States Givernments continued on the offering side of the market, but losses on the stock exchange were generally small and support appeared in late trading for several long term Treasuries in over the counter dealings.

Rubber Ample For SixMonths, Says Litchfield

By the Associated Press

Akron, Ohio, Aug. 13.—P. W. Litchfield, chairman of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., in an informal report to employes and stockholders today, said, "There is no actual rubber shortage today."

Litchfield listed a variety of achievements by his company's research and production staffs and added they were making "a number of other items used in modern warfare, the details of which we are not permitted to discuss."

In his comment on rubber, he estimated that at least a six-month normal supply was on hand and that imports exceeded current needs.

The rubber firm executive said that while tire production during the next six months probably would be at a reduced rate, it likely would be as large as the comparable period of 1940.

Among defense products of the rubber company, Litchfield said, was a plastic which "may be used in certain ways to replace aluminum." He termed the increased production of synthetics, including rubber, one of the most important developments the industry has ever known.

Goodyear has gone in heavily for defense work, the report indicated. Through subsidiaries, Litchfield said, it would operate a powder-bagging plant and is fabricating metal parts for airplanes. Among other defense products he listed were nonrigid airships (blimps) for coast patrol work, life rafts, self-sealing gasoline tanks, combat tires, barrage balloons and an airplane motor suspension.

U. S. Rubber Officials Lose Motion in Suit

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—Supreme Court Justice Benvenga today denied a motion by defendants to dismiss two causes of action in a minority stockholders' suit brought by Arthur Diamond against officers and directors of United States Rubber Co.

The two causes of action related to the recovery of $200,000 alleged excessive salary payments in 1936 and 1937 to William De Kraft, vice president, and to recover alleged losses through allowances and special commissions to customers of the United States Tire Dealers Corporation, a subsidiary.

Offering is Made Of Sohio Stock

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—Public offering was made today of 186,667 shares of common stock of the Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) at $44.875 a share by a banking group headed by F. S. Moseley & Co.

The stock represented holdings of Ajax Pipe Line Corporation which will apply the proceeds to redemption of its outstanding $7 preferred stock and $7 second preferred, or to payments of dividend arrears thereon to the extent of the funds received from the sale.

Based on its present holdings of Ajax Pipe Lines, Standard Oil Co. would receive $1,500,000 of the proceeds from the sale, either by redemption or payment of preferred arrears.

Luxury Buying Spree Started, Survey Shows; Gem Sales Spurt

A luxury buying spree is getting under way, with the average worker family's surplus over living costs nearly doubled in the past 12 months, and defense priorities threatening many socalled nonessentials. The American public is surging forward to buy more jewelry, furs, pianos, luggage and recreational items such as sporting goods, according to a study of current surplus income expenditures by Northwestern National Life Insurance Co.

Although defense priorities already loom over automobiles, electric household appliances and many other lines, and Army demands effect available supplies for civilian clothing and other industries, the survey as yet finds little or no evidence of excessive stocking up by consumers so far this year; instead "the rising tide of buying only partially reflects the phenomenal expansion in the average worker's surplus spending power."

240 Stores Surveyed

The survey, based on sales of 240 United States department stores distributed from coast to coast, shows sales of jewelry to be running 31½ per cent higher in the second quarter of 1941 than in the corresponding period of 1940, closely followed by electric household appliances with an increase of slightly over 31 per cent, and by furs with an increase of 29.5 per cent. Luggage, household furniture and sporting goods are close behind with substantial increases in sales volume. The sale of pianos and musical instruments, up approximately 20 per cent for the first six months of 1941, showed a June increase of 35 per cent over June, 1940.

In general, stocks in the stores covered by the survey were definitely running behind the increase in consumer buying except in the case of electric household appliances; in this line, stocking up by dealers is obviously justified in view of threatened shortages, the report says.

The insurance company's current study of family buying power, based on changes in employment, wage rates and retail prices, shows that the average urban worker's family has enjoyed an increase of 79 per cent in its surplus buying power above its necessities in the past 12 months. As this is substantially greater than the prevailing percentage increases in sales of the principle luxury and semi-luxury lines, the study concludes that the present upsurge in buying has only partially expressed the real gain in surplus cash to be found in the average American pocketbook, and that buying power is available for a far bigger buying "splurge" than has yet occurred.

The survey reported comparative sales of 240 department stores as follows:

Per Cent Change, 1941 From 1940	First Quarter	Second Quarter	6 Mos. First

Cotton, Wheat Surge Higher; Buying Heavy

By the Associated Press

Cotton and grain futures moved sharply upward yesterday in the commodities market, riding the crest of a buying wave that started from speculative belief that Congress would approve freezing Government held stocks of those crops and ignored the possible reef of a Presidential veto.

Cotton gained $2.55 to $2.80 a bale, making its best advance late in the session. The upsurge sent most deliveries above the parity level of 16.49 cents a pound. Cottonseed oil futures also rose, adding .11 to .15 cent a pound to values.

At Chicago, wheat closed 1⅞ to 2¼ cents a bushel higher, close to the four-year peaks of last Thursday. A report Britain might take a big order under the Lease-Lend bill helped boost values. Corn gained ⅞ to 1 cent a bushel.

Sugar futures, their boom of recent sesions cut short by a price ceiling of 3.5 cents a pound on raw sugar, dropped sharply early in the day but regained some of the loss. World futures closed more than 1-10 of a cent a pound lower and domestic contracts were off a shade.

Increased consumption figures put wool tops futures up .4 of a cent a pound.

The Associated Press Index of 35 cash commodities ended its decline of the past few days with a rise to 90.51 per cent of the 1926 average from 90.11 the day before.

MAKING AMERICA STRONG
HOW INDUSTRY HAS CONVERTED ITS FACILITIES TO DEFENSE....
THE SAME MACHINES THAT FORMERLY MADE ELECTRIC MOTORS FOR STREET CARS AND LOCOMOTIVES....
NOW
LOCOMOTIVE
NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF MANUFACTURERS

This is one of a series to inform of the progress being made by American industry in providing the weapons for national defense.

The latest 75-millimeter pack howitzers for the United States Army are being produced at one defense plant on machines previously used for making electric motors for street cars and locomotives.

Originally designed for mule transport, howitzers of this type, above illustrated, are now towed on pneumatic tires by motorized troops. Some batteries have been carried by airplanes in maneuvers. The weapon hurls a 15-pound shell more than five miles.

The fact that the howitzer is only 47 inches long permitted boring operations to be performed on turret lathes already in the plant and, with some changes, other tools on hand were adapted for the work. Special rifling equipment had to be installed. Assembly line production has been under way for some months. Men who formerly built motors now are making these howitzers.

Maximum portability, striking power for its weight and complete interchangeability of parts are features of the pack howitzer. It can be quickly disassembled into parts small enough to be moved on mules and reassembled with the interchangeable parts. The heaviest part is the gun tube, which, with its muzzle and breech hoops, weighs only 221 pounds. A feature of the howitzer is its ability to drop its projectiles accurately behind hills, buildings or other obstructions.

All through production, from the time the carbon steel forging for the tube is received roughbored and turned, constant inspections are in order. Parts must be made to exact measurements as the howitzers must be assembled in the field with few or no tools. Parts must have definite fits and enormous stresses must be withstood in firing.

Costello Post Nine Defeats Lynchburg

By the Associated Press

Albemarle, N. C., Aug. 13.—The Junior Legion baseball team representing the Vincent B. Costello Post in Washington, D. C., defeated the Lynchburg, Va., Juniors, 12 to 4, today in the opening game of the ninth regional playoff series sponsored by the American Legion.

Carroll, Washington hurler, held Lynchburg to two hits, while his mates were slamming a dozen off two Lynchburg moundsmen, Fortune and Roberts. The Virginia pitchers walked 11 men.

Washington went into the ninth with an eight-run lead, then added two more on two errors and two hits. Lynchburg gathered two runs in the ninth when Carroll weakened, counting on a bobble and four walks.

Devil Diver Wins Saratoga Sanford Stakes

By the Associated Press

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 13. Mrs. Payne Whitney's Devil Diver, a colt that came to the turf wars highly touted but failed to live up to his advance notices for several races, today showed the class expected of him by stable connections when he won the twenty-ninth Sanford Stakes from a field of smart juveniles. The St. Germans youngster, bred by his owner, held on to a narrow advantage all the way and took the $5375 first money by a half length in a blanket finish.

It was in the Sanford, 22 years ago, that Man o' War lost a nose decision to Upset for the single setback of his great career.

Walter Chrysler, jr.'s Ramillies, recently beaten two lengths by Devil Diver, again was runner-up to the Greentree flyer.. R. Sterling Clark's Colchis was third, and Warren Wright's Wishbone, an entry with Some Chance, fourth, all winding up half-lengths apart. American Wolf, a recent flashy winner, finished sixth n the role of favorite. He broke last, rushed into contention, then flattened out. Devil Diver was an $8.60 second choice and ran the 6 furlongs in 1:12 4-5.

Boxing Card Complete for August 27

Promoter Joe Turner has lined up 67 rounds of fighting for his all-star boxing show in Griffith Stadium, Wednesday night, August 27.

Topping the card in a 25-round bout will be Bill Poland, Jack Kearns' new heavyweight hope, who will meet Eddie Blunt, rugged North Carolina Negro, conqueror of Buddy Baer, Abe Simon and Tony Musto.

Phil Furr, the District's perennial welterweight king, will engage El Franklin, local Negro, in a return match, scheduled for 12 rounds. In their first meeting, Franklin outpointed Phil in eight rounds.

In ten-round fights, Pat Comiskey, former white hope, meets Claudio Villar, South American knockout artist; and Lee Savold, of Des Moines, Iowa, meets Buddy Scott, transplanted Oklahoman. Scott knocked out Tommy Gomez recently at Tampa.

Kearns' giant heavyweight, Ben Morez, is scheduled to go six rounds with Jabo Kenner, undefeated local Negro. Morez weighs 300 pounds and stands 6 feet 7 inches.

3 Teams Finish In Bowling Tie

The Navy Mixed League at Penn Recreation finished its summer schedule with three teams tied for top position with 28 wins against 17 losses—Aero Aces, Barnacles and Ordnance No. 5—but the former had the larger pinfall and won the championship. A league tournament will be held next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at Penn, with the entrance fee set at $1.

Mary Fox continues as president of the Ladies' Independent League, with both Kay Burns and Annabelle Totten being reelected for the offices of secretary-scorer and treasurer, respectively. The loop this year will probably have 18 teams, an increase of two quintets over last season, and will bowl at Arcadia on Friday nights.

Snead Paces Golfers In Drill at Rochester

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 13 (AP).—Slammin' Sammy Snead showed how it's done as the vanguard of nearly 150 golfers engaged in practice rounds today for the Rochester Times-Union $5000 Open which starts at Oak Hill's east course here Friday.

Snead's 67 made him the first golfer in the field to better par in a warm-up round.

Laundry League Opens

The Laundrymen's Bowling League is holding its first meeting of the season tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock at the Fort Davis Alleys. Applications for franchises may be made by phoning Atlantic 1765-W.

Track's Late Nags Not Nasty—Just Need Vitamins

By International News Service

Indianapolis, Aug. 13.—Dr. Cassius Way, specialist in race horse diseases and veterinarian of the New York horse show for 20 years, explained today why that nag carrying your $2 on his nose might have folded in the stretch.

Maybe it was because he hadn't had his vitamins, said Dr. Way.

Lack of essential vitamins, the expert told the American Veterinary Medical Association, is responsible for extreme nervousness, irritation of the peripheral nerve endings, loss of appetite, muscular paralysis and muscular fatigue on the part of the thoroughbred. And how could a horse win with all that the matter with him?

Nats, Yanks Split; Archie's Homer Helps

non opened the ninth with a single to center and then it was that Archie got hot. He rapped a line drive into left field and it hopped into the field boxes for a ground-rules two-bagger that moved Vernon to third. In this crisis, Early got the tying run home by grounding out to Gordon. Archie moved to third, and with one out, it seemed the Nats might take the lead, but Pinch-hitter Sammy West took a third strike, instead, and Hudson also fanned.

Travis' third hit put the winning runs in motion in the eleventh. He beat out a single to Strum. Vernon sacrificed him to second, and along came Archie with his home run belt off Bonham's first pitch. It was a beaut. It narrowly missed the distant third deck in left field.

Hudson knew what to do with his lead. He didn't let the Yanks get to first base in the eleventh.

Vernon Homers

The only reason the Nats weren't shut out by Breuer in the second game was because Mickey Vernon banged his eighth homer of the season in the sixth inning. The bases were empty when the ball traveled far over Henrich's head into the right-field seats.

In the first inning the Nats made two of their five hits. Cramer singled to right with one out, and Travis doubled to right with two out, but Vernon abandoned them both by striking out. The only other Washington hits were Vernon's homer in the sixth and futile singles by Chase and Case with two out in the seventh.

The Yanks actually won the ball game in the second inning when they made two runs on two cheap hits. DiMaggio walked to start the inning and, after Gordon struck out, Rosar bounced a ball off Chase's thigh and it eventuated as a two-bagger when it caromed just out of Travis' reach. Chase struck out Keller and purposely passed Rizzuto. Breuer then dumped a high bounder in front of the plate and it sort of refused to come out of the air until both DiMaggio and Rosar scored. The ball finally descended behind second base.

Cheap Hit for DiMag

The Yanks came up with another run in the third inning off Chase after Rolfe beat out an infield hit. With one out, DiMaggio scored him from second on a ground ball that took a freak hop high over Travis' head as he was set for the catch.

After Chase retired in the eighth and Masterson got the pitching job, the Yanks really went townward. Gordon walked, Rosar singled and the bases were filled with none out when Masterson walked Keller. That brought Anderson on the scene. It wasn't his fault that two runs scored. Rizzuto lofted a fly to Lewis, whose throw to the plate took a high bound over Early's head, and Gordon and Rosar both galloped home. The Yanks were lucky, no kidding.

Huge Wheat Surplus Stored In Montgomery

Montgomery County (Md.) wheat growers have had to find storage for most of their recently harvested bumper crop on their own farms because the five commercial grain elevators in the county are already bulging with surpluses from the two previous years, it was revealed yesterday.

County Agent O. W. Anderson estimated about 250,000 bushels are now in storage in the five elevators and that a like amount is still unthreshed and stored in hay-barracks or barns. This year's yield, Anderson said, was about 25 bushels an acre, as compared with the normal average of about 19 bushels. About 24,000 acres of wheat were harvested this summer, he added.

Rummage Sale To Benefit British

A rummage sale for the benefit of the Montgomery County branch of Bundles for Britain, Inc., will be held Saturday at 8400 Georgia Avenue, Silver Spring, from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m.

Mrs. J. Russell McQueen, chairman of the Silver Spring committee, announced that a new ruling from headquarters in New York prohibits shipping of any evening apparel or impractical garments to England. The group has an oversupply of attractive clothing, hence the sale, she explained. Mrs. S. J. Bloomer has charge of the event.

The Silver Spring headquarters now in an office on Georgia Avenue and the District line will be moved to the Montgomery Liquor Dispensary Building on Colesville Road September 1, Mrs. McQueen announced.

List of Scholarship Winners Announced

The Montgomery County Board of Education yesterday announced the winners of scholarships to Western Maryland College, subject to approval of State Senator Robert Peter.

On the basis of competitive examinations the winning candidates were Roderick P. Naef, of 92 Wayne Avenue, Silver Spring, graduate of Montgomery Blair High School, '39, and Clio Adele Tenny, Garrett Park, graduate of Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, '41.

The board of education announced the scholarship to Saint Mary's Seminary had been awarded to Anna S. Karge, Rockville, 1941 graduate of Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School.

Gas Price Cut Won't Benefit Consumers

The Federal Power Commission announced yesterday it had authorized a reduction inthe price of gas sold by the Washington Gas Light Co. to the Washington Gas Light Co. of Montgomery County, Md., a subsidiary. The cut was from 45.1 to 43 cents per 1000 cubic feet, effective July 10. It will not affect rates to consumers, company officials said.

Mt. Rainier Rites Set Saturday For Mrs. Plumer

Funeral services for Mrs. L. M. Plumer, who died Tuesday night at her home, 3534 Thirty-fourth Street, Mount Rainier, Md., will be held Saturday at 9 a. m. in St. James Catholic Church, Mount Rainier. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery on the Bladensburg Road.

A ceremony at the home will precede the church service.

Mrs. Plumer, mother of Police Chief Eugene Plumer, of Mount Rainier, had been a resident of the community for 39 years. Her husband, a circulation agent for a Washington newspaper, died a number of years ago. She was a member of St. James Church, the Mothers' Club and the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion.

Beside Mr. Plumer, she leaves six children, Mrs. Margaret Young, of Hyattsville; Mrs. Julia White, Mrs. Frances Mutchler and Mrs. Elizabeth Hooe, of Mount Ranier; Edward T. Plumer, a lieutenant in the Mount Rainier Fire Department, and Joseph A. Plumer, in addition to 19 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Maj. Neill Dies After Operation; Rites Tomorrow

Maj. John Baldwin Neill, jr., 44, of the Marine Corps Reserves, died yesterday at the Naval Hospital here following an appendectomy.

NEILL

Maj. Neill served in France as a captain in the Thirteenth Regiment under Col. Smedley Butler during the World War.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Jean Harris Neill, and two children, Jean Elizabeth and John B. Neill 3d, of 3536 S Street Northwest; his mother, Mrs. John B. Neill, of Berryville, Va.; two brothers, William M., of Scarsdale, N. Y., and Lewis, of Los Angeles. He was a grandson of the late Capt. William N. McDonald and the late Dr. S. S. Neill, of Berryville.

Funeral services will be held at the Fort Myer chapel at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow, followed by interment in Arlington Cemetery with military honors.

At the time of his death Maj. Neill was serving in the Aeronautics Division of the Navy Department here. He received the Victory Medal for his service in France and after the World War was assigned to the American Legation in Peking, China. In 1927 he was a Naval observer at Managua, Nicaragua.

Liquor Sellers Here Warned About Credit

A blanket warning to local retail and wholesale liquor dealers that they must comply with regulations governing credit extension in all purchases was issued yesterday by Thomas E. Lodge, chairman of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board.

Lodge said that reports to his office showed that certain dealers had contracted for "more than they could pay."

In a communication to all types of dealers, Lodge cited ABC rules requiring all license holders to pay up accounts on the 15th day of each month following purchase.

He said that some dealers had incurred large bills from one concern and had then gone to another and made purchases which put them further in debt.

"From information we have received," Lodge reported, "it has been found that certain dealers have gone into debt beyond three times the value of their business."

He added that when payments are not made "in full" on the fifteenth day of each succeeding month of purchase, "all deliveries must be C. O. D."

This, he said, would apply to every type of local dealer.

"And," Lodge declared, "I hope it will eliminate this business of one dealer running up a bill and then going to a different concern and making additional purchases on credit."

Two Notaries Named

Betty L. Grubb and Ralph Benson have been appointed by Gov. O'Conor as notaries public for Montgomery County for the remainder of two-year terms beginning the first Monday in May. Their commissions have been received by Clayton J. Watkins, clerk of the Circuit Court at Rockville.

Hotels Refuse To Cancel D. C. Conventions

Leon Henderson, OPACS administrator, drew a polite rebuff yesterday from the Washington Hotel Association, when it said "no" to his request to cancel those conventions which can be canceled without "grave inconvenience."

Every effort is being made, however, Henderson was assured by Executive Secretary Arthur Harnett, to give defense activities right of way, as far as hotel accomodations are concerned.

Harnett, in a letter to the OPACS head, explained that the association is cooperating with the Greater National Committee of the Board of Trade to perfect a clearing house to expedite housing of people coming here on defense business.

On August 1 Henderson expressed concern over what he termed a shortage of hotel space in the District and said conventions are "bound to interfere with the effective functioning of important Government business activities during the emergency."

'Not Necessary,' He Says

He requested not only that "absolutely no additional conventions be scheduled for the ensuing year" but that those already booked should be canceled "where this can be done without grave inconvenience."

Harnett's reply, made public yesterday, states that such drastic action is not considered necessary.

"Every convention must be regarded as an individual case with a contractual relationship existing the moment that a particular hotel is selected as headquarters," said the hotelmen's spokesman. "Many of the conventions which are scheduled for Washington have a direct bearing upon the development of the Nation's defense program.

"Many delegates attending conventions in Washington have business with Government agencies to be transacted at the same ime. Many conventions held in Washington are inspired and sponsored by governmental agencies.

"Certainly, all delegates attending the city at this time carry back to their own neighbors an interest in the defense program which is being administered in the Nation's Capital. Patriotic organizations should not be discouraged from holding their meetings at the seat of Government."

Reminded of Favors

Save for the annual spring rush, local hotels have met all demands in the past year and there is no reason to believe they will be unable to do the same in the ensuing year, said Harnett.

"We are convinced," he wrote Henderson, "that arrangements can be worked out whereby ample accommodations will be available for those who must come to Washington on defense business and also for those coming here as convention delegates."

He reminded the Federal official that Washington hotels generally have adopted a policy of offering public assembly rooms to Government conferences without charge.

Utility Hearing Put Off to Wednesday

Th formal public hearing scheduled for Monday on rates of the Washington Gas Light Co., has been postponed until Wednesday, August 20, the District Public Utilities Commission announced last night.

The hearing was postponed at the request of the company, it was explained.

Bouic, G. Peter And V. Peter To Back Party

In a surprise announcement last night, Montgomery County Chairman Thomas E. Hampton said that three stalwarts of the anti-organization of the county, Albert M. Bouic, George Peter and Vinson Peter, had agreed to join forces with the Caucus Committee of the Montgomery County Democratic Organization.

Bouic was quoted as having said that the county organization was giving the people of the county the best government possible.

Following the announcement, the caucus committee immediately endorsed the "pact" and recommended that George Peter be appointed to the existing vacancy in the treasurer's office. Peter was praised highly by Lieut. Col. E. Brooke Lee, B. Peyton Whelan, S. M. Hamilton, and other speakers.

The caucus committee also adopted a resolution urging the board of election supervisors to resubdivide the voting precincts in the heavily populated suburban areas. The suggestion was made that 800 voters be the maximum in each new precinct.

Reorganization of precinct Democratic clubs also was proposed. Heretofore, the clubs have been organized by districts. The committee then voted two resolutions of condolence for Charles S. Brooks, of Chevy Chase, and Carter Clagett, of Rockville.

Announcement of a recent civil service ruling was made, informing the group that civil service workers who have come from another State can vote here and still be "charged" to their home State.

Two special committees were then set up to be in charge of the registration of new voters in the two suburban districts of the county. They are as follows—western district: Dr. Benjamin C. Perry and Commissioner Thomas E. Hampton, Bethesda; Joseph A. Cantrell and J. Curtis Walker, Chevy Chase; Royal H. Carlock, Glen Echo-Cabin John-Brookmont, and Albert H. Walker, Massachusetts Avenue extended.

In the eastern district the committee members are: F. Byrne Austin and Joseph B. Simpson, jr., Takoma Park; Julius P. Stadler and E. Brooke Lee, Silver Spring; Richard F. Green, Kensington, and Lacy Shaw, Colesville.

J. S. Blackton Dies After Auto Crash; Movie Producer

Hollywood, Aug. 13 (AP).—J. Stuart Blackton, 63, pioneer movie producer and associate of Thomas A. Edison, died tonight of injuries received in an automobile accident Saturday.

Blackton came to this country from England in his youth, joined Edison in 1896 and participated in early experiments with the vitascope. In 1900, he incorporated Vitagraph and set up the first movie studio on the roof of the Morse Building on Nassau Street in New York.

From 1900 until 1926, when he sold vitagraph to Warner Bros. for a reported $2,000,000, he was an outstanding figure in the industry, bringing many stars to the screen from the stage. In recent years, he had been connected with Independent Productions.

Arlington Rites Held for Col. Jones

Funeral services were held at Arlington Cemetery yesterday for Col. Percy L. Jones, D. S. M., United States Army, retired.

Receiving his medical degree at the University of Tennessee in 1897, Col. Jones joined the First Tennessee Volunteer Infantry when the war with Spain broke out and later was commissioned in the Medical Corps.

Col. Jones was decorated for serving with "marked distinction" as commander of the United States Ambulance Service with the French armies in the World War.

Col. W. R. Shepherd To Be Buried Today

Col. William R. Shepherd, 60, who served in the ranks of both the Army and the Navy before he became an officer, will be buried in Arlington Cemetery at 10 a. m. today. Col. Shepherd died Monday at his home in Hampton, Va. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Shepherd.

Col. Shepherd was in the Navy in 1897 and 1898 and joined the Army in 1905, becoming a second lieutenant three years later. He became a colonel in 1936 and retired in 1939. He was decorated with the Military Order of the Purple Heart.

By FRED FOX and CHASE CRAIG

HE'S COMING
THERE HE IS! THAT'S ODD BODKINS!
HE'S GOT WHAT IT TAKES!
CAN I HAVE YOUR AUTOGRAPH, ODD?
HE'S CAPTURED THE IMAGINATION OF A NATION, SHARK! LOOK AT THEM FOLLOW HIM! AND YOU CAN REST ASSURED THEY'LL APE EVERYTHING HE DOES!
YOU KNOW WHAT IT WILL MEAN TO US IF THAT HAPPENS!
AND YOU KNOW WHAT WILL HAPPEN TO HIM BEFORE IT DOES!

A new and weird, but to some a "too divinely super" language is to make its debut over WJSV and the Columbia network tonight.

It's to be incorporated in the new radio series called "Maudie's Diary" and is to be heard every Thursday from 6:30 to 7 p. m.

All of a sudden you'll be hearing such expressions as "Hi, drizzle-puss," "You curdle me," "Lord and butter," "Finesse it," "dazzledish" and "Plant me a burner," to name a few, whatever they mean.

But it's the purpose of "Maudie's Diary" to reflect accurately the language of the sub-debutante, and this, we are given to understand, so help us, is it.

The series is based on the stories about Maudie by Graeme and Sarah Lorimer which you've been reading now for eight or nine years in the Ladies Home Journal and is to record, through Maudie's sympathetic eyes, the escapades and emotions of "teen-age youth in America.

"Maudie," incidentally, is to be played by Mary Mason, who's appeared on the Broadway stage in "Brother Rat," "Call It a Day," "Primrose Path" and the recent revival of "Charley's Aunt." The part of her swain, Davy, will be taken by Robert Walker.

To hear more about it, drizzle-pusses, listen in at 6:30!

Floating Log Cripples Potomac Ship Carrying 1000

Nearly 1000 persons, mostly women and children, sat aboard the S. S. Potomac off Bolling Field for 105 minutes yesterday while boatmen repaired a damaged paddle wheel which disabled the pleasure steamer.

A floating log was blamed for the accident, which occurred shortly after the boat left the Potomac River Line dock at 9 a. m. for Colonial Beach, Va. A scoop on the wheel was smashed by the floating debris, it was said.

Harbor police dispatched a patrol boat to the scene and the fireboat was held in readiness when the Potomac's plight was first reported by an incoming tug captain.

Lieut. William Carlin, harbor master, sped to the scene, but was assured that there was no danger and that the damage could be repaired by the boat's crew.

The large pleasure boat was brought close to shore while the repairs were made. Afterward she continued her journey without assistance.

Contract Bridge

"My wife prepared meat loaf for my dinner two nights in a row," H. S., a contributor, writes, "and the second night I had this dream:

"I was sitting South and the bidding went:

South	West	North	East
1 meat loaf	2 meat loaves	3 meat loaves	4 meat loaves
Pass	Past	Pass

"A life master, who was kibitzing the game, said to me: 'Why didn't you make a sacrifice bid of five meat loaves? After all, your hand is well browned and has a fine crust.'

"'Yes,' I replied, and all the time I was eating my cards."

H. S. may suffer from card fright or dyspepsia after a nightmare like that, but here is a brand to make his next game easier.

With both sides vulnerable you are sitting East and hold these cards:

♡ Q 10
◇ J 10 7 6
♣ A 9 8 7

The bidding has gone:

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 NT.	Pass	?

What call do you make?

The Answer

You have a pretty weak hand but partner's two no-trump bid over your two-club response indicates that he doesn't need much support in order to make game. Your five honor cards should be valuable at no-trump and should encourage you to take him to three no-trump.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES — Gravy Won't Slice — BY MILTON CANIFF

I DO NOT WONDER THAT THE LOVELY BURMA IS SURPRISED TO SEE CAPTAIN JUDAS IN THIS ODD PLACE, COMPLETE WITH FALSE HAIR, BEARD AND EYEBROWS!...IT HAS BEEN A LONG TIME SINCE WE WERE PARTNERS!
YEAH—I KNOW ALL THAT...BUT WHY ARE YOU HERE? WHAT'S YOUR DODGE THESE DAYS?
NOW, NOW! HOW CAN JUDAS BE SURE HIS LITTLE GOLDEN BLOSSOM IS NOT DOING A BIT OF SNOOPING FOR SOME HANDSOME POLICEMAN?
STILL THE SAME OLD TRUSTING SOUL! THE ONLY COP WHO EVER HELD BURMA'S HAND DID IT WITH A PAIR OF STEEL BRACELETS!
COME TO THINK OF IT, I LEARNED RECENTLY THAT YOU ARE STILL WANTED BY THE BRITISH FOR PIRACY!...NO HARM IN TELLING YOU THAT I AM HERE TO HI-JACK SOME VALUABLE SUPPLIES BEING DISTRIBUTED FOR CHINA RELIEF!...
A YOUNG WOMAN IS IN CHARGE!...THE MATERIAL WILL SELL FOR A GOOD PRICE IN THE PROVINCES NOT TOUCHED BY WAR! SORRY THERE ISN'T ANYTHING YOU COULD DO TO CUT YOURSELF IN!

MARY WORTH'S FAMILY — BY DALE ALLEN

ON THE MAYOR'S OWN FRONT PORCH, TOM KANE PLEADS FOR LAW AND ORDER!
YOU BOYS HAVE A REAL GRIEVANCE, BUT LET'S SETTLE IT THE AMERICAN WAY!...
VOTERS PUT GRIBBLE IN OFFICE. AND VOTERS CAN PUT HIM OUT! I WANT ALL OF YOU TO MARCH DOWN TO THE TIMES OFFICE AND SIGN RECALL PETITIONS...NOW! TONIGHT!
DALE
BY STATE LAW, GRIBBLE MUST THEN EITHER RESIGN, OR FACE ANOTHER ELECTION IN 20 DAYS--AND, WHICHEVER HE DOES, I'M SURE BOOMVILLE WILL BE RID OF HIM!
NOW YOU'RE TALKIN', TOM!

MICKEY FINN — Dead End! — BY LANK LEONARD

IT'LL HEAL QUICKLY—BUT BELIEVE ME YOU'RE A LUCKY YOUNG MAN!
I GUESS I AM!
THE COMMISSIONER IS HERE MICKEY, —C'MON!
—SO IT WAS HIM OR US, COMMISSIONER! THEY'VE GOT HIM UP IN THE OPERATING ROOM NOW AND I ONLY HOPE THEY PULL HIM THROUGH!
YOU SIMPLY DID YOUR DUTY, INSPECTOR! YOU SHOULDN'T HAVE ANY REGRETS!
I HAVEN'T! BUT WE WANT HIM TO TAKE THAT MURDER RAP! —BECAUSE THEN WE THINK HE'LL SPILL PLENTY ABOUT SOMEBODY ELSE WE WANT—OLD MAN MUFF!
OH, I SEE—WELL LET'S GO UP AND FIND OUT HOW GOOD HIS CHANCES ARE!
YOU MEAN HE'S—
YES—WE DID ALL THAT COULD BE DONE!

MR. AND MRS. — Really, What's the Use? — BY ARTHUR FOLWELL AND ELLISON HOOVER

I WISH I KNEW WHY I DIDN'T FEEL BETTER. IT'S NOT ONE THING PARTICULARLY—
I HAVE THE USUAL NUMBER OF SYMPTOMS, OF COURSE, BUT THERE'S NO SENSE GOING OVER THEM
NO
I TRY TO BE SENSIBLE ABOUT WHAT I EAT. I THINK I'VE GOT AS MUCH SENSE AS THE AVERAGE PERSON—SURE
WELL, JOE, HOW'S THE WIFE THESE DAYS?
FINE, EGBERT. NEVER BETTER

DIXIE DUGAN — Posse Sets Out — BY J. P. McEVOY AND B. J. STRIEBEL

HUNT FOR RELLINI, THE SABOTEUR, IS UNDER WAY!
THIS TIME I INSIST YOU STAY IN YOUR ROOMS—STORY OR NO STORY!
O.K., MR. HALE!
DON'T WORRY! WE CAN TAKE A HINT!
I HATE TO SEE HIM LEAD THE HUNT, DIXIE! HE'S SO BIG HE'S TOO MUCH OF A TARGET FOR RELLINI!
THAT IS, PROVIDING HE DOESN'T SEE RELLINI FIRST! HALE IS TRAINED FOR THE WOODS AND RELLINI ISN'T!
IT SHOULDN'T TAKE THEM VERY LONG TO FIND HIM—HE CAN'T GET VERY FAR IN THIS STUFF!
I DON'T KNOW ABOUT THAT——HE'S PROBABLY SO FAR FROM HERE BY THIS TIME THEY'LL NEVER FIND HIM! ANYWAY THAT'S WHAT I'M HOPING!

DON WINSLOW OF THE NAVY — Strait Jacket — BY FRANK MARTINEK

30 Strikes Holding Up Work for Army

Tanks, Planes and Machine Tools Are Delayed; Officials Express Grave Concern

By the Associated Press

War Department data showing that 30 strikes were holding up defense production on Tuesday, yesterday caused officials to express "grave concern" over the increase in work stoppages.

Since early June, the officials said, the number of men made idle by strikes in industries holding Army orders had averaged about 14,000 a day. The Tuesday figure was 23,400. Some of the walkouts, they added, had seriously affected output of planes, tanks, machine tools and chemical equipment.

While the War Department was taking stock, a strike threat developed in the Bell system's installation department which, if carried out, will shut down private communication installations in military camps, Government buildings and defense industries.

Leaders of the union involved said in New York that if other employes throughout the Bell system decided not to cross picket lines or do anything that fellow union members might regard as strike breaking activity, the result undoubtedly would be an almost complete tie-up of the Bell company's vast telephone system.

Contract negotiations broke down last week between the Association of Equipment Workers and the Western Electric Co., Inc., a Bell's system concern. Yesterday, the association, which is affiliated with the National Federation of Telephone Workers, an independent union, announced that favorable votes on strike authorizations against Western Electric had been taken in 13 cities. Locals in other cities, it said, were expected to follow suit.

Issues in the dispute include automatic progression of wages instead of the present merit system, maintenance of union membership clause, seniority and holiday pay.

A second day of negotiations in Washington brought no report of a decision on the offer of the Federal Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co. to turn its huge Kearny, N. J., plant over to the Government. L. H. Korndorff, president of the company, met with Secretary of the Navy Knox, and a Navy official said afterward that another conference would be held Thursday.

The plant is closed by a strike. Gov. Charles Edison, of New Jersey, asked Knox and other Government officials Tuesday to let the State attempt to settle the dispute before taking over the plant. Edison said in New Jersey yesterday that he had received no reply to his suggestion. He added that he had in mind naming a special three-man commission to direct negotiations under the machinery of the State mediation board.

Leaders of the C. I. O. union involved said that the Kearny strike was called because the company had refused to accept a defense mediation board's recommendation for a modified union shop. The company has contended the issue is a closed shop.

The Curtiss-Wright Corporation declined to enter into negotiations with the A. F. of L. Machinists Union over a strike which has slowed production of 100 million dollars of defense orders at the company's propeller plant at Caldwell, N. J.

The company contended that it would be illegal to meet with representatives of the A. F. of L. union inasmuch as an independent union—propeller craft—had won a recent collective bargaining election held by the Labor Relations Board.

The striking A. F. of L. workers are asking 20-cents-an-hour wage increases. The company says it is paying average wages of $50.07 a week.

Secretary Perkins certified the Caldwell strike to the Defense Mediation Board last night. The board immediately asked the men to return to work on the understanding that any wage adjustments will be retroactive to the time of return.

Aluminum Union Threatens Strike

Pittsburgh, Aug. 13 (AP).—The C. I. O. Aluminum Workers Union tonight warned Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins it will call a strike of 20,000 workers in five key plants of the Aluminum Co. of America in support of demands for elimination of North-South wage differentials, unless the Government intervenes in the dispute.

N. A. Zonarich, international president of the union, announced the action after negotiations with the company collapsed. No date for a possible strike was mentioned.

Aluminum Co. officials have insisted throughout negotiations that the system of prevailing wage scales is economically the soundest one. M. M. Anderson, personnel director, quoted from a recent address by President Roosevelt as supporting this view.

The union has contracts with the company covering workers in Badin, N. C.; Alcoa, Tenn.; Edgewater, N. J.; Detroit, Mich., and New Kensington, Pa.

The 8,000 workers in Badin and Alcoa, both located in agricultural districts, now are paid a minimum of 55 cents an hour. Workers at New Kensington receive a minimum of 73 cents an hour and those at Edgewater and Detroit, 75 cents an hour.

'Foe' Swarms Northwest in Mimic War

By the Associated Press

Fort Lewis, Wash., Aug. 13.—Mythical troops moved back and forth across the Pacific Northwest tonight with ceaseless fury after a crushing invasion opened maneuvers today.

Tomeet the enemy rushing inland at a dozen different points. Maj. Gen. Kenyon A. Joyce, commander of the Ninth Army Corps, ordered both the Forty-first and Third Divisions, comprising 35,000 troops, to start marching for the invasion ports. An additional 15,000 men also will be stationed in the area.

The movement of the defending Forty-first and Third Divisions was only theoretical today, but the troops are scheduled to take up actual field positions tomorrow.

Taken by Surprise

The Forty-first will take up position west of Centralia. The Third Division, a streamlined unit, will guard the State capital, Olympia.

Army officials at Fort Lewis, growing stale from a 48-hour wait, were thrown back on their heels shortly before 3 o'clock this morning when the enemy appeared in four different places on the coast.

It was not many minutes before Fort Worden, the only bastion against enemy ships in Puget Sound, was put completely out of commission. The assault was so terrific that a plea by Brig. Gen. James H. Cunningham, commander of the fort, for immediate reinforcements went unheeded.

McChord Field 'Wrecked'

The furious paper war continued with a sudden bombardment of the Army's 12-million-dollar McChord Field which wrecked half the bombing planes and shattered all runways. Col. William H. Crom, reported he had not even had a chance to get his planes in the air.

The chief of police at Aberdeen phoned to report 10 troop transports were sailing into the harbor accompanied by innumerable enemy warships. They were meeting no resistance, he said.

Seaside, Ore., fashionable beach resort, was swamped by the invader, said reports. The enemy immediately began sending armored vehicles north and east toward Portland.

Bill Offered To Aid Small Businesses

Senator O'Mahoney (Democrat), of Wyoming, introduced legislation yesterday which he termed an effort to prevent "bankruptcy for thousands of small manufacturers and unemployment of millions of workers."

He offered amendments to the defense priorities law of last May 31 which he declared "is defective in that it does not provide any method by which the manufacturer threatened by a complete deprivation of raw material may make his predicament known."

Under the proposed legislation, any person whose business operations were affected adversely would be granted a hearing by an agency designated by the President. If this showed a "serious unemployment problem" would result, then the President would allocate materials "necessary to prevent a substantial hardship to the applicant, his employes or consumers."

O'Mahoney said that operations under present defense priorities indicated that many factories must close "while the small manufacturer cannot make himself heard," he said, "the big operator is here in Washington and is being heard to such effect that he is not only getting the bulk of the defense contracts but is piling up inventories of raw material. A small portion of it would save many factories and many communities from the disasters which threaten them."

Martin Warns Nation Of Need for Aid

Wareham, Mass., Aug. 13 (INS).—Representative Joe Martin, of Massachusetts, Republican leader of the national House, tonight sounded a warning that small business and industry must be given national defense work or the Nation's entire economy will be undermined, and dictatorship will become imminent.

Speaking before the Rotary Club, Martin declared that thousands of small industrial and business plants throughout the country, comprising "99 per cent of all business," face closing because "Army or Navy officials or some bureaucrats in the Administration do not want to deal with several small firms instead of one big one."

He asserted not more than 25 per cent of the Nation's machine tool capacity is being utilized because the Army, Navy and defense "bureaucrats" will not deal with small firms.

"Small tool manufacturers all over the United States are pleading for a chance to lend their aid in the national preparedness," he said. "While the Government is urging and pleading for the manufacture of great quantities of machine tools, factories which could manufacture these tools in the necessary types are completely idle or partially idle in all parts of the country."

Senate Probes Ex-Industrial Aides in OPM

Evidence that seven corporations holding $2,882,000,000 in defense contracts have former employes or representatives in the Office of Production Management was submitted yesterday to the special Senate committee investigating defense.

Committee Chairman Truman (Democrat), of Missouri, introduced into committee records a report, requested from OPM, giving this information. It did not name any of the persons, but listed the following firms:

United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel Corporation, Chrysler Corporation, Curtis-Wright Corporation, General Motors, General Electric and United Aircraft.

Biggers Is Questioned

Senator Connally (Democrat), of Texas, questioned OPM Production Director John D. Biggers on "rumors" that employes of OPM were using their influence to obtain contracts for firms with which they had been affiliated. Connally said OPM should have opportunity to "air the matter publicly."

Biggers replied that Director Knudsen had instituted a policy for employment of men who are familiar with industrial problems but who would not personally involve their firms in their decisions.

Biggers said several large firms who had loaned experts to OPM received contracts because it was necessary to employ companies with experience in mass production.

Connally remarked that this was "no vice" if the employe involved "uses no undue influence and if the industry offers the best contract."

Offers to Probe Contracts

Biggers told the committee that in such an organization as OPM, with 200 employes drawn from private business, it was "inevitable that the companies these people were formerly connected with should get some business."

He told the committee that he would investigate any contracts the committee might believe "questionable."

Walter Goldhamer, of Cleveland, spokesman for the American Die-casting Institute, warned the committee that 5000 manufacturing plants face possible curtailment or shutdown because of a threatened lack of castings.

Theft Victim Claims He Was Hypnotized

Boonsboro, Md., Aug. 13.—Sheriff's officers sought three gypsy women today after they were alleged by G. B. Hutzell, 60, South Mountain fruit stand proprietor, to have hypnotized and robbed him of money and peaches.

Hutzell told Sheriff Joseph D. Baker he was aware of what was going on, could see and hear but was powerless to act as one of the women took $8 from his wallet, drank a bottle of pop and then took a basket of peaches as they departed.

House Price Control Hearing To Be Recessed Until Sept. 15

By the Associated Press

The House Banking Committee decided yesterday that its hearings on price control legislation will be recessed tomorrow until September 15.

Democratic and Republican members said the committee felt that it would be almost impossible to continue hearings while the House is in recess from August 18 to mid-September. They said there was no evidence of any intention to "filibuster" the legislation.

Leon Henderson, price administrator, told the committee on his eighth day of testimony yesterday that he looked for a "great trade war" to follow the military war in Europe, "in which the usual standards and relations to price will be abandoned."

"I am quite sure," he added, "that unless we have a price level which can compete with countries which have kept price levels in line we will be hopelessly out."

He said he "absolutely" did not advocate price control as a permanent policy.

He declared a series of legitimate demands for wage increases in many industries will be inescapable unless the Administartation price control bill and other regulatory measures are put into operation.

"If we allow things to go on as at present," he said, "I don't believe we could escape a set of legitimate demands by the first of the year—when many contracts expire—for wage increases, based on cost of living increases.

"It seems inescapable that you'd have this kind of pressure, regardless of whether it came from organized or unorganized labor, Federal employes, school teachers, or what have you."
